Hog sale sets some records

Some new records were established and others held up as the Junior Fair barrow sale took place Wednesday evening at the Fayette County Fair in the sales arena.

Beth Jenks' 220-pound grand champion went for $400 cwt. ($4 per pound), a total of $880, to Clark's Cardinal Supermarket of Washington C. H.

The reserve champion owned by Rusty Coe was sold to the Sabina branch of the Clinton County National Bank for $215 cwt. The 215-pound hog brought a total of $462.25.

The total selling price of the 281 head of hogs was $54,059.80, which was $20,602.50 above Wednesday's market price of $58 cwt. The average prices for the singles and the whole lot both set new records this year.

The 134 singles averaged $121.35 cwt., a new record eclipsing the old mark, established a year ago, at $111.94 cwt. for the singles.

The overall average for the more than 28 tons of pork sold by auctioneer Merlin Woodruff of Urbana was $93.72 cwt., well above last year's record of $75.26 cwt.

Council becomes landlord

City to assist plant by issuance of bonds

Two pieces of legislation authorizing the city to issue first mortgage revenue bonds to assist a local industry were approved by Washington C. H. City Council Wednesday night.

After issuing the bonds in the amount of $700,000 throughout the state, the city will, in effect, purchase property presently owned by Raven Industries, Inc. on Kenskill Avenue in the city industrial park.

The city would then lease the real and personal property back to Raven Industries.

Raven Industries, Inc., located on a 6.07-acre tract in the industrial park, has been in operation here since January. The firm manufactures fiberglass and polyethylene tanks for agricultural use.

The action will offer the firm additional capital at a low interest rate. Municipal bonds have a lower interest rate than bank loans.

John Fisher, an associate of Peck, Shaffer and Williams, a Cincinnati law firm which prepared the arrangements for the issuance of the revenue bonds, attended Wednesday's meeting.

Fisher explained to Council members that through the issuance of bonds, the city is actually offering the industry its ability to borrow money at a tax-exempt rate of interest.

He said the lease agreement between the city and Raven Industries will be equal to the debt service on the notes. All real estate taxes will also be paid according to the lease agreement.

Fisher explained that the city is under no financial responsibility because the bonds would be guaranteed by the state industrial development fund.

The Cincinnati attorney also pointed out the city will not be liable should the industry default on its debt payments since the action would be turned over a trustee. The Provident Bank of Cincinnati will serve as the trustee.

"In effect, the city will become a landlord," Fisher explained.

Fisher requested that the rules on both pieces of legislation be suspended and the measures be approved as emergencies in order that the underwriters could sell the bonds immediately. The request was granted.

Proposal again surfaces for discussion

City Council ponders income tax slash

By MIKE FLYNN
Record-Herald Editor

Discussion concerning the possible reduction of the one per cent city income tax again surfaced at Washington C.H. City Council's meeting Wednesday night.

Council members John E. Rhoads and Donald E. Wood said they were prepared Wednesday night to sponsor a motion to have legislation prepared to eliminate one-half of the city's present one per cent income tax effective October 1.

Wood originally proposed the income tax reduction at the June 25 meeting and has now been joined in the effort by Rhoads.

Council imposed a one per cent income tax by a 5-2 vote effective April 1 in an attempt to overcome a financial pinch. Rhoads opposed the measure. "I think we should consider the proposal while we're reviewing our budget and if it's feasible let's act on it," Wood stated.

The discussion on the income tax reduction began while the city's legislators were pondering initiative petitions which are being circulated in an attempt to repeal the income tax ordinance.

"There's a possibility that the (repeal) petitions would be rescinded if we reduce the income tax," Rhoads said.

Rhoads also pointed out that the city "should forget" about asking Washington C.H. voters to renew two tax levies at the November general election.

"In my opinion we should seriously consider the income tax reduction and forget about the expiring tax levies." he said.

City Council chairman Ralph Cook suggested that the city's legislators hold either a work session or special meeting to consider the matters.

MEANWHILE, it was announced during the meeting that Council is continuing to interview candidates for the vacant city manager's post.

"We've had some candidates with experience and some without," Cook said.

Washington C.H. has been without a city manager since July 11 when Dan Wolford's resignation became effective.

Council member Billie Wilson suggested that Cook appoint a committee of two persons to schedule a meeting with John Colman, director of the Ohio Municipal League in Columbus, on the possibility of locating more candidates.

The city is also searching for an income tax administrator, a position filled by Wolford in the past.

Mayor fights nudist boom with paint

PARIS (AP) — The mayor of a Corsican fishing village is fighting a rear guard action against the spread of nudism on French beaches this summer but indications are that the advocates of no swimwear, or "zerokinis," will triumph.

Pierre Morganti, mayor of Ogliastro, attracted nationwide attention with his squad of volunteers who chase after nudists on the village beach to daub them with blue paint. Morganti's action has aroused controversy between conservatives who applaud him and others who accuse him of violating civil liberties.

The government of President Valery Giscard d'Estaing has thus far avoided taking a stand on the issue. Chances are it will come down on the side of permissiveness, in line with a recent decision to abolish film and theater censorship and bar only minors under 18 from hard-core pornography.

Despite occasional outbursts of indignation among right-wing Gaullists and in traditionally conservative areas such as Corsica, municipalities all along France's Mediterranean, Atlantic and Channel coasts are one by one giving up the struggle against public nudism.

In a departure from the straight-laced attitudes of his two predecessors, Giscard d'Estaing has let it be known that he does not approve of gendarmes who hide behind sand dunes to ambush nude bathers and march them off to jail. But since local authorities have much freedom in establishing their own by-laws, total nudism is still banned in the biggest and most prominent beach resorts.

Hike becomes effective July 30

Wage increase approved for 41 county employes

By SANDY FOSSON

Thje Fayette County Board of Commissioners have approved a $350 across-the-board pay increase to 41 county employes in the Fayette County Courthouse and Fayette County Sheriff's Department.

According to Ray Warner, chairman of the Fayette County Board of Commissioners, the yearly pay raise will become effective July 30 and will appear on the August 15 county employes pay checks.

The salary increase will cost the commssioners $6,143 for the remaining 11 pay periods of 1975 and approximately $14,520 for the calendar year 1976.

While the 1976 pay raise will be budgeted along with the county commissioners' annual appropriations, Warner said funds for the remaining pay periods during 1975 have been provided from an "unanticipated emergency fund" set aside by the commissioners at the first of the year.

Warner said he and the other two members of the commission, Robert J. Mace and J. Herbert Perrill, voted to add the increase to the 41 county employes salaries after reviewing the increase in the cost of living and commending the "high-caliber" employes now working in the courthouse and Fayette County Sheriff's Department.

Warner said the pay increase does not affect elected county officials due to their salaries being predetermined by state law based upon population.

The increase will also exclude seven employes of the sheriff's department under state-controlled programs such as the Comprehensive Employment and Training Act (CETA) and Title 6; the Fayette County welfare and health departments, which operate under their own budgets with subsidies from the county commission; and the Fayette County prosecuting attorney's office.

Included under the pay raise will be the 41 regular employes of the courthouse and sheriff's department with the exception of the elected officials.

A breakdown discloses that 12 members under the sheriff's department, one county commissioners' clerk, eight clerks of court, four Probate Court employes, five employes of the county auditor's office, three in the county treasurer's office, two in the county recorder's office, two in the Common Pleas Court office and four janitorial employes will be affected by the increase.

ARE YOU a pinball wizard?. . .

If so, and if you're under 17 years of age, you could be prosecuted. . .

City Council Wednesday night announced that an ordinance in effect since 1947 prohibits persons under 17 years of age to play mechanical amusement devices. . .

The matter surfaced when preliminary arrangements were completed recently by a person to establish a "penny arcade" type of business with 21 pinball machines in a room at the Washington Square Shopping Center. . .

The city licenses all pinball machines inside the corporation limits and Council members agreed that the forgotten ordinance should be enforced or eliminated. . .

Police officers will be enforcing the ordinance by checking licenses at all business places with pinball machines.

THE 1975 Ohio State Fair advance ticket sale will be extended through Aug. 15, according to an announcement by State Fair officials and state 4-H leaders. . .

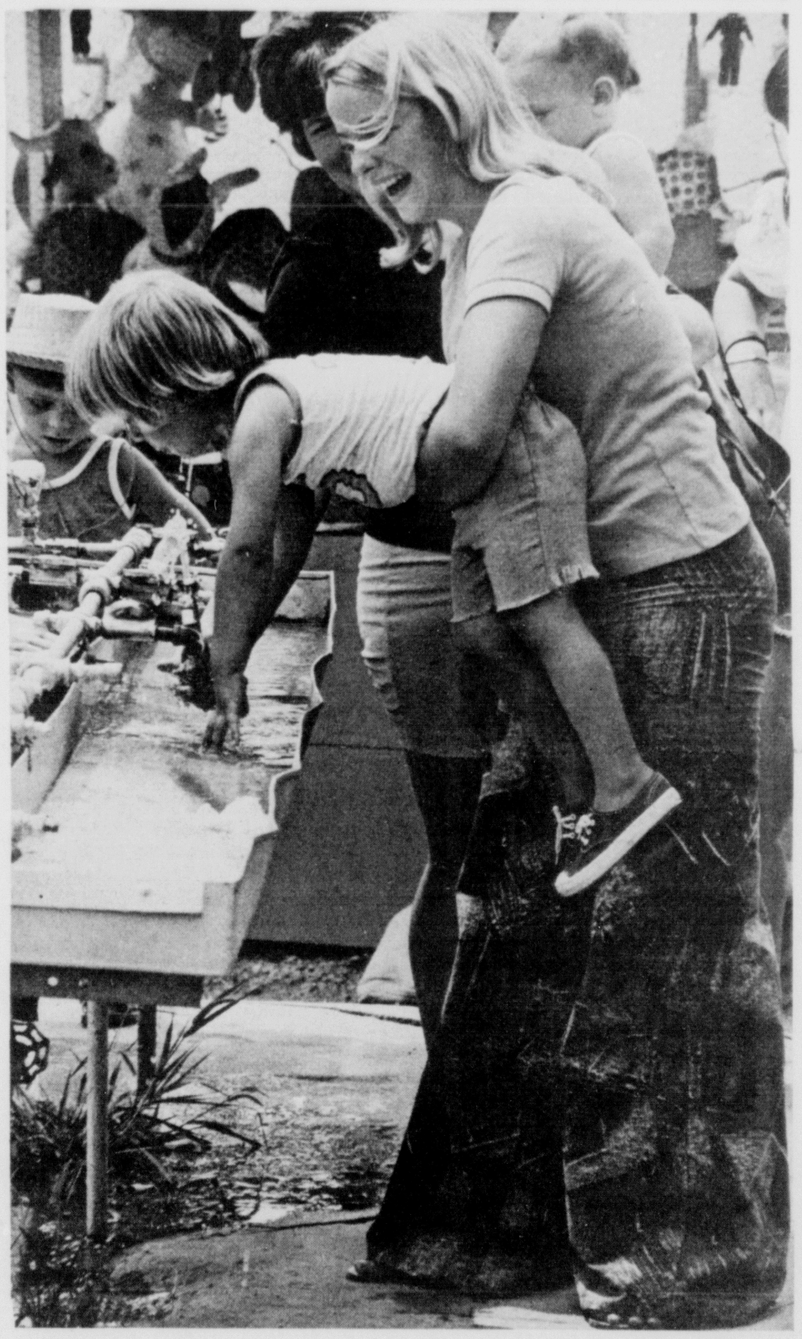

This year's sale is being conducted by Ohio 4-H members and is based on a three-way incentive program by the State Fair. . .

For every advance sale ticket sold at $1.50 by a member, his or her club will receive 25 cents; an additional 10 cents of every ticket sold will go to the Ohio 4-H Foundation endowment fund; the State Fair will also award $4,000 in cash prizes to 262 top-selling 4-H members. . .

The top prize is $300. . .

State Fair officials are pleased with the rsults of the Advance Ticket Sale so far, and are projecting a 50 per cent increase in sales over previous years. .

The 1975 State Fair will get underway Aug. 21, and continue through Labor Day, Sept. 1. . .

Over 3,000 attend fair

Large crowd drawn by hog sale, races

By MARK REA

The Junior Fair hog sale and final night of harness horse racing attracted a crowd of 3,346 paying customers into the Fayette County Fair Wednesday.

The highlight of the evening was the selling of Beth Jenks' grand champion barrow which paid a handsome $400 cwt. Beth will receive $880 for her champion Hamp-Duroc cross as a result.

Buyers of the hog were Dareld Clark and Dale Stevens of Clark's Cardinal Supermarket in Washington C.H. The bid, however, did not set a record. The record was set last year at $475 cwt.

The Sabina branch Clinton County National Bank purchased Rusty Coe's 215-pound reserve grand champion with a bid of $215 cwt. The record, again, was established last year at $355 cwt.

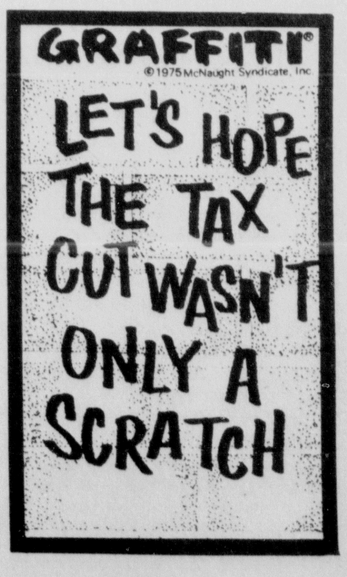

A total of 281 hogs were sold by auctioneer Merlin Woodruff of Urbana for a price of $50,059.80, a new Junior Fair record. The average price paid for single and whole lot hogs were also new records.

Racing fans saw Little Steady Guy win the three-year-old Ohio Colt Racing Association's pace, and paid $2.40, $2.20, and $2.60. Edwina Mahoney took the featured Adios Butler Filly Pace - for three-year-old fillies. The filly turned the mile in 2:08.2 to take the pace.

Thursday marks the second year for a relatively new and extremely popular event at the Fayette County Fair. A tractor pull will be held in front of the grandstand beginning at 7 p.m. The pull will feature both stock tractors and some heavily-modified models, some with dual engines. A grandstand admission will be charged.

lamb and also the grand champion market pen of three. The reserve champion was owned by Doug Johnson. The reserve champion pen of three were exhibited by Jill Schlichter.

More than 200 market lambs will be auctioned at 6 p.m. Thursday in the second of three livestock sales at the Junior Fair. The sale will be held in the sales arena.

In addition, to the lamb judging, open class rabbits were judged. On Thursday, Junior Fair rabbits, poultry, and dog care and obedience will all be judged at various times.

Thursday's activities also include the Junior Fair steer show and the "Showman of Showmen" contest, featuring top senior showmen from the dairy, beef, horse, swine, and lamb contests.

Also on top will be garden club flower arrangements judging Thursday afternoon in the Fine Arts building.

U.S. closes chapter of space history

Apollo hurtles homeward

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — The last Apollo comes home from space today, ending a history-making flight with the Russians and closing a pioneering chapter in the U.S. space program.

Astronauts Thomas P. Stafford, Vance D. Brand and Donald K. Slayton steered their Apollo toward a fiery reentry and a 5:20 p.m. EDT splashdown in the Pacific Ocean 200 miles west of Hawaii.

They were awakened for their final day in space with a country and Western song called "Redneck Mother," sung by Jerry Jeff Walker.

"The party's over. Time to come home," Mission Control told the spacemen.

The carrier USSS New Orleans waited in the recovery zone to make the last ocean pickup planned in the U.S. space program. Mission Control said the area had good weather today.

Stafford, Brand and Slayton are the last Americans to fly into space for at least four years, perhaps until early in the next decade.

Future astronauts must await the Space Shuttle, the reflyable rocket plane that will operate much like an airliner, landing on concrete runways.

The last Apollo crew returns after nine days in space during which it laid a foundation for a new age of space cooperation with the Soviet Union after linking with a Soyuz spaceship and working in orbit for two days with two cosmonauts.

The cosmonauts, Alexei Leonov and Valeri Kubasov, returned safely to earth Monday. They hold a news conference in Moscow today.

In a news conference from space Wednesday, Apollo commander Stafford said the major accomplishment of the joint flight was the completion with the Soviets of a "very difficult and tedious task.

"It can show that in spite of great political differences, if people meet commitments, then a lot can be achieved."

During the 32-minute telecast conference, the three astronauts forecast man will find new uses for space, that America and Russia will cooperate in new missions and that American women will fly in the Space Shuttle.

Stafford, veteran of four space flights, said he regrets the end of an era of the U.S. space program that sent 71 men away from earth on 31 missions over the last 14 years.

He said that with the reflyable Shuttle "you're going to see space become more and more a somewhat routine type of operation."

Slayton, on his first mission after a 16-year wait on the ground because of a slight heart problem, said the last Apollo was so problem free "I haven't done anything my 91-year-old aunt up in Wisconsin couldn't have done equally well."

From her room in a Sparta, Wis., nursing home, the aunt, Sadie Link, hestitated when asked if she'd like to fly in space.

"That's a difficult question," she said. "I like to travel, though."

Brand, also making his first space flight, called it "the greatest experience I've ever had. It's just been super."

Brand also predicted "in the years to come we will have women in space. I think the first good chance will be in the Shuttle era."

The astronauts wound up most of the earth observation, astronomy and other scientific experiments Wednesday.

In Moscow, meanwhile, space officials said the astronauts and cosmonauts of Apollo-Soyuz may make a world tour together.

But space officials in Washington said they could not confirm plans for a tour.

Stock list posts gain

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was up 5.16 at 841.83 at noon, but gainers trailed losers in the over-all New York Stock Exchange tally by about a 3-2 margin.

In the economic news, Arthur F. Burns, chairman of the Federal Reserve Board, confirmed that the Fed had taken steps recently that had resulted in higher interest rates. But he indicated that the only aim of those moves was to counteract the surge in the money supply caused by income tax rebates distributed in May and June.

The Big Board's composite index of all its listed common stocks was up .04 at 48.44.

United Brands warrants led the active list on the Amex, up 1-16 at 13-16.

Jobless rate rises

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The influx of students entering the labor market for permanent or summer jobs boosted Ohio's unemployment rate by nearly one per cent in June, the Ohio Bureau of Employment Services has reported.

But that June increase to 9.1 per cent from May's 8.3 per cent is normal, the bureau said. If the volume of "new entrants" were excluded from the figure, the unemployment rate for June would be unchanged from May.

Ohio's May and June unemployment figures were the same as the national rates, the bureau said.

An estimated 446,000 Ohioans were jobless last month, out of a labor force totaling slightly more than 4.9 million.

Overall employment figures, the bureau said, were up one per cent from May and represented 4.46 million workers. That number, however, was a decline of 2.4 per cent from the number employed in June of last year.

Janitor marriage probably illegal

CEDAR LAKE, Ind. (AP) — The validity of a marriage of an Indiana couple by a janitorminister in Minneapolis is in doubt.

James Craig, 21, and Kathleen Michaels showed up late for an appointment with a judge and were married by the janitor who was an Assembly of God minister working his way through graduate shool.

On Wednesday, police here said that Miss Michaels, who had given her age as 18, was 14-years-old and had been reported missing. Minnesota does not allow persons under 16 to marry.

"I'm shocked," said the Rev. Thomas Byrtus, who performed the ceremony.

Chrysler recalls 1,300 workers

DETROIT (AP) — Indefinite layoffs at Chrysler Corp. will drop to 16,900 next week with the opening of a second shift at the truck plant in Warren, Mich., the company said today.

Chrysler said about 1,300 hourly workers will be recalled to work the added shift, while another 800 workers will be called back in the general manufacturing division to make parts for the added truck output.

The nation's No. 3 automaker said it will again operate seven of its eight U.S. assembly plants next week as the Belvidere, Ill., factory wraps up a two-week shutdown to reduce inventories. Some 4,025 workers are on temporary layoffs at Belvidere.

Compromise reached on malpractice bill

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A joint conference commmittee today approved a compromise between House and Senate versions of legislation designed to deal with the medical malpractice insurance crisis.

Agreement came after a daylong deadlock Wednesday over limitations on attorneys' fees and double recovery by victims in malpractice cases. The panel approved 6-0 a bill that would water down both sections.

The conferees scrapped a legislative contingency fee schedule and asked the Ohio Surpeme Court to establish limits on lawyers' fees. The House-Senate committee recommended that the court set a maximum fee of one-third of a claimants settlement for attorneys at the common pleas court level.

Under a new collateral source rule, personal benefits would be deducted from malpractice legal settlements only when the claimant did not pay directly or indirectly for the benefits, such as for workmen's compensation or welfare payments.

The Senate version of the collateral source rule had called for deductions of most personal benefits from any subsequent court awards.

The committee's action marked a victory for the Ohio Bar Association and the United Auto Workers, both of whom opposed the limitations on attorneys fees and insurance recovery.

Rep. William Hinig, D-96 New Philadelphia, said he expected to bring the plan to a floor vote in the House late today.

It loomed as a major obstacle to summer adjournment of the legislature, tentatively scheduled for Aug. 1, along with issues that include state aid to schools, collective bargaining, rape law revision and workmen's compensation.

The list always grows and intensifies as individual lawmakers bring out sidetracked pet projects to use for horse trading in the waning days. Some of those began to surface Wednesday.

Conferees on the malpractice bill haggled most of the day over provisions that would limit attorneys' fees and restrict double recovery from both personal insurance benefits and malpractice legal settlements.

The House-Senate panel found itself split, with a three lawyer-legislators opposed to both limitations and two non-lawyer members seeking to retain them.

Twice the committee appeared close to a compromise that would drop one or the other of the controversial provisions.

But both deals fell through, and the committee members broke off discussions early in the evening, announcing plans to meet again today.

House Speaker Vernal G. Riffe Jr., D-89 New Boston, who is pressing for final legislative action, warned however: "At the rate they're going, we might have to appoint a new conference committee unless they get something done soon."

Both chambers planned to meet Friday, instead of adjourning as they normally do from Thursday to Monday.

Lima woman killed in Columbus crash

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Celia M. Pohlabel, 25, of Lima, was killed early today when her car was struck by another that pulled out of a side street, Columbus police said.

Direct negotiations demanded by Rabin

By The Associated Press

An Israeli government source said today Egypt has "accepted in general terms" Israel's concept for an interim agreement in the Sinai.

It was not known whether Egypt had also agreed to Prime Minister Yithak Rabin's call Wednesday night for the withdrawl accord to be completed "in direct negotiations" between the two countries.

The Israeli negotiating team, comprised of Rabin, Foreign Minister Yigal Allon and Defense Minister Shimon Peres, met today to discuss the Egyptian reply to the latest Israeli proposals received Wednesday night from Washington. Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger had conveyed the Egyptian stand to Israeli Ambassador Simcha Dinitz.

A government source in Jerusalem said that, while the Egyptians accepted Israel's concept of a strong defense line in Sinai, details of the line still had to be worked out. Also to be decided, the source said, was the future of Israeli radar stations in the Sinai mountains and curtailment of anti-Israel political and economic activity by Egypt.

The source said issues in the agreement dealing with IsraeliU.S. relations had been nearly settled. These included the value of American economic assistance and American aid in replacing oil supplies which would be lost if Israel withdrew from the Sinai oilfield of Abu Rudeis. Israel now draws more than 50 per cent of its oil needs from the occupied Egyptian field, which will be returned as part of any agreement.

Rabin's speech Wednesday night appeared to add a new condition to agreement on another Sinai withdrawal.

"At the last phase of the negotiations, before an agreement is signed between Egypt and Israel there must be face-to-face meetings between delegations of our two countries," Rabin said Wednesday.

Sources close to Rabin said the signing might take place in Geneva no sooner than Sept. 1.

They said the final stage may be preceded by another diplomatic shuttle by Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger.

In Washington, however, President Ford said differences "are still very serious" and U.S. efforts to ease tensions in the Middle East "might not work."

Rabin spoke after Egyptian Foreign Minister Ismail Fahmy announced Egypt's agreement to extend the mandate for the United Nations buffer force in the Sinai desert until Oct. 24. That mandate was to expire today.

Fahmy said President Anwar Sadat's original decision against an extension "awoke the world to the dangerous possibilities in the area and forced all the directly concerned parties, such as Israel, and the indirectly concerned parties, such as the United States, to confront their responsibilities."

Egypt had opposed the extension on grounds that Israel was using the 3,919-man force in the seven-mile-wide buffer zone to perpetuate its occupation of Egyptian land in a "no-war no-peace" situation.

Levi blames public for crime increase

WASHINGTON (AP) — Atty. Gen. Edward H. Levi blames the nation's continuing increase in crime on frightened judges, a complacent public, and prosecutors and police who are reluctant to enforce laws in black communities.

"Judges throughout the United States are afraid to enforce the criminal law," Levi said in response to questions about the crime rate during a Voice of America interview recorded Wednesday for broadcast Saturday.

Asked whether he believed the American public "accepts the high level of crime," Levi replied, "Yes, I do. It's amazing."

He continued, "We have a very erroneous notion on the part of many people in prosecutors' offices and in police departments that there was some unfairness in enforcing the criminal law because it might hit at certain groups, that it might be harsh on minority groups."

But the attorney general added, "The opposite is true. That kind of attitude which has given fewer services to the inner city, therefore less fire protection, fewer playgrounds, and above all, less enforcement of the criminal law, is a terrible way to treat a minority population, and I think that is now coming to be realized.

Levi said he expects "great changes, really, in our success in handling this."

He cited the Ford administration's proposal for mandatory minimum prison sentences for violent and serious federal offenders.

However, the administration proposal would not reach most violent attacks and street crimes because they are violations of state law, not federal law.

Mission control falling silent

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) Always before, there was another mission; always before, there was another American waiting to vault into space.

Now there are no more, at least for years to come.

The console screens in mission control go dark, to sleep until they are awakened some day by the Space Shuttle.

The voice of Apollo stills, for Apollo will be no more. Just as Gemini and Mercury, the generations before it, are no more.

Mercury was the hesitant stab into space. With Gemini, spacecraft lost their running boards: men learned to live in space, to walk in space, to meet in space.

Apollo was the dream that began as a nightmare. It had not yet left the ground with men when three astronauts died in rehearsal for the flight to come.

But always there was another mission. Apollo flew.

Apollo 7, around the earth.

Apollo 8. From around the moon, men read from Genesis. "In the beginning...." A manmade star was in the sky on Christmas Eve.

Apollo 9, a test of the lunar lander near earth.

Coming as they did, in twomonth intervals, the flights generated excitement even as they stretched man's reach from his planet.

Eagle. The ungainly, spindlelegged creature of man's technology, designed to take men to the moon and to rocket them off again.

"The Eagle has landed," said Neil Armstrong on July 20, 1969. Man was speaking from the moon. The unconquerable had been conquered.

Apollo 11 proved it could be done. Why again?

Because we could no more learn what the entire moon is like from one sampling than another planet's spacecraft could learn from the earth with a single visit. So always there was another mission.

Apollo 12, a scientific package, remained on the moon, to take its measurements to this very day.

Apollo 13. An explosion riveted the world's attention on the desperate plight of three fragile men 200,000 miles from home. The triumph was that they survived.

Always there was another mission. Apollo 14, Apollo 15, Apollo 16, all moon landings; all successful.

Apollo 17, the last visit. Twelve men with American flags on their sleeves had walked on the moon.

Now, Apollo turned its attention to earth. Skylab. Scientists looking homeward from a space laboratory — 29 days, 59 days, 84 days.

And still there was another mission, a final one aimed at easing the tensions on earth.

On two continents, mighty boosters sent three Americans and two Russians aloft, to meet above the earth for a handshake.

As if to improve on the plan, the men hugged — an unforgettable moment in an era of unforgettable moments.

Now, Apollo is finished. A glorious time is over.

There is no other mission.

Let's tour Ohio series

A scenic auto trip along the Ohio River from Portsmouth to Point Pleasant with possible short-side-trips to Kentucky and into Ohio's Highland and Adams Counties feature AAA's suggested tour this week.

Why not a car pool-take the entire family, or relatives or neighbors? It's a chance to share the wheel and the gasoline.

PORTSMOUTH

(1) Portsmouth. Once a bustling river trade center, the city sees only occasional tow boats and barges. Subject to disastrous floods in the past from the Ohio and Scioto Rivers, the city is protected by a huge 77-foot floodwall. River Days are held annually for five days prior to and including Labor Day, featuring boat races.

(2) Shawnee State Park. . .12 miles southwest of Portsmouth on Ohio 125 near Friendship. 664-acre recreational tract lies within 57,000 acre Shawnee State Forest. Swimming, fishing, boating and camping available at 17-acre Roosevelt Lake.

(3) Horsehoe Mound, Mound Park, Hutchins Avenue between Grant and 17th Avenues, Portsmouth. Horseshoe Mound is located in the public park, along with other mounds used by the Indians in this area.

(4) Greenup Locks and Dam, 10 miles upstream from Portsmouth. Best viewed from Kentucky side with Riverview observation platform and recreational area. New facilities now elevate tows in 20 minutes.

RIPLEY

(5) Rankin House. Restored home of Rev. John Rankin, early Ohio Abolitionist. A station on the underground railroad, it is reputedly the home in which Eliza, in Uncle Tom's Cabin, found refuge crossing the ice on the Ohio River here. Admission charge. Closed Mondays.

HIGHLAND COUNTY

(6) Fort Hill, 18 miles southeast of Hillsboro, three miles north of Sinking Springs on Ohio 41. Prehistoric Indian hilltop earthworks and natural history preserve. Daylight hours. Picnicking. Museum of prehistoric Hopewell Indians and natural history. Closed Mondays.

ADAMS COUNTY

(7) Serpent Mound, four miles northwest of Locust Grove on Ohio 73. Largest serpent effigy mound in the U.S. Scenic gorge. Daylight hours. Picnicking. Museum, daylight hours.

PEEBLES

(8) Edwin H. Davis State Memorial, 3½ miles southwest of Ohio 41 on Ohio 129. Nature preserve covering 88 acres. Plants, trees, found here include redbud, tulip trees, arrowwood linden, black walnut, red cedar, witch hazel and wild hydrangeas. Nature trails. Open daylight hours.

POINT PLEASANT

(9) Grant Birthplace, north on U.S. 52 and Ohio 232. State memorial house of Gen. Ulysses S. Grant. 18th President of the United States was born here April 27, 1822. House has been carefully restored. Adjoining the property is a state roadside park. Admission charge. Closed Monday.

AAA urges you to drive carefully and suggests this routing to the tour area: From Washington C.H. take Rt. 62 south through Hillsboro and on into Ripley. Continue east along the river on Rt. 52 to the points of interest around Portsmouth. Return home by Rt. 73, with a side trip to Peebles, and on to Hillsboro picking up Rt. 62 back to Washington C.H.

Letters to the Editor

EDITOR, RECORD-HERALD:

In regard to the July 18 edition, I'm writing about the article by State Representative Bob McEwen.

I do agree with Bob on some of his standings and thinking, but there are some that I don't. One of them is his statement on the security that the army gives you. The article said "It offers an annual minimum income, wakes you up in the morning, puts you to bed at night, feeds, clothes and buries you; it even has life insurance for your survivors. All you pay for this is your freedom."

These are Mr. McEwen's words not mine.

Just where would your freedom be, Mr. McEwen, if it were not for people like that? That statement as far as I'm concerned went over like a lead balloon. As a veteran I want to speak out and defend the army and all the other branches of the service that protect our country and its people and even you.

Also on this free enterprise, you speak about big business helping to abolish it day by day. Just this past week Congressman Harsha's article stated about the oil industry jacking up the prices on the eve of the Fourth of July which they had no reason to do. He stated last year the produced 90 per cent capacity and this year it is 83 per cent. They are producing less and making more profit. I am opposed to socialism, and I oppose it with a passion but when free enterprise does things like this it is leading the country into it. I have had the privilege to talk to a man from Sweden and he explained their situation and he agreed with me that socialism is no good.

But what has brought things like the anti-trust laws and minimum wage law because of the free enterprise would not do any thing more than the law prescribes.

I have talked to some people around here and the southern part of the state about working. They stated "Why should I work when I can do better on welfare?" I believe in an honest day's pay for an honest day's work, not hand outs.

Mr. McEwen, I have the highest respect for you and your ability, but those two points rubbed me the wrong way. Until free enterprise gets less greedy I think we will continue to have this problem.

EDITOR, RECORD-HERALD:

Rumors have circulated that Morris Bean and Company, Cedarville, (whose employes have been on strike for the past 14 weeks) will discharge committeemen and others leading the strike when an agreement is reached.

In a recent meeting with company negotiators, the union sought to ascertain whether this, in fact, was the company's position.

To resolve this matter, the union requested the company to provide a written statement that no striking employe of the firm would be discharged because of his or her participation in the strike to this point. The company refused to issue such a statement.

Because of this refusal, the union can only believe that the company plans disciplinary action and a number of employes are to be fired. After all, if the company was not going to fire committeemen and others, they surely would not mind saying so in writing.

The company statement indicated that this threat of discharge of employes should be tabled and more important matters discussed.

The loss of jobs by discharge is a very important matter to the union and little progress toward a settlement of this dispute can occur until we receive assurance that our members will not be discharged.

Bill Wakely,
Union President

EDITOR'S NOTE — The letter written by Wakely was brought to the Record-Herald by employe George Kimball, 1136 Campbell St., Morris Bean and Company is a foundry which produces molds for the tire manufacturing industry.

Ohio Perspective

State subsidizing new structure

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — State departments are subsidizing the skyscraper State Office Tower in downtown Columbus with rents nearly twice as high, at least in one case, than they might pay elsewhere.

State Auditor Thomas E. Ferguson refused to move his office into the 44-story edifice, and instead moved into a nearby office building owned by the School Employes Retirement System.

Ferguson said his costs in the retirement systems building the first year, including remodeling, is going to be $393,578, or about $9.25 a square foot. The second year and thereafter, he said, his rent would be $292,271 or $6.70 a square foot.

In sharp contrast, he said, his allotted 35,103 square feet in the office tower, after $102,000 worth of remodeling to accommodate his computers, would have been $465,506 a year, or about $13.25 a square foot.

Ferguson said he has 42,506 square feet in the retirement systems building less than half a block from the tower.

Other state departments probably could not be permitted to avail themselves of the same option Ferguson chose. Even if downtown space was available, the state faces the obligation of paying off costs of the new skyscraper with its 689,000 square feet of useable space.

SOT cost the state $64 million to build and interest will hike the overall total to more than $83 million — if the debt is paid off in the next 30 years as planned.

Dana L. Stewart, executive director of the Ohio Building Authority, didn't try to defend the fact that the departments — many of them on less than continuation budgets as a result of inflation and declining state revenues — are having to pay higher rent.

"If they went commercial, they would pay less," he said. "That's agreed. But, this isn't a standard commercial building. You can look at the lobby, the art work.

"It's a special building. We admit this. It's more or less a monument, and it was planned long before I got here," said Stewart, an Ohio National Guard major general who served as adjutant general in the administration of former Democratic Gov. John J. Gilligan.

Plans called for SOT to be fully occupied by July 1, but Stewart said there was a delay in bringing in the Department of Mental Health and Mental Retardation.

It will occupy the 11th through 13th floors, probably beginning about the first of next year. A department spokesman said the delay is attributed primarily to moving costs for about 300 central office employes and equipment from the department's present facilities in suburban Columbus.

Stewart said OBA had to turn to hike rents when it became apparent the $8.12 a square foot, originally decided on, would not be enough to pay off the debt.

"Someone has to pay for the concourse, the heliport, the two floors that have mechanical equipment and the other areas," Stewart said.

The Department of Administrative Services pro rates the building's operating and debt retirement costs to state agencies.

"We have to sell the state the whole building," Stewart said.

Fire buffs hold convention

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — If a major fire breaks out anywhere in Columbus between now and Saturday, officials already have announced that a convention will automatically adjourn to the site of that blaze.

In fact, some 300 members of the International Fire Buff Associates, Inc., plan to burn down a house as an official program activity.

Representing 21 states and Canada at the meeting, the buffs will take a look at an emergency medic program, view the latest in fire apparatus, see a house burning (under local fire department supervision) and take a look at a highrise rescue via helicopter.

International President John Van Dyke of Columbus says the organization is dedicated to turning people's natural fascination for fires into community service.

"It's almost an inbred quality in people," he says. "They have an aversion to fires, but at the same time are fascinated by them. We'll go out of our way to watch one. Most of us have spent lots of money on expensive radio equipment so we can be as informed as possible.

"Maybe it's the little child in us coming out, but when we see the local firemen save a lumber company, it's more thrilling than a baseball game. But we want to do more than just watch. We want to help."

Volunteers in 66 local organizations provide various types of service, from making coffee and food available to firemen on the scene of a blaze to general advice. An engineer might assist in equipment design or a lawyer give informal legal advice, Van Dyke said.

Some of the buffs carry their hobby a bit further, and the convention is featuring lots of talk about some of the collections members have put together over the years antique equipment, mugs, badges, belt buckles or anything related to fire fighting.

Ruppert sent to prison

HAMILTON, Ohio (AP) — Convicted mass murderer James U. Ruppert is on his way to the Southern Ohio Correctional Facility to begin serving 11 consecutive life terms.

The 41-year-old Ruppert, whose motion for a new trial was overruled Tuesday, was taken to the Chillicothe Correctional Institute Wednesday for processing prior to his transfer to the penitentiary at Lucasville..

Woman still keeping child as babysitter for 6 years

RENO, Nev. (AP) — Six years ago, a young black couple asked Mae Ducharm to babysit their two-week-old daughter for a few weeks.

The 68-year-old white woman still has the child, and, to little Monique, she is the only mother the black youngster has ever known.

Mrs. Ducharm said the couple told her they were in show business and would be back for Monique in three weeks. She said they left two baby suits, an extra diaper and $100.

She said that when Monique was three months old, her mother called to say she was in a Las Vegas jail for stabbing her husband. One year later, she came back to see the child. That was almost five years ago and she hasn't returned, Mrs. Ducharm said.

"We sit and watch television and have ice cream cones at night," Mrs. Ducharm says of Monique. "And every night she says, 'Good night, Mother. I love you. I love you, Mother."

Mrs. Ducharm, a widow with three grown daughters, lives in a trailer home. Her only income is $125 a month from Social Security and $75 a month from the sale of a house.

Last summer, Mrs. Ducharm said she sought medical aid for Monique's asthma condition through the Washoe County Welfare Division, and as a result a case worker learned Mrs. Ducharm was not the girl's legal guardian.

"They told me they wanted to put Monique up for adoption or in a foster home," Mrs. Ducharm said. "I just sat down and cried. They said I was too old to have her and that my trailer was too small.

"I told them they're not going to take her away from me. She's just like my own. I've raised little Baby Doll since she was two weeks old. I call her my little Baby Doll."

A friend told her to ask the NAACP and the Reno Race Relations Center for help. She said representatives of those two groups talked with the caseworker and that the welfare division has not mentioned adoption or foster homes to her since.

Mrs. Ducharm said a representative of the Race Relations Center told her to take Monique to a physician for treatment of her asthma and that the bill would be paid somehow.

'Out and About'

with Mark Thellmann

Dear Readers.

I have been presenting this arts page for close to four months now, attempting to inform those who would like to become more involved with the arts what there is to do in the vicinity which is art-oriented. There is still a muttered complaint there is nothing to do in Washington C.H., but I feel this page has helped the situation to some extent. Anyway, due to an experience which happened to me earlier in the week I must admit I'm mighty proud to live here, although it's been only two years and my roots stem from more exciting towns, having grown up in Cleveland, lived awhile in Los Angeles and generally traveled all over the country.

It was last Sunday evening. I was sitting outside with my two dogs watching everything acquire a golden glow as the sun started its descent in the west. I lit a cigarette and began questioning my life, my future, my purpose and whether or not I was fulfilling any niche' in the cosmic order of things. I guess I was bored.

I motioned to the dogs it was time to go inside when I faintly heard the telephone ringing. It was Sgt. Luther Anderson of the Washington C.H. Police Department. He told me there were seven people consisting of a man and wife, the man's mother and the couple's four daughters ranging in age from 8-12, who were en route to Maryland, but stranded in town for the night without accommodations and he asked if I knew where they could be housed for the evening. I told him I'd call him back and proceeded to check with more knowledgeable persons in town, but no one seemed to be home, so when I returned the call I told Luther my apartment was small, but we could make do. I would be down in a few minutes to get them.

The whole incident flooded me with memories of being cold and hungry and worst of all lonely while I was traveling through the west in 1972 in an attempt to find work as a journalist in California. Many times I felt I couldn't take it anymore and wanted to head back home and sit with familiar faces who I didn't have to constantly prove my trust, honesty and worthiness to in an attempt to remove their natural delusions of paranoia so prevalent in today's society. It was during these times the good I had done thus far in my life came back to me which was the most important lesson I was to learn during my travels - during my life.

During these times someone would appear, usually saying, "Wow, you've got Ohio license plates and you're a long way from home. Do you need a hot meal, a shower, a warm place to stay?" And now, three years later, I still keep in touch with the many good people who took me in and re-kindled my slipping confidence, making me feel secure once again - giving me the strength to travel on.

So, I went ot the police station and met the John Gosnell family. After they had some dinner at my place and the children were put to bed, sleeping on sofas and the floor, John and I sat up in the night smoking cigarettes and drinking coffee, discussing the many events which brought him to my S. Fayette Street rest-stop.

He had had an operation in his Baltimore, Md., hometown which turned out to be more complicated than expected. When he was well enough to return to work, his job had been filled by someone else. It was at this time he decided to gather up his family and pursue a job opening out west and get a new start.

Money was tight and a crippling blow was dealt when their rented car, overloaded with possessions necessary to re-locate and seven people, reached their destination and anticipated employment opportunity didn't pan out. In despair they turned around to head back.

In Colorado the car with all the possessions was stolen and the family set out in a snowstorm hitch-hiking with just the clothes on their backs. They were given aid in the towns they passed through by such organizations as the Salvation Army, various police departments and private citizens who were moved by the family's story, but as John put it, "Many times we wound up in a town we would have liked to settle in, but the organizations dedicated to helping transients knew it was easier to buy a bus ticket than to find a man housing,a job, so we were always hurried on our way again."

Many of John's stories made me question what some people felt "aid" really was. There were times they were given a room, but had to shoo the rats out first and brush the cockroaches out of the bed before lying down to get much needed rest. In one such place, John told of staying up all night propped against the room door in an effort to keep the drunks, who constantly banged against it, from getting in.

But, there were good times too. One of his favorite stories were coming across a Hilton Hotel in the middle of nowhere and talking the newly appointed manager into giving up one of the 500 rooms - many of them vacant - to them for free. The manager fell on the floor laughing and then John motioned his band of wary troopers inside and it suddenly wasn't so funny. The manager then summoned a chauffeur and told him to take the family in the Hilton Cadillac to the nearest hamburger joint for a meal. "I'll never forget the look on those people's faces in the fast-food carry-out when the big black car pulled up and we in our rags, entered dirty and road-weary, ordered hamburgers and were then wisked away back to the Hilton!" John exclaimed laughing.

John will have a favorite story to tell about Washington C.H. also. A story of how the "Community with a Smile," as the sign states on the CCC-Highway-NW leading into town proved to him and his family the smile was no facade, for it provided real friendship, brotherhood and help.

The following day - we stopped talking as the sun cast everything in blue while making its ascent and decided to get some rest - I ran an article in Coffee Break explaining the family's plight and need of donations and clothing. The response was overwhelming! Clean clothes which fit all seven members were brought to the city fire department, along with donations totaling over $50. The Fayette County Welfare Department came up with food money and Lt. Cecil Seaman of the Washington C.H. Fire Department even found an afternoon job for John, painting porches which allowed him to make his own way financially, re-kindling his own self-worth and value.

It became apparent after two days and two nights my apartment wasn't large enough to house eight people and two dogs and Ralph and Hazel Marchant stepped into the picture, offering their huge farm to the group so they could have sleeping accommodations and some country peace and quiet before resuming their trip.

The family decided to travel on Wednesday afternoon, feeling more refreshed and much more confident than before. The clothing which they could not use or carry with them will be given to the United Churches Clothing Fund, which was the largest clothing contributor. This story is a rather informal "thank you" to all who helped out - many did not leave their names - and as I type this final paragraph I wonder where John and his wife Pat, his mother and the four children are tonight on the road, but I'm confident they'll make it back and I feel kinda warm inside knowing when things get tough again - and they probably will - the family can look back on Washington C.H., remembering the out-stretched helping hand extended to them holding the necessary faith to continue.

It's time to get down to business and I'm pleased to announce the prizes for the Photo of the Week contest are getting better all the time. The 1st-place winner gets two tickets to the Ohio Theater in Columbus to see a good flick and the 2nd place winner receives two passes to view one of the plays presented at the Sabina Barn Theater. Prize one goes to Doug Harrison of Wilmington with his caption "Which one of you bums had beans for dinner?" and prize two goes to Donna Morgan of 913 S. North St. for her caption "So who cares where Saskatchewan is located?" What I want to find is that cool chick I met last night!" Good work readers! Be sure and take a look at this week's Photo of the Week and send in your captions by 3 p.m. Tuesday.

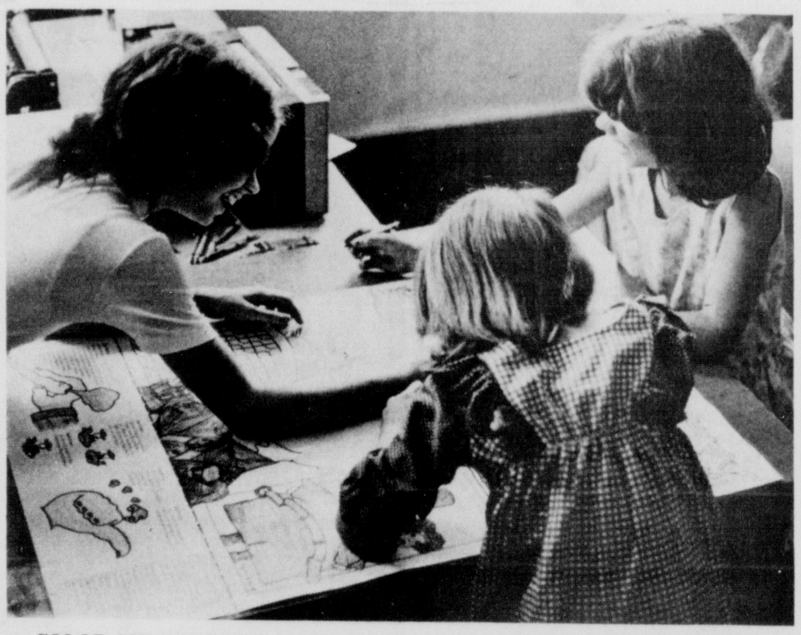

"Which of you bums had beans for dinner?"

By Doug Harrison

"So who cares where Saskatchewan is located? What I want to find is that cool chick I met last night!"

COLOR ME CONTENT — Pictured are three of John Gosnell's daughters busily coloring a poster. During the family's stay with me I tried to keep the children entertained while I was at work. Even though John and his wife, his mother and the four girls, had been traveling with just the clothes on their backs en route to Maryland from Colorado, because their car and clothing had been stolen, I found things had to get pretty rough before the four free-spirited girls gave in to the hassles. They were content to not only color the poster for me (which I was supposed to enter in a coloring contest, but hadn't gotten around to it yet), they also cleaned the apartment!

Donald McDowell is the man behind the selection of motion pictures being shown in the Ohio Theater summer series and he tells me the number of people who went to see the return or re-run three day engagement of "The Sound of Music" was in excess of 12,000 persons! Imagine the entire population of Washington C.H. going to see just one particular picture on one weekend.

That says something about entertainment considered successful. He is trying to locate a "print" (that means film copy) of a wide screen stereophonic version of MGM's "Silver Jubilee Overture." If he is successful one of the all time great musical short subject films will be shown with the movie and I urged everyine to try to see it!

Speaking of entertainment, that is just what this week has had for all of the people here. There have been some of the best racing cars you could find anywhere in the world right here at the Fayette County Fair; a good Country and Western show from Nashville; and yet to come, a Demolition Derby which will give the thrills seekers their pleasure this coming weekend - all at the Fayette County Fair!

In town right now is a representative of the Columbia Artists Management or Community Concert program and he is talking to the local Fayette County Arts Association about the prospects of the Community Concerts Program being brought to Washington C.H. during this coming year. All those interested in supporting such a program should contact Mrs. Earl Hartley, president of the Local Arts Association before Tuesday or be at the meeting Tuesday evening, August 29, at Grace United Methodist Church.

Incidentally, the Fayette County Arts Association is the group responsible for the Shook and Caufield Photographic display which appeared for one month in the lobby of the Huntington Bank and who brought the Smithsonian Institute's bicentennial display of American Coverlets to the same bank lobby this past month. The display in part has been moved to the Arts and Crafts Building at the Fayette County Fair where a few thousand more can see this interesting exhibit of early American Coverlets. It is well worth the special trip to see just how the weaving and coverlets were done. The display will be at the Huntington Bank lobby until Tuesday and then travels on to Ashtabula, Ohio.

The Fayette County Coral Society is getting ready for its first public appearance and the group has grown to more than half a hundred now. It promises to be something we can all be very proud of because it is composed of our own people right here in Fayette County. The society is still open to all who want to sing. They rehearse this coming Monday night at the First Presbyterian Church, corner of Market and Hinde streets. So if you want to sing, join this group now and you can still be free on Tuesday to support or voice your ideas at the Arts Council meeting on Tuesday, concerning the Community Concerts Series.

Although I have not seen "Benji," I do know the film is rated "G" - for general audiences and it opens locally next week. It should be good family entertainment and you can enjoy seeing the story of this little dog in the comfort of your own car with all the popcorn and hotdogs you want.

Any list of ten best great films ever made would certainly have to include "Dr. Zhivago". The picture won eight Academy Awards and for any one who missed it or wants to see it again in full color and wide screen they can do so this weekend. It will be shown Friday, Saturday and Sunday at the Ohio Theater and as an added plus, Dennis James will present the half hour "mini concert" on the theater organ before each performance. I can't tell you how he will be dressed this week; however, last week the 10,000 plus in the audience got one added laugh to the laugh-a-minute "What's Up Doc" when the organ rose out of that huge black pit with a huge Bugs Bunny playing it! The adults got as big a thrill as all the kids who went to see Ryan O'Neal and Barbara Streisand.

As for "Dr. Zhivago" this weekend, I would like to mention the magnificant scenery and photography. As the dramatic story unfolds against the background of the Russian Revolution, you are treated to some of the greatest winter scenery ever photographed. special locations in Spain were used and some of the battle scenes encompass authentic locales.

The sleigh ride is spectacular and for those who enjoy model railroads, you can see authentic early 1900 railroads in operation. The cast is excellent with Omar Scharif, Geraldine Chaplin (Charlie's daughter), Rod Steiger, Rita Tushingham from England and Julie Christie, just to mention a few of the performers. Every one of them is outstanding!

If you enjoy the antics of Peter Sellers, then you will certainly not want to miss his Inspector Caouzot performance in "The Return of the Pink Panther." It is funny, but without much meaning.

Variety at Sabina Theater

A variety of entertainment is available to local audiences this weekend with the Sabina Barn Theatre productions of the Pulitzer prize-winning "Our Town" on Friday, July 25 and the Richard Rodgers musical "Two by Two" on Saturday, July 26.

"Our Town" is set in the 1900's with Randy Adams as the Stage Manager, providing the details of the action in Grover's Corners, N. H. The lives of George Gibbs (Cabot Rea) and Emily Webb (Jenny Herron) become entwined, blossom and die in this touching drama by America's famed playwright, Thornton Wilder.

Bill Brewer appears as George's father, Doc Gibbs, while Marcia Phillips plays Emily's mother, Mrs. Webb.

Turning back to the clock 2,000 years, the Barn Theatre presents the Richard Rodgers musical "Two by Two." This heart-warming version of the Biblical story of Noah was acclaimed on Broadway and brought its star, Danny Kaye, a Tony nomination.

Noah (Bill Brewer) has one week to get his wife Esther (Marcia Phillips) and three sons onto the ark for forty days and nights.

Curtain time for both shows is set for 8:15 p.m. with a smorgasbord dinner served at 6:30 p.m. Dinner reservations should be made six days in advance.

The Sabina Barn Theatre is located at Sabina Campgrounds on Route 22 between Washington Court House and Wilmington and operates under the auspices of the regional camping committee of the West Ohio Conference of the United Methodist Church.

The cost for dinner and show runs $6.50 and children under 10 receive the package deal for $4.50. Play tickets, sold only on a first-come-first-serve basis, run $2.50 apiece.

The ticket box office may be contacted at 513-584-2671 from 1 p.m. through 5 p.m. daily for additional information.

PLAYING IN THE BARN — The Sabina Barn Theater will present the play "Our Town" by Thornton Wilder this Friday and the musical "Two by Two" by Richard Rodgers on Saturday.

Music, movies and play and all in Wilmington

WILMINGTON, Ohio — Residents in Clinton and surrounding counties will be treated to an evening of "Music on the Mall" at Wilmington College on Friday, July 25.

A program of spanish folk music, sung in Spanish and English, will be presented by Carlos Arrigh, noted Bolivian folk singer, at 8 p.m. at the carillon on the college's Collett Mall. There will be no charge.

William Matthews, the college's Direct of Student Activities, said guests should "bring their own blankets or lawn chairs to sit on while enjoying this concert under the stars."

Matthews added there will also be two evenings of "Movies on the Mall." The films, including classic "oldies" featuring such stars as Mae West, Lon Chaney, Laurel & Hardy, the Marx Brothers, and W.C. Fields, will be shown at the carillon at 9 p.m. on August 15 and August 22, again no charge.

The program for August 15 will feature a Mae West film and Lon Chaney's "Phantom of the Opera."

The August 22 program will include three shorts featuring Laurel & Hardy, the Marx Brothers, and W.C. Fields, and a full-length feature, "Whatever Happened to Baby Jane?" starring Bette Davis.

Tickets may be purchased at the door or in advance by calling 513-382-6661, (Ext. 267) Monday through Friday from 9 a.m. to noon and from 1 to 4 p.m.

The Wilmington College Summer Festival of the Arts was organized by a group of Wilmington area residents to provide an on-going community arts program for all ages.

The Festival is funded through support of local patrons and Wilmington College. This year, for the third consecutive year, the festival is the recipient of a grant from the Ohio Arts Council.

Tennessee Williams' modern classic, "Cat On A Hot Tin Roof," will be presented at Wilmington College at 8 p.m. July 24, 25, and 26.

The drama, to be held in the Boyd Auditorium on campus, is the second presentation in the 1975 Wilmington College Summer Festival of the Arts series. Tickets are $1.50.

Williams' intense story of family relationships will be directed by Hugh Heiland, Professor of Theatre at Wilmington College. It will star Jim Cassidy as "Big Daddy," Stephanie Hodge as "Maggie," Ed O'Brien as "Brick," and Gayle Reinsmith as "Big Momma."

Hydra bucks Treasury Dept.

MACON, GA. — Capricorn recording artists, Hydra, have drawn the ire of the United States Treasury Department with the release of the group's forthcoming album, "Land of Money." The album cover of "Land of Money," which depicts a Louisiana State Trooper blowing his nose on a $100 bill, was twice rejected by the Treasury Department in Washington, D.C., before final approval was given to an altered design of the bill. The final design has the $100 numerals removed and replaced with simple dollar signs ($). Other changes in the bill's appearance were also made before final clearance was given. The album cover revisions caused a delay of over two weeks in the album's scheduled release date. "Land of Money" will now ship on July 25.

Daniel Boone true lover of wilderness

By DON McLEOD
Associated Press Writer

During the American Revolution, Daniel Boone was captured by Indians and took to camp life so enthusiastically that fellow prisoners began to question his loyalty.

There was nothing wrong with Daniel Boone's patriotism — he was just having a good time. Boone dearly loved the wild life of the American frontier.

The wilderness was cruel to Boone at times. Indians tortured one of his sons to death. They cut off his brother's head while Daniel was running for his own life a few yards away. Another son died of an Indian bullet in the last battle of the Revolution.

But it was good to him, too. It provided a living. A good hunter could bring in several hundred deerskins in a season, with the market price sometimes as high as $5 dollars a skin.

And a man could breathe in the wilderness. Life close to nature was the next thing to heaven for Daniel Boone.

Two hundred years ago, as the American Revolution began, Boone was building Boonesborough, Ky., after cutting the Wilderness Road which opened the great American interior to settlement.

Boone was the complete Founding Father. He explored the land, blazed the trail, led in settlers, was elected to the provisional legislature that initially governed the new territory, and introduced one of the first laws enacted in Kentucky, a bill to protect the wildlife.

Then he did something which made him different from most explorers, the thing which made English America different. He went back and got his family. The frontier would be home.

Despite his reputation, Boone didn't enjoy fighting Indians. He liked them. But when it came to fighting, he could outshoot, outrun or outsmart just about anyone on the frontier.

Boone was a great soldier in one of the little known but dirtiest theaters of the Revolution, the western front where British officers and renegades led Indians against settlers.

While hunting food for a saltmaking party, Boone was captured in 1778 by Shawnees heading for Boonesborough. Knowing the outpost was unprepared and could not survive the attack, Boone talked the Indians into settling for the salt party instead and then talked his companions into surrendering to save the settlement.

The brave pioneers so impressed their captors that the Indians adopted them. Boone became the son of Chief Blackfish.

Introducing: The Chocolate Manufacturers Association

NOTE: This is the third installment - of the Chocolate Story.

The Chocolate Manufacturers Association of the U.S.A. believes in the positive approach.

In 1928, when the American Tobacco Company launched a massive advertising campaign with the slogan, "Reach for a Lucky instead of a sweet!", the CMA decided a retaliatory campaign was no answer. Instead, it reminded the public that chocolate was a delicious food, something to be enjoyed. That approach, obviously successful, continues today.

The CMA is involved in a wide range of activities, from basic research to government regulations, from cocoa bean quality to international commodity agreements and tariffs.

Since 1947, CMA has financed the American Cocoa Research Institute with more than $3.5 million for scientific research and training relating to cocoa husbandry. ACRI is an affiliate of CMA, a Delaware nonprofit scientific and educational corporation.

ACRI is a clearinghouse and center for solving technical cocoa problems. Over the years, it has financed many projects. Here are a few examples:

- Training and research scholarships to help growers solve specific problems.

- Special assistance in cocoa bean fermentation and drying so producrers can improve the quality of their crops.

- A grant to the University of the West Indies, Trinidad, to help support cocoa research unit trying to find solutions for international problems of cocoa agriculture.

Chocolate really is something special During World War II, chocolate was declared an essential industry because it supplied allied troops with the only pleasurable item in their daily rations in the field. The industry voluntarily set aside half its production for the armed services.

The Chocolate Manufacturers Association is trying to dispel the myths that surround chocolate. It is doing this through a research program geared to isolating the relationship between chocolate and acne, and chocolate and dental caries.

Through grants, the CMA has suppored research at the University of Pennsylvania School of Medicine. The results, published in the Journal of the American Medical Association, showed no cause-and-effect relationship between chocolate and acne. Dental research at the University of Texas and Harvard indicate that the consumption of chocolate milk "makes no significant difference" in the development of dental cavities.

Founded in 1923, CMA is currently comprised of 15 firms engaged principally in the manufacture and distribution of cocoa and chocolate products. Its members represent more than 80 per cent of the U.S. chocolate industry.

The member companies are: Ambrosia Chocolate Company, Milwaukee, Wis.; The Blommer Chocolate Company, Chicago, Ill.; Cadbury Corporation, Stamford, Conn.; Cococline Chocolate company, Inc., Brooklyn, N.Y.; Ghirardelli Chocolate Company, San Leandro, Calif.; Guittard Chocolate Company Burlingame, Calif.; L.S. Heath and Sons, Inc., Robinson, Ill.; Hershey Foods Corporation, Hershey, Pa.; Hooton Chocolate Company, Newark, N.J.; M&M-Mars, Inc., Elizabethtown, Pa.; The Nestle Company, Inc., White Plains, N.Y.; Peter Paul, Inc., Mount Joy, Pa.; Van Leer Chocolate Corporation, Jersey City, N. J.; Washington Chocolate Company, Seattle, Wash.; and World's Finest Chocolate, Inc., Chicago, Ill.

If you plan to include chicken in menus for a camping trip, try freezing it in individual servings before leaving home. Place enough chicken for one person in an air-tight plastic bag and put in the freezer. When you're ready to leave, gather the bags of frozen chicken together, wrap in aluminum foil and put in cooler or camper refrigerator. The chicken will thaw gradually under refrigerated conditions and be ready for the grill when you reach the camp site.

Chicken is a great favorite as a main course for specil occasion dinners. In a nationwide consumer survey conducted by the National Broiler Council to determine attitudes regarding preparation, purchasing and serving of chicken, more than 75 per cent of those responding said they frequently served chicken for important meals

Also helping were members of the Cherokee Bluebirds with leaders Mrs. Ronald Blue and Mrs. Robert Barker, and girls of the group: Kelly Blue, Susan Fannin, Cheri Knisley, Jennifer Eckles, Melanie Penn, Valerie Goldsberry, Mary DaRif, Dawn Dixon and Debi McKinney.

From the Lu-Ta Camp Fire Discovery Club were Mrs. Aileen Wilson and Mrs. Erma Gardner, advisers; and members Linda King, Robin Wilson, Joni Gardner, Becky Annon, Gladys McClendon and Kim Haithcock.

Party given 1 year-old

Billy Halliday, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Halliday of 622 Belle-Aire Place, was guest of honor at a party in his home on Saturday evening for his first birthday. Guests for Billy's party enjoyed a buffet dinner. The theme of clowns along with balloons and Winnie the Pooh prevailed.

Relatives present were Mr. and Mrs. William Rulon and Mrs. Felix Halliday, grandparents, and Mrs. R. J. Rulon of New Vienna and Mr. Floyd Jones of Washington C. H., great-grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. John Halliday and daughter, Christy, the Misses Marsha and Gayle Rulon from Washington C. H. and Mr. and Mrs. John Meighan of Columbus, all aunts and uncles of the honor guest.

Later in the afternoon, cake and ice cream were served to little Jenny and Kim Pentzer, neighborhood children. Billy received many lovely gifts and cards from relatives and friends.

PERSONALS

Mr. and Mrs. William Klein and daughter, Patricia, were Monday guests of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. P. Hackett, 523 W. Temple St. The Kleins were en route from a business trip to Cleveland to their home in Marietta, Ga.

Shower guests

Mrs. Everett Allemang, Mrs. Warren Pollock and Mrs. Hughey Thompson were additional guests at a bridal shower given recently for Miss Sue Ann McCoy, bride-elect of Randy Creamer, in the home of Mrs. Joseph Pope and daughter, Jodie. Their names were omitted in a former report. Miss McCoy and Mrs. Creamer will be married Aug. 2 in South Side Church of Christ.

Youth Activities

4-H ALL STARS

Mr. Jerry Cremeans was guest speaker at the meeting of the 4-H All Stars. He showed a very interesting film on "Fishing in Ohio" and answered questions for all the boys.

Members were reminded of important fair judging dates and reminded to hand in books. The next meeting will be at the pond behind the Washington Swimming Pool, and each is to bring fishing equipment and a sack lunch.

Dear Abby:

ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

Flashing alarm awakens the deaf

DEAR ABBY: Do you have any suggestions on how a deaf person can wake himself up each morning?

This is very important to me because I would like to have my own apartment and live by myself if I can solve this problem.

Thanks for any help you can give me.

R.

DEAR R.: I contacted the Society for the Hard of Hearing, and they suggested an alarm clock with a flashing light. They are sold for around $15 at SHH offices.

I was told that these are very popular because deaf people are highly sensitive to light.

DEAR ABBY: After 30 years of marriage, my husband and I are no longer in love. We have not shared the same bed for the last 10.

I know that for five years he has been in love with another woman who would marry him if he were free, but he is staying with me out of a sense of duty.

We are both miserable this way, but I still need him for security since I have never worked and couldn't support myself. Also, I am used to his company and am afraid to start a new life for myself at my age (51). I don't know which way to turn. Can you advise me?

LOST IN L.A.

DEAR LOST: First, just because you've never worked doesn't mean you can't. Hanging on to a man who keeps an in-name-only marriage intact out of a sense of duty is unfair to him.

Why not talk it over with him? Perhaps, with his help you could find a job in interesting surroundings that would offer many prospects for new friends. If your husband feels as strongly about the futility of your marriage as you do, he might supplement your income or otherwise contribute to your security. If nothing works out, what have you lost?

DEAR ABBY: Thanks for the exchange on fancy church weddings for young couples who have been living together. You're right; it is in poor taste and an unnecessary expense to parents.

It is also a rip-off of the guests invited to the shindig, since they are suppose to show up with gifts in hand to avoid rupturing family and friend relationships.

I don't care if young people want to kick over my traditions, but I think they ought to try to live with the consequences.

The traditional wedding, and the party after it, has always symbolized a new beginning for a new family. So, if the family began two years ago, why throw a party now? And why ask friends to furnish the house?

TIRED OF THE RIP-OFF

DEAR TIRED: Those who feel as you do (and there are many) should decline invitations to such weddings and feel no obligation to send a gift.

DAR members return from Delta Queen

Mrs. R. Deane Powell, Mrs. Norman H. DeMent of Defiance and Mrs. Merritt S. Huber of Bettsville State Regent of Ohio Society Daughters of the American Revolution, returned Sunday from a seven-day cruise on the Steamboat Delta Queen from Cincinnati to the Kentucky Lake. The Ohio Society, DAR, was completing plans for a chartered cruise on the Delta Queen for the Bicentennial year from Pittsburgh, Pa., to Cincinnati, Aug. 30, 1976, to Sept. 4, 1976, to Cincinnati, stopping at seven places along the Ohio River where George Washington had camped.

Wednesday Club meets

The July meeting of the Bloomingburg Wednesday Club took place in the home of Mrs. Harry Elliott, when a carry-in luncheon was enjoyed by members.

Mrs. Lawrence Garinger, president, conducted the brief business meeting, and opened with the poem "Something to Tell you." Minutes of the last meeting were read by Mrs. Roy Pfeifer, and roll call answered something each would like to do. Clever contests were also enjoyed, and Mrs. Garinger closed with "The Truth Will Out."

Members present in addition to Mrs. Elliott, Mrs. Garinger and Mrs. Pfeifer, were Mrs. Forest Haines, Mrs. Don Thornton, Mrs. Fred Oswald, Mrs. Homer Smith and Mrs. Ewing Fichthorn.

The hostess was assisted in the hospitalities by her niece, Mrs. Rachel Smith. The next meeting will be with Mrs. Martin Morris.

Cooking chicken outdoors on the grill is always a pleasant way to serve a summertime meal. This year, it's also an important way to conserve energy. Not only do you save the energy required to cook the chicken, you also avoid heating the stove which in turn raises the temperature of the kitchen and necessitates more energy to cool the house.

Note to brides: when you are buying kitchenware, remember that pots and pans with rounded corners and few seams or crevices simplify dishwashing.

Marriage announced

Mr. and Mrs. James R. Callender of 419 Western Ave., have announced the marriage of their daughter, Mary Ann to Vincent L. Chrisman, son of Mr. and Mrs.Charles Buck of 2391 Rowe-Ging Rd.

The wedding took place July 3 in the Church of Christ in Christian Union with the Rev. Robert Kline officiating.

Kenneth Johnson served as best man for Mr. Chrisman.

Mrs. Callendar chose a pink and white frock for her daughter's marriage, and the bridegroom's mother wore a yellow floral gown of leno-weave accented with forest green ribbon.

A reception took place following the wedding at the home of the groom's parents. A buffet dinner was served, and an arrangement of green carnations, blue daisies and white glads centered the table.

Guests present were Mrs. Ray Mallow, John and Nancy Mallow of Mount Sterling; Miss Pat Roush of New Vienna; Mr. and Mrs. Fred Zink of Hillsboro; Mrs. S.J. Hile Kennedy, Mrs. Shirley Humphries of Cynthiana; and Mr. and Mrs. Steve Summers and son, Michael.

The new Mrs. Chrisman is employed by Candle-Lite, and her husband by the Fayette County Soil Conservation Service. They are now residing at 427 E. Market St.

Health department receives two new home staff nurses

The Fayette County Health Department has added two new staff nurses to the department's home health program and generalized public health services, according to Mrs. Phyllis Richards, supervisor of nurses for the department.

Mrs. Mildred Kimball, formerly of Bethel Park, Pa., has been employed as a full-time staff nurse in charge of the home health program while Mrs. Connie Fenton of 1274 Dayton Ave., is now employed by the department as a generalized public health nurse.

Mrs. Kimball was previously a staff nurse at the John Kane Hospital for the chronically ill in Allegheny County, Pa. for over two years before accepting her new position in Fayette County.

She will now be coordinator of the home health program which provides skilled nursing care to area residents at home through referrals from physicians or hospitals, particularly under the medicare program.

Mrs. Kimball has worked with home visitations through the Franklin Village in Columbus and was formerly employed at Grant Hospital, Columbus, following graduation from the Grant Hospital School of Nursing in 1952.

Originally from the Columbus area, Mrs. Kimball said she decided to return to Ohio to be nearer to her friends and relatives and to relocate in a smaller town. She and her two daughters, Ruth, 18, and Jean, 17, are residing at 432 Van Deman St.

Mrs. Fenton has been employed by the health department through the federally-funded Comprehensive Employment and Training Act (CETA) program until February as a generalized public health nurse.

Her duties at the county health department will include all facets of public health services, such as school nursing, communicable disease care, venereal disease, chronic diseases and rheumatic fever treatment, crippled children's services, family planning and immunizations.

The 23-year-old public health nurse graduated with a bachelor of science degree in nursing from the Ohio State University school of nursing in June, where she trained at University Hospital and Children's Hospital in Columbus.

A few showers broke out over northern Ohio during the night and clouds held temperatures generally in the 70s.

Early this morning, temperatures several parts of the state had dropped to only 75 degrees. Showers and thunderstorms occurred in a band from Michigan to Texas ahead of a cold front stretching from Wisconsin to Kansas.

This front was expected to reach northwest Ohio this evening and pass through the state tonight. Cooler, drier air will follow the front, ending the showers tonight and giving relief from the warm, humid weather of the past week.

Highs today will generally be in the mid to upper 80s. Cooler temperatures tonight will be in the upper 50s and 60s. Highs Friday will be in the upper 70s or low 80s with considerable sunshine.

Fair Saturday and Sunday and a chance of showers Monday. Highs in the upper 70s and low 80s Saturday, warming to the mid to upper 80s by Monday. Lows from the upper 50s to mid 60s.

The common dormouse spends more time in hibernation than any other mammal. The hibernation usually lasts between five and six months (October to April), but the record goes to an English specimen sleeping six months 23 days, with interruption.

U.S. fastener industry hurting

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — If the U.S. fastener industry is to be saved, the nation must curb imports by holding the line on tariff cuts, acting unilaterally if necessary, an industry spokesman says.

"Import competition is forcing the U.S. fastener manufacturing community to turn off a great number of its machines," said Clyde F. Roberts Jr., president of the locally based Industrial Fasteners Institute, placing much of the blame on Japan.

Failure to check the inflow which last year equaled 18 per cent of the nation's $2.67 billion in shipments will result in "total abandonment of standard fastener production in the United States," Roberts said in testimony prepared for a recent hearing of the U.S Trade Policy Staff Committee in Washington, D.C.

"It is imperative for our trade negotiators...to negotiate nontariff trade barriers and tariff levels together," he added.

And so long as the result is moderation of the pressure from imports and preservation of the U.S. industry, it "makes little difference" whether the necessary action "is done unilaterally or on a negotiated basis," he added.

The United States imported $482 million worth of mechanical fasteners in 1974, of which about 67 per cent or $325 million came from Japan, he said. He also said 52 per cent of the U.S. market for standard nuts last year was mey by imports.

"Unless the government takes action to check these trends, imports will displace virtually all domestic production of standard fasteners within a few years," he said.

"For that reason," he said, "our industry is firmly opposed to further reductions in the tariff rates for industrial fastener products, either in the context of the multilateral trade negotiations or the generalized system of preferences authorized by the Trade Act of 1974."

Roberts said the U.S. industry "is generally efficient and well-managed" and should be able to hold its own against imports except that "normal competitive conditions do not exist where imports from Japan are concerned."

Patrol checks U.S. 35 wreck

The Ohio Highway Patrol investigated a two-vehicle collision at 8:50 a.m. Wednesday near the U.S. 35-I-71 intersection.

Ptl. Loren Butcher reported a car driven by Ellen L. Siegenthaler, 22, Columbus, was heavily damaged when it struck a rear dual wheel on a tractor-trailer rig driven by Maynard A. Ingram, 51, Littleton, N.H. Ptl. Butcher said the dual trailer wheel broke while Ingram was attempting to make a left turn from U.S. 35 at the West Lancaster Road intersection. Both vehicles were westbound.

There were no injuries.

Time pressure faces solons

WASHINGTON (AP) — With Congress planning a month-long vacation in August and oil price controls due to expire Aug. 31, the Ford administration and the legislators are facing time pressure in their efforts to agree on U.S. energy policy.

Republican congressional sources say Ford later this week may offer a compromise plan that would achieve the administration's goal of boosting petroleum prices. At the same time, such a compromise would meet the demands of many congressional Democrats that the price escalation be carried out over a longer period of time than previously proposed by the President.

Meanwhile, the House leadership was to decide today whether an attempt should be made to override Ford's veto earlier this week of a bill that would have extended existing price controls and imposed new controls.

The vetoed bill would continue the $5.25 price ceiling on old oil and also would roll back new oil prices to $11.28 a barrel from the current unregulated world market price of around $13.

Old oil is from wells producing no more than their 1972 levels and makes up about 60 per cent of U.S. production. The $5.25 price ceiling expires Aug. 31, and it is widely anticipated that any sudden end to price controls would quickly drive up consumer costs for petroleum products. The House earlier this week killed Ford's plan to allow old oil prices to rise gradually over a 30-month period.

Meanwhile, the House Rules Committee cleared the way for a floor vote on a Senate-passed bill to extend the price-control law until March 1, 1976.

CAC-employed youths working with pay

By GEORGE MALEK

Some $4,000 of these youngsters should have received in paychecks July 14 is tied up in governmental red tape, and they do not expect to be paid before the end of this month. By the time their money arrives, some of the employes will have earned more than $300.

Working under the Fayette County Community Action Commission's summer youth program, the students have been employed without pay since the end of June.

Fred Rost, director of the summer youth program for Fayette County, said although the money has been guaranteed by the federal government, the funds are distributed by the state which has delayed its distribution.

According to Mrs. Jean Lier, District 5 representative to the Ohio Community Action Commission Manpower Committee, the situation is causing a great deal of difficulty in rural areas which operate on minimal budgets. Her office is situated in Sidney where she is a director of manpower programs for Champaign, Logan and Shelby counties.

Mrs. Lier said Congress approved the funding of these programs June 17 and President Ford signed the bill the same day. However, on June 18, the state auditor's office closed for a bi-annual review of its books. Thus, the money to pay students in summer youth programs throughout the state laid dormant in Columbus.

When the auditor's office reopened, a mass of paperwork awaited the staff, and the checks have not yet been received. Since the funds will definitely come eventually, there was little problem in large cities where the CAC's have huge budgets. The money to meet the July payroll was simply borrowed from another fund. More rural areas, like Fayette County, do not have sufficient funds elsewhere.

Rost eased tension here somewhat by requesting all the youths in the program to sign a disclaimer before they began their job assignment. It stated that although the funds had been approved, delayed receipt of the money would require a late payment.

Each student was then employed with the understanding that he would be paid for the month of July in a lump sum at the end of the month or early in August. With some students making as much as $168 in a two-week period they will have earned $336 by that time.

Simply knowing that their paychecks would be late does not solve everything, however, Rost noted. Largely from very low-income families, the students sincerely need their money.

He cited one case where one of the youths need eye glasses, but could not obtain them until paying. Fortunately, after being contacted by Rost, who explained the situation, the optometrist sent the glasses and will await payment later.

Each student is employed by a non-profit agency in the county, and to be eligible for employment, the youth must be returning to school in the fall. They may work up to 40 hours per week, depending on the employer's needs and schedule.

Some counties did not require their students to sign the disclaimer. When they were unable to meet the payroll, the students and their parents become quite upset. As yet, no Community Action organization has been taken to court over the delay.

Some of those counties which do not have sufficient monies to borrow from their other funds sought help elsewhere. In at least one case, a private charity loaned the local CAC office enough money to meet the payroll. The money was loaned interest free.

Although approval can be obtained by any Community Action Commission office to borrow the money from a private lending institution, a federal restriction on its funds makes this difficult. No federal funds can be used to pay interest. Thus, while the CAC could pay back its loan when the money was received, it could not pay the interest from the fund. Unless private donors were willing to pay the interest, no loan which carried an interest charge could be arranged.

"It is unfortunate that a program which provokes such interest in work among our youth leaves them with the sour taste of not receiving their paychecks on time," Rost said.

Workmen's comp measure backed

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The House Commerce and Labor Committee recommended passage Wednesday night of an apparently agreed bill increasing Ohio's workmen's compensation benefits.

The vote was 12-0 on the measure which is expected to be called up for a vote on the House floor Friday. The bill is a priority item, and still would need Senate approval to be enacted by Aug. 1, target date legislative leaders have set for summer adjournment.

Effective Jan. 1, 1976, the bill would raise ceilings on most weekly benefits under the workmen's compensation law from 66 2-3 per cent of the statewide average weekly wage to the full statewide average weekly wage.

The statewide average weekly wage is defined by law as the average for all workers covered under unemployment compensation. It is determined each April 1 for the following calendar year. For 1975, twothirds of the average is $119.

The bill makes numerous other changes, but Rep. James T. Luken, D-24 Cincinnati, chairman of a subcommittee that worked on the measure several weeks, said the only disagreements that still could come up "are mostly technical."

Rep. J. Leonard Camera, D-53 Lorain, commerce and labor chairman, postponed consideration Wednesday night on another priority bill that establishes collective bargaining procedures for public employes. It gives them the right to strike for the first time—except for police, firemen, and institutional guards.

That measure has been languishing in the commerce and labor committee for several weeks, with many of its controversial provisions under fire. Majority, leaders said they still have hopes a compromise can be reached in the waning days of the session.

Rumsfeld raps federal regulation

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP)— Presidential Assistant Donald Rumsfeld cited failures of past governmental interference with the economy Wednesday, after the Midwest Governors Conference had called for continued regulation of fuel and gasoline allotments.

The governors also called for an end to regulation of prices at the wellhead for new natural gas wells for five years accompanied by an excess profits tax to encourage return of profits to new exploration.

Rumsfeld told the governors that the Cost of Living Council, which he formerly headed, did little to stop inflation by controlling wages and prices.

Rumsfeld, who is now President Ford's assistant for domestic affairs, also said the Office of Economic Opportunity, where he also worked was ultimately unable to satisfy the needs of those it was designed to help.

"It distresses me during this dialogue on energy that many people have not reviewed that experience." He called them lessons that should have been learned about government invading the market place.

He said he personally believes that further government control of energy "would be a serious mistake in this country."

At the same time, Rumsfeld told the final session of the three-day conference he believes efforts by President Ford have renewed confidence of the public in government.

"It is a difficult time to be in public life," he sympathized with the governors, because of economic and unemployment problems coupled with fuel shortages and public apathy.

Rumsfeld said the public "will no longer stand for nonsense" but will make decisions when given sufficient information.

He said this is gradually being reflected in Congress. President Ford's seven vetoes sustained in Congress shows the legislators are showing a willingness to take a second look at the economic impact of legislation.

However, he said, Congress "has not moved itself to a position where it is ready to sit down and discuss compromise" with the President on a national energy policy.

Rumsfeld said unemployment and inflation are inseparable in the economy. He said he sees little chance of a decline in unemployment until the economy shows definite signs of an upsurge.

"The problem is with the hirers. They are not willing to start calling workers back until they are certain full production is going to be sustained," Rumsfeld said.

"Clearly, it is time to halt the cycles of inflation followed by inflation," he said.

The closing session of the conference elected South Dakota Gov. Richard F. Kneip chairman and selected Indianapolis, Ind. the site of the 1976 convention and Oklahoma for 1977.

Kansas Gov. Robert Bennett was critical of the 14th annual conference at Cincinnati because of the extensive social schedule. He said it was his first conference and it should have been condensed into a weekend.

Your Horoscope

BY FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

FRIDAY, JULY 25

ARIES
(March 21 to April 20)

Go after the big gains but do not expect to have things your way all along the line. Be prepared for some opposition and you can meet it more easily.

TAURUS
(April 21 to May 21)

Introduce a new note—perhaps a new approach—to give more spark to day's doings. Output will substantially improve.

GEMINI
(May 22 to June 21)

As with many others, you have real cause for optimism now. There's much to attain through the advantages offered—both in business and personal interests.

CANCER
(June 22 to July 23)

You should have new ambition and incentive under day's excellent influences. An interesting business transaction could prove highly profitable.

LEO
(July 24 to Aug. 23)

Direct action can be effective—IF you have accurate information, blueprints. Otherwise, take the detour that means safety, a reduced speed to prevent mishap.

VIRGO
(Aug. 24 to Sept. 23)

You can now find a new way to display your abilities and capabilities but don't try the road of mixing business and pleasure.

LIBRA
(Sept. 24 to Oct. 23)

Make your schedule a flexible one. There are possibilities of changes and variations in certain situations—all promising to be beneficial.

SCORPIO
(Oct. 24 to Nov. 22)

Don't sidestep obligations in favor of more desirable activities. You have a lot going for you, so it would be foolish to offset efforts of the past.

SAGITTARIUS
(Nov. 23 to Dec. 21)

Don't undertake anything without knowing proper procedure. Find out how associates think and feel. Excellent progress indicated through alert thinking and action.

CAPRICORN
(Dec. 22 to Jan. 20)

Your intuition should be strong now; but double-check to make sure you are not overlooking small details. Thus, all should go well.

AQUARIUS
(Jan. 21 to Feb. 19)

Pay no attention to dissenters or pessimists. Go about your work and other activities with good will and a bit of finesse. You can have an unusually satisfactory day.

PISCES
(Feb. 20 to March 20)

Business and financial matters slated for immediate advancement; also for future gains. But take no risks; conservative management must be stressed.

YOU BORN TODAY endowed with many qualities with which to win first-rate success: a strong individuality, a genius for leadership and unusually fine gifts of organization and salesmanship. Do try to curb a tendency toward overaggressiveness, however, or you could make many enemies as you follow your road to the top. Your versatility and gregariousness are outstanding and, though extremely progressive in your thinking, you have a fondness for the old; would make an excellent dealer in arts and antiques. Other fields in which you could excel: the stage, the law, politics or, in business, as a manager of large enterprises.

Election campaign has military tinge

WASHINGTON (AP) — In contrast with the lawyers and advertising men who ran the 1972 Nixon campaign, the high command of President Ford's developing political organization has a distinct Pentagon tinge.

All three top men in the campaign fundraising operation served in the Pentagon under Ford's old friend, former Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird. And the campaign manager, former Rep. Howard H. (Bo) Callaway, is a West Point graduate who was Army secretary for the past two years.

"People say we've got a little Pentagon going over here," executive director Lee Choate of Ford's finance committee said in an interview. "At least, we all speak the same language."

The finance division, which has already raised $267,000 in the less than two weeks since Ford declared his 1976 candidacy, is headed by David Packard, the 62-year-old multimillionaire electronics executive from California who was deputy defense secretary for nearly four years.

The campaign treasurer is Robert Moot, who served as comptroller of the Pentagon in charge of its day-to-day finances under Laird.

And Choate is a retired Air Force officer who has been involved more recently with several "citizens action" groups including Americans for the Presidency, which he said tried "to keep Mr. Nixon from being unjustly dealt with" during the Watergate scandals.

Students facing tuition hikes?

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — House Speaker Vernal G. Riffe Jr., D-89 New Boston, said Wednesday Ohio college students will face fee increases as the result of Republican support for Gov. James A. Rhodes' veto of a tuition freeze.

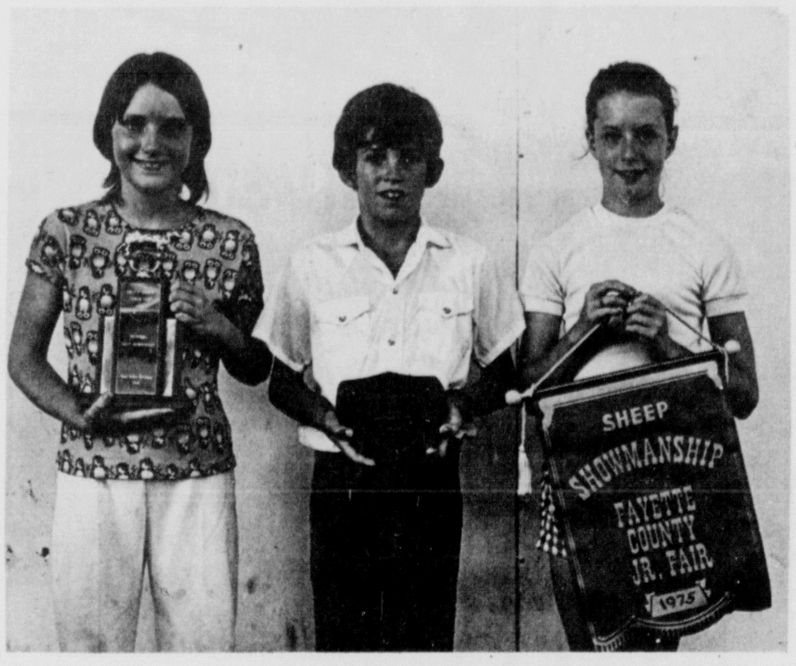

Republican state representatives upheld Rhodes on nine line-item budget vetoes challenged by majority Democrats, who fell one vote short of the three-fifths required to override.

"The General Assembly has been incorrectly and unjustly accused of hypocrisy on the matter of freezing tuition and fees charged to students at state-assisted universities," Riffe said.

Ranco reports drop in sales

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ranco Inc. reported Wednesday that its sales for the nine months ending June 30 were $72,871,000, down from $95,467,000 for the same period last year.

Net loss for the nine months was $2,114,000 or 89 cents a share, the company said. Net income for the same period in 1974 was $3,182,000 or $1.34 a share.

James H. Manecke, chairman and president firm, said the recession had a severe impact upon the automotive air conditionining and home appliance market.

Expect Soviets to remain regular grain customers

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Soviet Union has turned into a regular customer of American grain farmers and may resume shopping later this year if its crops deteriorate further and U.S. harvests are as large as now indicated, according to Agriculture Department experts.

Richard E. Bell, newly sworn in as USDA assistant secretary for international affairs and commodity programs, says a commitment by Russia to boost livestock production will mean steady sales of U.S. corn and other feed grains.

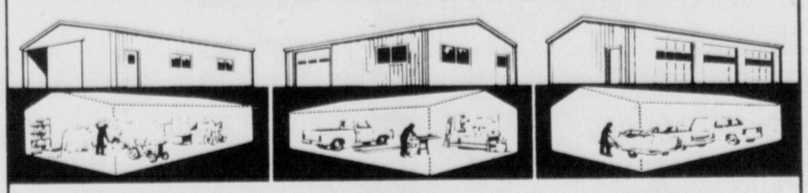

Further, Bell said Wednesday, purchases above those needs are likely to arise when drought bites into Soviet crop prospects as it has this year. A week-long round of grain sales announced by major U.S. firms apparently has ended, at least temporarily, Bell told newsmen.

"I think that the Soviet buying at the present time has probably stopped," Bell said. "I do think there will be further purchases after there is further assessment of the crop."

Grain firms the past week announced sales totaling 9.8 million metric tons of grain, including 4.2 million wheat; 4.5 million corn; and 1.1 million barley. Although no contract prices were disclosed, current prices for future delivery would put the value at about $1.3 billion.

In 1972, when grain prices were much lower, Russia bought more than 19 million tons valued at about $1 billion.

Neither can the public.

A nice fellow, John Doe. But over the long haul, his business peaks were not as high as his valleys were deep. Slowly, but surely he was edged out by his competitor.

He never did understand why his business failed. He had everything working for him, looks, location, lines — everything except people, that vital ingredient that spelled success for his competitor, a man who put it simply but well when he said, "To attract people, you've got to advertise. Tell them who you are; where you are; and what you've got to sell. And you have to keep reminding people, too, or they'll forget."

R-H weekly carrier series

FLORENCE SMITH

Florence, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. W. (Tiny) Smith, 624 W. Circle Ave., has been a Record-Herald newspaper carrier for more than one year, beginning on Feb. 11, 1974.

She has two routes with a total of 169 customers and shares the chores with her sister, Merry Jane, and two brothers, Dennis and Wayne.

Florence, who will be a ninth grader this fall at the Washington C. H. Middle School, enjoys reading in her spare time. Her favorite subject is mathematics and her hobbies include bicycling, swimming and camping. Her favorite sport is football.

She has purchased a bicycle and clothes plus paying for band camp with money earned on her route. Florence says she enjoys "meeting people" on her route.

"Florence Smith has been our paper girl for almost a year," said Mrs. Rodger Mickle, 511 W. Circle Ave., one of the customers on the featured carrier's route. "We have never received our paper late, even on rainy days. She is always polite and mannerly when she collects and I feel she deserves to be honored as an excellent paper carrier," Mrs. Mickle added.

Taft, Glenn agree

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ohio Sens. Robert Taft Jr., a Republican, and John Glenn, a Democrat, both voted with the majority Wednesday as the Senate agreed 76-20 to limit debate on the bill for a 10-year extension of the Voting Rights Act.

Privacy bill approved

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A bill hailed as one that would protect Ohioans from invasions of privacy by state and local governments cleared the Senate without dissent Wednesday.

Sen. Stanley J. Aronoff, R-8 Cincinnati, said his measure would prohibit government data banks from having "exclusive and secret control over personal and sensitive information about Ohio citizens."

The bill, which now goes to the House, is designed after the Federal Privacy Act of 1975, and will balance the government's need to have certain information about citizens with the citizens' right to privacy, the senator said.

It sets up a central registry at the state level and requires the Department of Administrative Services to draft rules and regulations saying what types of information can be retained in state data banks. At the same time, an Ohio Personal Information Control Board is created to do the same for local governments.

Aronoff said the legislation requires that any information kept about citizens be accurate, relevant, and up-to-date, and provides that citizens have the right to inspect their own records and to make amendments and corrections in them. The bill contains both civil and criminal remedies against persons abusing the system.

Both sides play dangerous

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. intelligence officials say both the Israelis and the Egyptians have been playing a dangerous game of military moves to strengthen their negotiating positions.

These officials are concerned that one side or the other might go too far in military gestures and trigger an outbreak of fighting, even though neither apparently wants it to happen.

The Egyptian decision Wednesday to renew the mandate of the United Nations peacekeeping force in the Sinai is expected to defuse tension along that front, at least for now.

But U.S. analysts are worried that the potential for a military spasm may increase if Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger's efforts to arrange another Israeli troop pullback in the Sinai should drag on or fail.

The Israelis reportedly called up about 7,000 military reservists after the Egyptians indicated last week that they might not agree to an extension of the U.N. force in the buffer zone separating Egyptian and Israeli forces.

U.S. diplomats in Israel were told about the call-up by Israeli officials who said the action was in response to Egyptian moves.

Tornado-destroyed church rebuilt; bigger and better

XENIA, Ohio (AP) — A silver lining has emerged from the dark cloud that once loomed over the First Church of the Nazarene here.

The church was destroyed in the April, 1974, tornado, as were half the city's churches, but a rebuilding program has yielded a larger facility and a larger congregation for Pastor Howard Rickey.

"When I looked at the tragedy of our city, God seemed to say to me, 'There are many tragedies, and there may be many more, but there will be more miracles than tragedies'," the pastor said.

"The day the tornado hit there were 145 children in the basement," recalled the pastor. "They were miraculously saved as the entire structure above them was destroyed."

Thanks to $10,000 in contributions from around the country, $160,000 raised by members and friends, a Small Business Administration loan and a bank mortgage, another "miracle" is taking shape in the form of a $1.1 million church and school now nearing completion.

"During the building time, the church attendance increased by 100 while we worshipped in three separate gymnasiums," Pastor Rickey noted.

A short time later, a man in Colorado sent a check for $1,000.

"He said he was awakened in the night and God gave him a dream of the destruction in the church," the pastor said.

The congregation has gained 40 adult members since the tornado, Pastor Rickey said.

National Guard camp may stay in Ohio

GRAYLING, Mich. (AP) — Five thousand Ohio National Guard troops now training at nearby Camp Grayling may no longer have to leave the Buckeye State for summer manuevers, an Ohio Guard officer says.

The commander of the Ohio Guard said Wednesday that the guard is considering sites in the Zanesville and Cambridge, Ohio, areas and another unspecified site.

Miss Grover's lamb named grand champ

Debbie Highfield was named winner of the senior showmanship while Kim Bryant took first place in the junior division and Amy Stockwell won the beginners trophy for showmanship. Kim Bryant, via her win in the junior division, won the showmanship sweepstakes.

Episcopal Bishop rips women

NEW YORK (AP) — Maine's Episcopal bishop has sent an explicitly angry letter to those involved in the controversial ordination of 11 women as priests, saying their conduct had led indirectly to the death of Louisiana's bishop in a plane crash here.

Several recipients have sharply protested the letter's implications.

Bishop Frederick B. Wolf, of Portland, Maine, in the letter to the women ordained in Philadelphia last year and to the three bishops who officiated, said of the death June 24 of Bishop Iveson B. Noland, of New Orleans, in an airliner crash at Kennedy International Airport:

"I do not hold you personally responsible for Iveson Noland's death. However, Iveson Noland would not have died in that plane crash if you had not done what you did in Philadelphia. That is a part, by no means directly so, of the consequences of your ecclesiastical disobedience, and you have a right to be aware of this."

Bishop Wolf's letter said Bishop Noland had been on the way to attend a meeting of the bishops' advisory council.

AIRPORT NEWS

BY SANDY WOODMANSEE

I think our smiling airplane is trying to tell us its hot outside - and that it is, lately. Thanks must go to Bob Forrest of Sabina for using his artistic talent on the above heading. Also, thanks should go to the County Engineer and his department for mowing the runway areas. It really looks nice out here.

Things sure have been hectic since returning from vacation so I will try to catch up on some of the news here at the airport. Many small aircraft have been taking advantage of the warm weather and incoming traffic has been quite heavy on the clearer days. Some of the larger aircraft in have been K-D Tool's twin Aerostar, Thomas Ind.'s twin Beech, along with a couple of Beech Travelairs. Magnavox's Merlin turbo props with passengers aboard.

Cross countries have been completed by Joe Kingery, Bill Sever, Larry Russell, Bill DaRif, Kevin Mallow, Bob Lundquist and Al Allridge. Many congratulations are in order, first to Kevin Mallow who has received his private pilot's certificate; to Bill Sever, who has completed his Commercial pilot's rating and to Dave Loudner who soloed on July 18. Well done, fellows!

Walt Gooldin, Louie Poole and Tom Preston have successfully completed their "Spirit of Safety" proficiency evaluation flight. Louie and Tom also completed their bienniel flight reviews. Charters have been flown to Flint, Detroit and Detroit City, Michigan, as well as to Lexington, Ky., Wise, W. Va. and Howard County, Indiana.

Several head start groups have taken tours of the airport. Ann Spahr from Jeffersonville Elementary School headed a group of 20 youngsters. Miss Morton and Miss Ruff had a joint group of 55 children from the Eastside Elementary School and Ann Posey had a group of 18 children.

Consumers still holding back

NEW YORK (AP) — A rationale for forecasting an upturn in the economy is contained in the soaring personal income and personal savings figures for June, although you'll still find many people with a "show me" attitude.

Spurred by lower income tax withholding and by tax rebates, both figures indicate that consumers now are in a position to go out and buy houses and cars and other big ticket items.

Disposable personal income — after tax income — jumped $63.3 billion in the second quarter, or nearly 10 times the increase that had occurred during the first three months of the year.

Savings soared to an annual rate of $114.6 billion, which meant consumers were able to put away an astounding 10.6 per cent of their disposable income. It was the highest savings rate in 29 years.

A perspective on that level of savings is obtained by comparing it with the rate for other years. During the past 25 years, for instance, the U.S. rate has ranged between 4.9 per cent and 8.1 per cent.

In the view of many economists, including some in Washington, the high level of savings means that the consumer is poised for a buying assault that soon will bring the range back to "normal" levels.

Others point out, however, that the figures also mean the consumer hasn't been buying, although he is in a position to do so. Houses, autos and many retail items remain unsold.

The truth is that nobody can say with certainty just what a high level of savings means. Only a study of consumer psychology, of the mental disposition of consumers, gives even a hint.

As the dean of consumer psychologists, George Katona, observes, a buying situation is created only when consumers have both the ability and the willingness to spend.

Exact change plans curb armed holdups

By LOUISE COOK
Associated Press Writer

Bus drivers, tax drivers and gas station attendants across the country are demanding "exact change, please," these days and officials say the move has caused a sharp drop in the number of robberies.

"It's made all the difference in the world," said John Askers, director of operations for the Louisville, Ky., area transit system.

Askers said the exact-change system went into effect in 1968. "We had holdups and robberies prior to that. We haven't had any since except for some operators who were held up and their own money taken. Now, we have issued orders that they not carry any money at all, even in their wallet."

An Associated Press survey showed the exact-change system started on public transit facilities and spread to taxicabs, gas stations and all-night grocery stores. Taxi drivers generally carry no more than $5 in change; gas stations and groceries limit the amount of money on hand in cash late at night so that sales people do not have to open a safe.

What happens if you don't have the right change? Practices vary from city to city. Some public transit systems give scrip in change, allowing passengers to get their extra money back at a central office. Some sell books of tickets. In many places, however, you're simply out of luck unless you can find another passenger who will give you change.

City Council cuffnotes

City accepts bid for new cruisers

Washington C.H. City Council Wednesday night accepted bids for three new cruisers for the Washington C.H. Police Department.

A bid of $14,391 ($4,797-apiece) submitted by Carroll Halliday, Inc., 907 Columbus Ave., for three new cruisers was accepted by Council, ending over nine months of deliberation of the purchase.

During the period of more than nine months, Council had postponed the matter on several occasions because of reported conflicts in specifications and bids.

The 1976 model Fords will contain 400-cubic inch engines and air conditioning units. The price for the air conditioning units ($248 each) was included in the $4,797 bid price.

A December delivery is expected and the new cruisers could be subject to a price increase.

Council will be studying which of the old cruisers to turn over to other departments, and which of the autos to sell at auction when the new ones arrive.

JAYCEE REQUEST

Dale Butler, of the Washington C.H. Jaycees, attended the meeting to ask Council if it had reached any ageement on a request by the Jaycees for a $1,000 donation to be used by the organization for an improved Fourth of July celebration next year in conjunction with the bicentennial observance.

It was the general consensus of Council that the budget will have to be reviewed thoroughly before the request is considered further. Council members also questioned favoring the Jaycees over other service organizations.

Jaycees president Clem Edwards, Larry Cruea and Butler also displayed hospital directional signs which the organization has purchased for the city. The eight new signs, which cost a total of $288.80 will be installed next week.

STREET MATTERS

Council unanimously agreed to renew for one year a $42,000 street resurfacing note. The note becomes due Sept. 9 and the interest rate is five and one-eighths per cent.

In other street-related matters. Council agreed to charge utility companies a fee of $3 per square foot ($15 minimum) for resurfacing streets after underground repairs have been made. The previous agreement with the utility companies was $1.75 per square foot.

ACCESS LANE

The city will install an access-turning lane on Columbus Avenue in the area of the new G.C. Murphy Co. complex and assess Columbus developer William Hadler for the expenses. The assessment became necessary after Hadler informed Council chairman Ralph Cook that he had not allocated money in the project for a third turning lane which would reduce traffic congestion along Columbus Avenue.

Council agreed that preliminary engineering on the lane addition should be launched immediately and turning lanes on S. Elm Street plus an extension of the Columbus Avenue lane to Glenn Avenue should also be considered.

LOT IMPROVEMENT

The municipal parking lot, corner of East and S. Main streets, will be improved, Council reported.

Guardrail will be removed in order that autos may enter the lot from East Street. The project will require removal of two parking meters and a catch basin, but will make the lot more accessible to traffic.

The guardrail removed from the lot will be installed at the east end of Gregg Street. Property owners in the Gregg Street area had requested the installation of a guardrail at the street's dead end.

BILLS PAID

Payment of bills totaling $1,600 to Bird and Bull, Ltd., the city's consulting engineers, were approved. The bills were for 54 hours of work done by the firm in inspecting the new blower at the city sewage treatment plant and preparation for permit structure hearings before the Ohio Environmental Protection Agency and the Ohio Attorney General.

TRAFFIC PROBLEM

Council agreed to have the city solicitor prepare an ordinance reducing the speed limit on W. Oakland Avenue in the area of Eyman Park and the Washington Park Association swimming pool to 15 miles per hour.

Signs for the new speed limit and crosswalk signs will be obtained immediately.

The city's legislators also agreed request bids for the purchase of a number of new signs for city streets.

NEW FLAG POLE

Chester Hamulak, of Burnett-Ducey VFW Post No. 4964, disclosed plans by the organization to install a 33-foot flag pole at the Fayette County Historical Society's museum, corner of Columbus and Washington avenues. The flag pole will be similar to one at Washington Senior High School, Hamulak said.

Hamulak, 1028 Center St., also complained of a serious traffic problem in a private alley near his home in which vehicles use the alley to bypass traffic signs on S. Elm Street.

Hamulak said the situation is dangerous since there are a number of youngsters playing in the area.

The alley, located between Center and Olive streets, was vacated by the city in 1966 and Council suggested that since it is a private alley that Hamulak erect a gate.

PARKING METERS

It was brought to Council's attention that there are no parking meters on the east side of N. Fayette Street from the city office building to Temple Street. The installation was overlooked in the city parking meter program and new meters will be installed immediately.

ANNEXATION EYED

According to a recent survey, there are six properties located on Carolyn Road which are not in the city corporation limits.

Council agreed to request property owners to have the lots annexed into the city or else face double sewer rates.

CITY ZONING BOARD

Cook asked Council members for recommendations to be considered at the next meeting for an appointment to the City Zoning Board of Appeals. The new appointment would replace Horace L. Jacobs, who has resigned.

Other members of the zoning board are chairman Dana Hyer, vice chairman John Morris, Larry Lehman and Harold Ross.

Wilson resigns as center manager

Junior Achievement board prepares for new program

Although the opening of the 1975-1976 school year is still about six weeks away, the Junior Achievement board of directors are beginning to plan for a new year.

However, before the new year begins, the Junior Achievement board of directors will be forced to locate a new center manager.

Board members engaged in considerable discussion at the regular monthly meeting held at noon Wednesday in the Washington Inn Restaurant on replacing Ernest Wilson, the center manager for the past three years who has resigned from the duties.

A couple of potential candidates were discussed by board members and a replacement is expected to be named at the next regular meeting on Aug. 13.

In organizing for the year, the board heard a report on the fund-raising campaign now in effect from campaign chairman Jim Waddle.

Reports on the highly-successful year recently completed by the Junior Achievement organization and on maintenance projects which will be needed at the organization's center on N. Fayette Street before the new year begins.

At the close of the meeting, Junior Achievement vice president Curtis E. Fleisher presented Ron Brown, of the Huntington Bank of Washington C. H., with a handsome engraved plaque on behalf of the board for the services Brown rendered to the organization this year as president.

New officers will begin their duties at the Aug. 13 meeting. Fleisher, principal at Miami Trace High School, will serve as president; Rick Stinson, vice president; Wiley Witherspoon, treasurer, and Perse Harlow, secretary.

The Junior Achievement program was launched in Washington C. H. in 1966 for the purpose of providing youths from Washington Senior and Miami Trace high schools with a working knowledge of business procedures.

High school sophomores, juniors and seniors participate in the program. The organization had three mock companies this past year.

Kentucky man electrocuted

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — A 34-foot aluminum ladder touched a 7,200 volt power line here Wednesday, killing one man and seriously injuring his brother.

Authorities said Michael Schrader, 21, of Covington, Ky., apparently was trying to move the ladder with his brother when they lost control and the accident occurred.

The brothers were painting air conditioner boxes on the side of a new four-story apartment complex in northern Cincinnati. Officials said the power line was about 10-12 feet away from the building.

Peter Stuyvesant was a Colonial governor who had only one leg.

Kent testimony hurt by memories

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Time took its toll on key testimony Wednesday in the $46 million damages claim brought by victims of the 1970 Kent State University shootings.

Former Kent State Vice President Robert E. Matson said he attended a meeting with Gov. James A. Rhodes a day before the shooting, but did not recall Rhodes allegedly likening some student dissidents to vigilantes and Nazi brown shirts.

Lawyers for the victims claim Rhodes' remarks during a weekend of rioting sparked by U.S. military activity in Cambodia aggravated a tense situation that ended in 13 seconds of Guard gunfire May 4, 1970.

The governor is one of 41 defendants, including former Kent State President Robert White, ex-Adj. Gen. Sylvester Del Corso, ex-Guard Brig. Gen. Robert Canterbury and 37 present or former guardsmen.

One of the wounded, Robert Stamps, has testified he heard Rhodes make the comments on a radio news broadcast. But under cross-examination, Stamps admitted he could not be sure whether he heard the governor's voice or that of a commentator paraphrasing Rhodes' remarks.

Matson became the second Kent State official to testify that the governor relieved college officials of primary responsibility for campus security.

The governor said "university types or people should step aside on this one," Matson told the jury.

Last week, David A. Ambler, who succeeded Matson as vice president for student affairs, said he left the meeting with Rhodes under the same impression.

The extent of guardsmen's responsibility for events of May 4, 1970, may hinge on whether the troops took total control of the campus.

Earlier, the senior guard officer on campus that sunny spring afternoon, Canterbury, testified the decision to prohibit rallies after the weekend was an agreement between university, local law enforcement and Guard officials.

TV Viewing

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Television Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Following a path blazed by three states, New York tonight gives its state lottery a tryout on TV in a live half-hour show with the highest total payoffs ever — more than $3 million.

The commercially sponsored show is being hosted by Monty Hall, star of ABC's high-rated "Let's Make a Deal." State lottery officials hope this venture also gets high ratings and boosts lottery ticket sales.

WABC-TV here is producing and broadcasting the show, which is being aired on six other stations elsewhere in the state.

Overlooked in the advance hoopla surrounding this program is an apparent question of whether state lottery officials gave other TV stations a fair crack at producing tonight's proceedings.

A spokeswoman for the state lottery in Albany says WABC, owned by the ABC Television network, went to her agency and said it was interested in producing the show, which she says is considered a pilot for a possible weekly lottery drawing series on TV in New York State.

She said lottery director Jerry Bruno, after discussing the proposal, had his office call the program directors at WABC's two major Fun City competitors — WCBS-TV and WNBC-TV.

"And they (the program directors) said at the time they weren't interested," she said. Asked if they explained why, she said, "No. Obviously we weren't going to press them as to why.

"We just wanted to cover ourselves and be sure that we let them know this (TV lottery) was something we were going to do and that if they were interested in it, now was the time to start working on it.

"We got no response from them. So then WABC came up with a format and we got nothing else from the stations. Then, when the announcement hit the newspapers, the other stations said, 'How did it happen'?"

By Second District Court of Appeals

Auto crash decision upheld

The Second District Court of Appeals in Dayton has issued a ruling on a case stemming from an automobile accident in Oct., 1969 in which four persons were killed, including all three members of a Fayette County family.

The suite was filed by Harry Wolfe, New Holland, the driver and sole occupant of one of the vehicles involved. He had sought $175,000 as compensation for injuries suffered in the two-vehicle collision.

The defendant in the case was Jack B. McKirgan, Ohio 207, father of Randy B. McKirgan, who drove the other vehicle and was fatally injured. The defendant was the owner of the car.

Although Fayette county Common Pleas Court Judge Evelyn W. Coffman ruled in 1973 that there was no sufficient evidence to sustain the plaintiff's case, the decision was appealed to the Second District Court of Appeals which upheld the lower court ruling.

Wolfe stated in his petition (filed Dec. 10, 1971) that the defendant's car had been operated in a negligent manner, and since the defendant knew his son to be an unsafe driver, he too was liable for damages.

The plaintiff cited a long list of injuries sustained in the mishap, some of which were said to be permanently disabling. He was hospitalized for some time following the accident.

In addition to 20-year-old Randy, his wife Lucille, 18, their four-month old son Ricky, and Mrs. McKirgan's brother, Clint Mullins, 27, of Columbus, were killed.

The McKirgan auto was northbound on Ohio 207 at the time of the accident. Wolfe was returning from his construction job in Columbus when the crash occurred Oct. 24. Fayette County Sheriff's deputies at the scene said McKirgan "apparently" traveled left of center, causing the head-on collision.

The defendant filed a counter suit against Wolfe. He stated that Wolfe, not his son, was responsible for the accident by crossing left of center. He sought damages in the amount of $47,500.

Judge Coffman granted a motion for dismissal on Aug. 3, 1973, stating that the evidence presented at the trial was insufficient to sustain the necessary burden of proof. At the same time she dismissed the counter-claim.

James A. Kiger, a Washington C.H. attorney who represented Wolfe, sought a new trial on grounds that "new evidence" in the case was discovered after the trial. He said Fayette County Juvenile Court records indicated that McKirgan was aware of his son's poor driving ability because the youth had been cited into juvenile court for alleged violations several times between 1965 and 1967.

McKirgan's attorney argued on two points. First he stated that the juvenile court records could not be considered new evidence since they had been a matter of public record for many years.

Secondly, he said McKirgan's knowledge of his son's minor traffic violations two to four years prior to the accident were not evidence that he should feel his son was an imcompetent driver at the time of the accident.

Judge Coffman refused to grant the new trial, and Kiger appealed to the district court.

After waiting nearly a year for the completion of the trial transcript, attorneys for both parties submitted written briefs to the three-judge appeals court.

After consideration of the matter, the Second District Court upheld the Fayette County Common Pleas Court decision and denied the request for a new trial.

School plan news curbed

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—A spokesman for Jefferson County Judge Todd Hollenbach says the judge has decided only he or a designated aide will answer questions from the media on the county's role in school desegregation.

The recently consolidated Louisville-Jefferson County school system is awaiting details of a court-ordered desegregation plan, due to involve the busing of 23,000 children and go into effect Sept. 4, the first day of the 1975-75 school year.

County Police Chief Russell McDaniel told reporters Wednesday, "that's the way it's going to be." He said the judge ordered him to refer all questions — in writing — to Hollenbach for his response.

Hollenbach could not be reached for comment yesterday and at one point, his secretary indicated questions about the new policy should be submitted in writing.

McDaniel said the county judge had discussed the matter with Louisville Mayor Harvey Sloane and, the police chief reiterated, "this is the way it's going to be.

Traffic Court

In only one case aired Wednesday in Washington C.H. Municipal Court, a New Holland man forfeited bond for failure to appear before acting Judge Robert L. Simpson on a traffic charge.

John S. Bush, 30, forfeited $25 bond on a charge of failure to drive on the right half of the roadway.

Akin Ohio draft chief

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Lt. Col. John C. Akin, a native of Vermont, has been appointed acting director of the Ohio Selective Service.

He replaces Paul A. Corey, 48, who resigned. Corey was appointed to the post April 2, 1973 by former Gov. John J. Gilligan after he had served as Gilligan's personnel director.

Corey said he will establish a Columbus office for Euthenics Inc., a Cleveland firm of consulting engineers and architects.

Akin was with the national draft headquarters before joining the Ohio draft system as senior operations officer. He said he plans to remain with the system after a permanent director is named.

Mets top fumbling Reds, 5-2

NEW YORK (AP) — The Cincinnati Reds started out the way you'd expect—a couple of quick runs in the first inning on Johnny Bench's base hit.

But the way they finished was something else again.

A team that rarely beats itself, the Reds did just that Wednesday night with three errors and an inoffensive offense as the New York Mets took a 5-2 decision over the struggling National League West leaders.

"I have no idea what's been going on in the last week or so," said Cincinnati Manager Sparky Anderson, whose team has lost five of its last seven games. "If I did, I'd be a genius. All I know is that these are the same guys playing out there who were there before the All-Star Game."

Before the recent All-Star break, the Reds were the hottest team in baseball, winning 41 of 50 games. Since then, they've been one of the coldest, even though it doesn't bother the unflappable Anderson.

"I'm not worried about it," said Anderson. "There are too many games in a season to get worried about any one of them. We'll snap out of it soon enough. I only think ahead one game at a time. In this case it's tomorrow and (Tom) Seaver."

The Reds, who at one time this season set a record for errorless games at 15 straight, were nowhere near that perfect Wednesday night.

In the third inning, right fielder Ken Griffey bobbled Ed Kranepool's two-run single, allowing the runner to wind up in scoring position. Kranepool soon came in with the third run of the inning on Dave Kingman's single.

In the fifth, Felix Millan hit in his 16th straight game with a double to center. George Foster fumbled the ball and Millan wound up on third, eventually scoring on Kranepool's double.

In the seventh, the Mets had two runners on with one out when Rusty Staub hit a perfect double play ball to Joe Morgan. But the usually reliable second baseman threw wildly past second, allowing another New York run to score.

"Once I found out that I could throw the ball where I wanted it, I knew I would stay in there for the rest of the night," said Matlack, who won his 11th game of the season. "I knew that if we got a couple of runs, I wasn't going to lose."

Matlack's start, though, wasn't the most auspicious. He walked the first three batters in the game, then gave up Bench's two-run single before settling down. He retired 12 batters in a row at one point before giving up a single to Merv Rettenmund leading off the fifth.

"I just can't explain what happened to me in the first inning," Matlack noted. "My pitching motion was awkward. But from the second inning on, I pitched more deliberately, slowed things down. Then everything all of a sudden came together for me."

Matlack's victory was a sweet one, since it was the first time that he had beaten the Reds since last year. In between there have been three losses.

"I haven't pitched badly against them," Matlack insisted. "But the Reds are a difficult team to beat because they rarely beat themselves."

Until Wednesday night, that is.

Portsmouth wins Legion District crown again

CHILLICOTHE — After dropping Washington C. H. Post 25 from District Tournament action Tuesday, Hillsboro went on to win the second contest of the night against Chillicothe Post 757.

The two wins moved Hillsboro into the finals against Portsmouth Wednesday night, but the defending tournament champs remained undefeated to drop Hillsboro from the tourney with a 9-2 win.

Portsmouth will move on to Athens August 4 to represent the district in the state tournament.

The league and district champs are no strangers to the state meet after having grabbed the Ohio Legion Championship last summer.

Pirates 8, Padres 1

Dock Ellis pitched a no-hitter for 4 2-3 innings and finished with a four-hitter to raise his record to 7-6. Manny Sanguillen belted a two-run homer and Richie Hebner and Willie Stargell had run-scoring singles for the Bucs. The victory kept Pittsburgh four games ahead of second-place Philadelphia in the NL East.

Phils 3, Braves 2

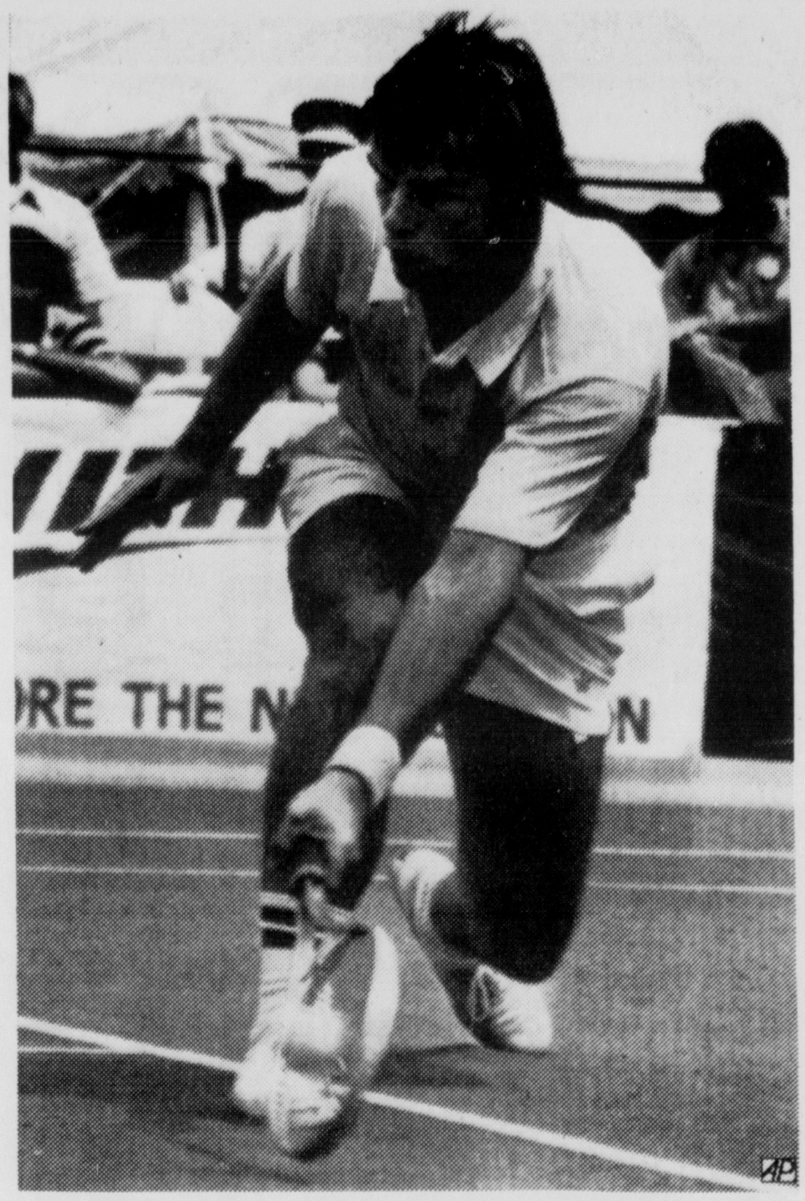

The Phillies used a bunt and run attack to beat Atlanta. Mike Schmidt's eighth-inning bunt drove in Terry Harmon with the game-winning run. The Phils' other runs came on a squeeze bunt by Bob Boone and an infield grounder by Jay Johnstone. Darrell Evans and Rowland hit run-scoring doubles for the Braves. Jim Lonborg, 8-6, won it with a six-hitter.

Astros 2, Expos 1

James Rodney Richard, 7-5, fired a five-hitter to best Dennis Blair, 6-11. Bob Watson doubled home the first Houston run in the first and Wilbur Howard singled home the other one in the fifth. Gary Carter homered for Montreal.

Cardinals 5, Dodgers 4

Ted Sizemore had a two-run single and Ted Simmons drove in two runs with a double and infield grounder as St. Louis made it five straight victories. Bob Forsch, 9-7, kept Los Angeles relatively quiet until the ninth when Willie Crawford and Lee Lacy hit pinch home runs and reliever Mike Garman came in to get the final out.

BUCKEYE ENTRY — Roscoe Tanner took the top prize money in this week's Chicago International Tournament. The hard-serving lefthander's next outing is slated for August 12-18 in Columbus for the Buckeye Tennis Championships.

City tennis tourney registration opens

The Washington C.H. City Tennis Tournament is slated for August 2-10 at the Senior High School courts, and applications should be filled out and returned to Community Education Director Hank Shaffer by Wednesday.

The tournament is open to anyone living in Fayette County or playing in the summer leagues.

The entry fee for this year's tourney is $2 for singles competition and $3 per team in doubles play.

Categories for men, women, boys 18-under and girls 18-under will be played in both singles and doubles. There will also be mixed-doubles competition.

All matches will be the best two of three sets with a nine-point tiebreaker used in case of a tie set.

For more information contact Hank Shaffer (335-6621).

Tanana, Angels blank Birds

By FRANK BROWN
AP Sports Writer

That California Angels pitcher-the one who is leading the major leagues in strikeouts, the one who has won eight of his last nine decisions-his name is Frank Tanana.

That OTHER California pitcher-the fellow who watched Wednesday night's Angels game from the bullpen — his name is Nolan Ryan.

Strange as the role reversal may seem, young Tanana is the pitcher burning up the American League while Ryan's Express languishes at the depot with eight consecutive losses.

"He has poise. He's getting more mature all the time," observed Angels Manager Dick Williams after the 22-year-old left-hander blanked the Baltimore Orioles 1-0 on six singles Wednesday night. "At this stage of his career, he has a lot of control compared to other left-handers of the past: Score, Koufax, Spahn, Haddix..."

Tanana, 9-5, exhibited that control with eight strikeouts against the Orioles. He raised his major league-leading total to 159 in 143 1-3 innings and avenged a 1-0 loss to the Orioles and Jim Palmer on May 16.

"Now I'm even with Jimmy (Palmer for the 1-0 loss)," said Tanana, who now leads Ryan by seven strikeouts in 172-3 fewer innings. Joe Lahoud gave Tanana all the support he needed with an RBI single in the first inning.

Elsewhere in the American League, Oakland stopped Detroit 3-0, Boston trimmed Minnesota 4-2, Kansas City slogged past Milwaukee 4-1 in the rain and Texas beat Cleveland 9-8 in 13 innings while the Yankees' game at Chicago was rained out.

A's 3, Tigers 0

Vida Blue struck out nine and scattered seven seven hits to snap his three-game losing streak while Gene Tenace drove in two runs as the A's won their 11th game in the last 15.

It was fourth consecutive loss for Detroit, which scored just four times and was shut out twice in the three-game series while Oakland amassed 30 runs.

Red Sox 4, Twins 2

Rangers 9, Indians 8

Mike Cubbage's sacrificed fly in the 13th inning capped a tworun rally and lifted the Texas past Cleveland. The Rangers entered the inning trailing 8-7 but pulled even on an outfield error before Cubbage struck.

The Indians scored five times after two were out in the ninth to tie it at 7-7. The victory was the third straight for Texas since Frank Lucchesi replaced the deposed Billy Martin as manager Monday night.

Royals 4, Brewers 1

Buck Martinez and John Mayberry hit home runs, lifting Kansas City over Milwaukee in a game delayed by rain for nearly three hours.

Bertram wins Ohio junior golf clash

SPRINGFIELD, Ohio (AP) — Herbert Bertram III double bogied the last hole but still carded a par-72 for a 36-hole total of 146 to win the Ohio Juniors golf tournament Wednesday on the Springfield Country Club course.

Bertram, 18, of lives in Vanceburg, Ky., but plays out of Portsmouth, captured the "A" Division for golfers aged 16 through 18 by one stroke over three other youngsters.

Mitch Allenspach of Oxford won the "B" Division for players between 13 and 15 years of age with a 36 hole score of 154. He finished one stroke in front of his brother, Mark, and Steve Dalton of Franklin.

Finishing at 147 among the older boys were defending champion Ralph Guarasci of Columbus, Harry Zaruba of Cleveland and Dave Purk of Akron.

Gary Lust of Mount Gilead carved out a 71 to lead a contingent of three who tied at 148. Joining Lust were Springfield's Jeff Goettman, last year's "B" division titlist, and Lyle Beaver of Columbus.

Rounding out the trophy winners in the "A" division were Steve Schaff of Sylvania, Lowell Dencer of Columbus, Rick Martin of Marysville and Jeff Mawhorr of Shelby, all at 149.

Medics move to BR finals

The Medics took two games from Willis Tuesday to advance to the finals of the Lions' Babe Ruth Minor League Tournament.

The Medics took the first game 5-1 behind the one-hit pitching of Pritchett and then grabbed the second contest with a narrow 7-6 victory. Byrd and Dunn led the Medics in the hitting department with doubles.

Quick Tip turns best time of night in Fair's OCRA pace

Quick Tip and Little Steady Guy were division winners in the two Ohio Colt Racing Association Three-year-old Pace stakes Wednesday night.

Quick Tip owned by J. & P. Studzinski of Dayton turned in the best time of the night in the eighth race to take the $2,501 purse in the second division.

Omar Stickley guided the three-year-old to first place finishes in both the fourth and the eighth race in times of 2:08.2 and 2:07.

Little Steady Guy won both heats of the first division to capture the OCRA purse in times of 2:09.2 and 2:09.4. The pacer is owned by D. and G. Roberts of Plain City.

In the other top racing feature of the night, McKinley Kirk's Edwina Mahone won the Adios Butler Filly Pace. The local filly won both the first and the fifth races to capture the $1500 purse.

Fair Chance Farm, the home of the famed Adios Butler, donated the trophy.

Seven more races besides the six feature heats completed the final night of Fayette County Fair racing.

In the sixth race, Hidden Delight driven by Hugh Beatty finished second behind Quick Tip to pay $31.00 to place in a no-show betting race with a six horse field.

The night's Double paid a meager $4.20 and the sixth quinella paid $6.60, but the 13th quinella returned $64.90 to become the biggest payoff of the night.

A trophy for the fastest mile of the three-day racing stand was given after Wednesday's races. It is a blanket in memorial of Fay T. Junk.

Two colts tied for the award Tuesday night by posting a time of 2:06.1. The two-year-olds, J. P. Junior and Lakewood Jerry Way, won the $2,971.50 purses in the OCRA pace divisions.

Brad tries to crack Bengals

WILMINGTON, Ohio (AP) — Brad Cousino, Miami of Ohio's brilliant middleguard who was ignored in the National Football League draft, wants to crumble the myth that bigger is better.

"Ever since I've been kneehigh, people have said I'm too small to play sports," said Cousino, a 5-foot-11 free agent trying to crack the Cincinnati Bengals talent-laden linebacking ranks.

"So I went out and became an all-star hockey player, a damn good wrestler and an All-America football player. Now I'm 220 pounds and they're still saying I'm too small," said Cousino.

Cousino's pride has been bruised ever since the NFL draft in January, a month after he had helped Miami wrap up its second consecutive unbeaten season.

"I was really down. Out of 442 players drafted, I knew I was better than a lot of them. What really hurt was when I saw basketball players drafted who had never played football before," said the Toledo native.

The Bengals called him that night and offered a free agent contract that he signed within three weeks.

"I've always had a lot going against me. I was a walk-on as a freshman at Miami and made it. Last year I was getting double-teamed by guys 260-270 pounds and beating them. There's got to be a place for me in football.

"I went too far to give it up now, but if I find out I can't make it, I'll accept it-but not without a fight," he said.

As usual, he's bitten off a big challenge.

The Bengals are loaded with linebackers and the axe is likely to hit hardest there when Coach Paul Brown starts culling.

"I know I have two things going against me here: size and a new position," said Cousino. The middle guard position is seldom utilized in pro football.

"There's so much to learn, but I can do it. Size doesn't mean that much to me. It's how you play and your instructions.

"Maybe I was overlooked because Miami has that 'small school' image. But look at our record. In the past two years, we've beaten Purdue, Kentucky, Florida and Georgia and won two bowl games. There's nothing small about that."

Dressler practices in full grid gear

WILMINGTON, Ohio (AP) — Doug Dressler, veteran Cincinnati Bengals fullback, practiced in full gear Wednesday for the first time as the Bengals continued their twice-a-day drills in 90-degree weather at Wilmington College.

Dressler had been out with an ankle injury sustained prior to the opening of camp 10 days ago.

Linebacker Jim LeClair, fullback Ed Williams and defensive back Lamar Parrish did not participate due to assorted injuries.

Cleveland Browns hold 1st scrimmage

KENT, Ohio (AP) — The Cleveland Browns had their first scrimmage Wednesday, with the offensive unit making the better showing under the guidance of free agent quarterback Ken Polke.

Polke, who spent a short period last year with the Miami Dolphins during the players strike, led the offensive unit to two touchdowns.

Polke completed five of six passes for 79 yards.

SCHOOLS SAID TRYING TO DO TOO MUCH

URBANA, Ill. (AP) — Schools cost too much because they are trying to do too much, Michael Bakalis, former Illinois superintendent of public instruction, says.

Bakalis, now a visiting professor of education at Northwestern University and the University of Illinois here, urges schools to concentrate on two goals. They are teaching children skills, such as reading and analytical thinking, needed for a lifetime of learning, and helping youngsters develop a positive self-concept.

He said that we have been throwing on to the schools the responsibility for being leaders in desegregating, sex education and drug education, "which I am not sure they are able to do."

"Perhaps other government agencies should have the job of trying to solve these problems."

Only the state of Alaska has fewer people and is more thinly settled than Nevada.

is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

A Suntan Requires Patience

The time has come again to warn readers about the joy and the hazards of sunbathing. I am always amazed by the number of letters from readers who describe their ghastly experience with a severe sunburn that "ruined my holiday."

Despite repeated warnings by doctors and health officials there are people who continue to overexpose themselves to sunlight on the first day of a holiday.

When the sunlight is intense it takes only a few minutes to launch the tanning process.

From then on, gradual increases in the time of exposure each day give one a satisfactory tan without the needless pain of a severe burn.

It is often forgotten that sun reflected off the sea and sand, even on mildly cloudy day, may penetrate the skin and burn it.

Protective creams and lotions serve an important function. Many people, however, develop a false sense of security that these products will protect them from all degrees of intense sunlight. Consequently, they chance getting a severe burn while getting a rapid tan.

Sensible tanning takes patience.

For cosmetic reasons, many women today are avoiding the sun completely. It is thought that constant exposure dries the skin and produces premature wrinkles.

An additional thought about safety must be mentioned. People who tend to develop crusting or ulceration of the skin should plan their sunning with their doctors' direction.

The relationship between constant penetrating sunburns and superficial cancer of the skin, especially in fair-skinned people, is given a great deal of credence these days. Again, this is a matter for individual consultation with the doctor.

Are there any special ways of preventing infections of the bladder? My daughter, aged 10, is a constant sufferer.
Mrs. T.T.M., Fla.

Dear Mrs. M.:

Bladder infection, or cystitis, is a common problem in children and adults, especially in girls and women.

Repeated infections may be attributed to poor genital hygiene. If the area is not properly cleansed, bacteria from the rectal and vaginal area can be introduced into the bladder.

Infections of the kidney may also be responsible for repeated cystitis. A thorough examination of the genito-urinary tract, with cultures and X-rays, is essential.

Canton freezes gas rates

CANTON, Ohio (AP) — Canton has frozen East Ohio Gas Co. rates at their 1974 level and the utility said Tuesday it would appeal the action to the Public Utilities Commission of Ohio.

Mayor Stanley Cmich signed the emergency legislation bringing about the freeze. Council also passed a resolution appropriating $30,000 to pay legal and technical costs involved.

The PUCO, according to chairman C. Luther Heckman, can modify, uphold or change the rates.

The City of Akron had earlier taken similar action on East Ohio rate requests.

Heckman, in Columbus, said the freezing of rates by ordinance would have been unusual a couple of years ago but was now becoming commonplace.

"In the past, the utilities and a municipality usually worked the rates out among themselves and we were not involved," Heckman said. "That's not true today."

Canton City Solicitor Harry E. Klide led the drive to freeze the rates at their April 1974 figure. Another portion of the ordinance sets the purchased gas adjustment clause at its June 1974 rate.

East Ohio has 41,146 residential customers in Canton. It sold about $27 million worth of gas in the city in 1974.

LEGAL NOTICE

The unknown heirs and devisees of Mary Ellen Briggs, deceased; the unknown heirs and devisees of the unknown heirs and devisees of Mary Ellen Briggs, deceased; and the unknown spouses of all of the above named or designated defendants, all their names and last known addresses and residences being unknown, will take notice that on the 4th day of June 1975, Esto G. Haithcock, Sr., Administrator of the Estate of Bessie May Briggs, deceased, filed a Complaint in the Court of Common Pleas, Probate Division, of Fayette County, Ohio, at Washington C. H., Ohio, Case No. 756PC5028, against Henry B. Pearce, Administrator of the Estate of Mary Ellen Briggs, deceased, and others, which Complaint sets forth that there was no personal property belonging to decedent with which to pay the debts of said Estate and costs of administration and asking the Court for authority to sell the following described real estate:

Situated in the County of Fayette, in the State of Ohio and in the City of Washington and bounded and described as follows:

Being the N.W. Half of In Lot Number One Hundred and Seven (107) and the N.W. Half of In Lot Number One Hundred and Eight (108) in said City as will more fully appear by reference to the recorded plat of said City in Plat Book A, Page 486, Fayette County Recorder's Office.

FIRST TRACT: Beginning at a stake in the West line of Hinde Street 82½ feet northwest of an alley and corner to C. W. Sodders; thence with the West line of said Street, North 41 degrees W. 39½ feet to a stake corner to the grantor; thence at right angles with said Street South 49 degrees West 104 feet to a stake, corner to the grantor; thence at right angles S. 41 degrees E. 39½ feet to a stake corner to the grantor and in the line of said Sodders; thence North 49 degrees E. 104 feet to the beginning, containing Forty-One Hundred and Sixty (4160) square feet of land and being part of Lots 107 and 108 in the City of Washington C.H., Ohio, and being the same premises conveyed to Bessie M. Briggs by Mary E. Pearce and Henry Pearce, her husband, by deed dated April 10, 1914, and recorded in Vol. 38, Page 559, Deed Records, Fayette County, Ohio.

SECOND TRACT: Beginning at a stake in the East line of an alley and corner to a lot formerly owned by C. W. Sodders; thence with the line of said Sodders N. 49 degrees E. 61 feet to a stake corner to the grantee; thence N. 41 degrees W, 39½ feet to the corner of grantee and in the line of grantor; thence S. 49 degrees W, 61 feet to a point in the line of said alley; thence with the line of said alley S. 41 degrees E, 39½ feet to the beginning, containing 2409 square feet, more or less, and being a part of In Lot No. 108 in said City of Washington, and being the same premises conveyed to Bessie M. Briggs by Mary E. Pearce, widow by deed dated May 16th, 1938, and recorded in Vol. 69, Page 27, Deed Records, Fayette County, Ohio.

EXCEPTING from the above described real estate a strip of ground 10 feet in width and 82½ feet in depth off the Southwest corner of the tract herein conveyed.

The prayer of said Complaint was that the plaintiff be authorized to have said property reappraised and to sell said real estate and that he be authorized to employ an auctioneer to assist him in said sale and that said auctioneer use display ads along with his other advertising.

Said defendant is required to answer within twenty-eight days after the last publication of this notice.

Elyria woman injured in two-auto collision

An Elyria woman was treated at Fayette Memorial Hospital for injuries received in a two-car collision at the intersection of Oakland and Clinton avenues at 12:45 p.m. Wednesday.

Washington C.H. police reported cars driven by Dana H. Kellenberger, 72, of 4046 Camp Grove Rd., and Lawrence R. Strouse, 25, Elyria, collided when Kellenberger allegedly failed to yield right of way at the intersection. He was cited. Stourse's wife, Kathleen, 24, showed visible signs of injury at the scene and was transported to the hospital by ambulance. Police stated she received 11 stitches in her forehead and was also treated for bruises of the leg and head and for neck pain. She was later released.

Her husband claimed injury and Kellenberger was reported as showing visible signs of injury also, but the two men were not treated. Police estimated damage incurred by both autos as severe.

House backs strong rape protection bill

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The House has given resounding support to a bill aimed at strengthening rape laws by encouraging the prosecution of rapists and protecting the reputations of their victims.

The bill was approved 98-0 and returned to the Senate for concurrence. If the upper chamber agrees with the House version, the plan will be forwarded to Gov. James A. Rhodes for immediate enactment.

Rep. Virginia Aveni, D-17 Cleveland, the House sponsor said forcible rape had increased among violent crimes nationwide by 200 per cent since 1974.

"A woman's life is shaped by the perpetual threat of rape," Mrs. Aveni said. She argued the affect of the current law "is often to put the victim on trial rather than the accused."

Supporters of a tougher rape law, like Atty. Gen. William J. Brown who drafted the bill and Senate sponsor Marigene Valiquette, D-11 Toledo, say that most victims never report assaults because they fear embarrassing courtroom situations.

The Senate-approved bill would in most cases prohibit details of a victim's sexual past from being introduced as evidence by the defense during a trial. Women would also no longer have to prove that they physically resisted their attacker.

It would establish a mandatory five-year sentence for a second offense with no opportunity for probation or parole. Assaults on youngsters under 13 would bring a minimum 10 years in prison on second conviction.

Victims could hire their own lawyers to represent them in court, in addition to government prosecutors who handle rape cases under current law.

Mrs. Aveni won support for an amendment removing a section that would have permitted the defense to challenge a victim's credibility based on her sexual conduct.

"We are breaking very new ground in the legal process," contended Rep. Richard H. Finan, R-19 Cincinnati, who voted against the amendment. "To limit a defendant's scope of examination presents very serious constitutional problems."

Benson Woman, executive director of the American Civil Liberties Union of Ohio, agreed. "There's a constitutional right to confront (one's accuser)," he said.

A judge could rule in a private hearing to allow evidence about a woman's sexual background if it pertained to the defendant; to the origin of semen, pregnancy or disease, or if it tended to prove a scheme.

Amendments were offered to increase prison penalties beyond the provisions of the bill, but all were voted down.

Hog sale sets some records

Some new records were established and others held up as the Junior Fair barrow sale took place Wednesday evening at the Fayette County Fair in the sales arena.

Beth Jenks' 220-pound grand champion went for $400 cwt. ($4 per pound), a total of $880, to Clark's Cardinal Supermarket of Washington C. H.

The reserve champion owned by Rusty Coe was sold to the Sabina branch of the Clinton County National Bank for $215 cwt. The 215-pound hog brought a total of $462.25.

The total selling price of the 281 head of hogs was $54,059.80, which was $20,602.50 above Wednesday's market price of $58 cwt. The average prices for the singles and the whole lot both set new records this year.

The 134 singles averaged $121.35 cwt., a new record eclipsing the old mark, established a year ago, at $111.94 cwt. for the singles.

The overall average for the more than 28 tons of pork sold by auctioneer Merlin Woodruff of Urbana was $93.72 cwt., well above last year's record of $75.26 cwt.

City to assist plant by issuance of bonds

Two pieces of legislation authorizing the city to issue first mortgage revenue bonds to assist a local industry were approved by Washington C. H. City Council Wednesday night.

After issuing the bonds in the amount of $700,000 throughout the state, the city will, in effect, purchase property presently owned by Raven Industries, Inc. on Kenskill Avenue in the city industrial park.

The city would then lease the real and personal property back to Raven Industries.

Raven Industries, Inc., located on a 6.07-acre tract in the industrial park, has been in operation here since January. The firm manufactures fiberglass and polyethylene tanks for agricultural use.

The action will offer the firm additional capital at a low interest rate. Municipal bonds have a lower interest rate than bank loans.

John Fisher, an associate of Peck, Shaffer and Williams, a Cincinnati law firm which prepared the arrangements for the issuance of the revenue bonds, attended Wednesday's meeting.

Fisher explained to Council members that through the issuance of bonds, the city is actually offering the industry its ability to borrow money at a tax-exempt rate of interest.

He said the lease agreement between the city and Raven Industries will be equal to the debt service on the notes. All real estate taxes will also be paid according to the lease agreement.

Fisher explained that the city is under no financial responsibility because the bonds would be guaranteed by the state industrial development fund.

The Cincinnati attorney also pointed out the city will not be liable should the industry default on its debt payments since the action would be turned over a trustee. The Provident Bank of Cincinnati will serve as the trustee.

"In effect, the city will become a landlord," Fisher explained.

Fisher requested that the rules on both pieces of legislation be suspended and the measures be approved as emergencies in order that the underwriters could sell the bonds immediately. The request was granted.

Mayor fights nudist boom with paint

PARIS (AP) — The mayor of a Corsican fishing village is fighting a rear guard action against the spread of nudism on French beaches this summer but indications are that the advocates of no swimwear, or "zerokinis," will triumph.

Pierre Morganti, mayor of Ogliastro, attracted nationwide attention with his squad of volunteers who chase after nudists on the village beach to daub them with blue paint. Morganti's action has aroused controversy between conservatives who applaud him and others who accuse him of violating civil liberties.

The government of President Valery Giscard d'Estaing has thus far avoided taking a stand on the issue. Chances are it will come down on the side of permissiveness, in line with a recent decision to abolish film and theater censorship and bar only minors under 18 from hard-core pornography.

Despite occasional outbursts of indignation among right-wing Gaullists and in traditionally conservative areas such as Corsica, municipalities all along France's Mediterranean, Atlantic and Channel coasts are one by one giving up the struggle against public nudism.

In a departure from the straight-laced attitudes of his two predecessors, Giscard d'Estaing has let it be known that he does not approve of gendarmes who hide behind sand dunes to ambush nude bathers and march them off to jail. But since local authorities have much freedom in establishing their own by-laws, total nudism is still banned in the biggest and most prominent beach resorts.

Hike becomes effective July 30

Wage increase approved for 41 county employes

By SANDY FOSSON

Thje Fayette County Board of Commissioners have approved a $350 across-the-board pay increase to 41 county employes in the Fayette County Courthouse and Fayette County Sheriff's Department.

According to Ray Warner, chairman of the Fayette County Board of Commissioners, the yearly pay raise will become effective July 30 and will appear on the August 15 county employes pay checks.

The salary increase will cost the commssioners $6,143 for the remaining 11 pay periods of 1975 and approximately $14,520 for the calendar year 1976.

While the 1976 pay raise will be budgeted along with the county commissioners' annual appropriations, Warner said funds for the remaining pay periods during 1975 have been provided from an "unanticipated emergency fund" set aside by the commissioners at the first of the year.

Warner said he and the other two members of the commission, Robert J. Mace and J. Herbert Perrill, voted to add the increase to the 41 county employes salaries after reviewing the increase in the cost of living and commending the "high-caliber" employes now working in the courthouse and Fayette County Sheriff's Department.

Warner said the pay increase does not affect elected county officials due to their salaries being predetermined by state law based upon population.

The increase will also exclude seven employes of the sheriff's department under state-controlled programs such as the Comprehensive Employment and Training Act (CETA) and Title 6; the Fayette County welfare and health departments, which operate under their own budgets with subsidies from the county commission; and the Fayette County prosecuting attorney's office.

Included under the pay raise will be the 41 regular employes of the courthouse and sheriff's department with the exception of the elected officials.

A breakdown discloses that 12 members under the sheriff's department, one county commissioners' clerk, eight clerks of court, four Probate Court employes, five employes of the county auditor's office, three in the county treasurer's office, two in the county recorder's office, two in the Common Pleas Court office and four janitorial employes will be affected by the increase.

ARE YOU a pinball wizard?. . .

If so, and if you're under 17 years of age, you could be prosecuted. . .

City Council Wednesday night announced that an ordinance in effect since 1947 prohibits persons under 17 years of age to play mechanical amusement devices. . .

The matter surfaced when preliminary arrangements were completed recently by a person to establish a "penny arcade" type of business with 21 pinball machines in a room at the Washington Square Shopping Center. . .

The city licenses all pinball machines inside the corporation limits and Council members agreed that the forgotten ordinance should be enforced or eliminated. . .

Police officers will be enforcing the ordinance by checking licenses at all business places with pinball machines.

THE 1975 Ohio State Fair advance ticket sale will be extended through Aug. 15, according to an announcement by State Fair officials and state 4-H leaders. . .

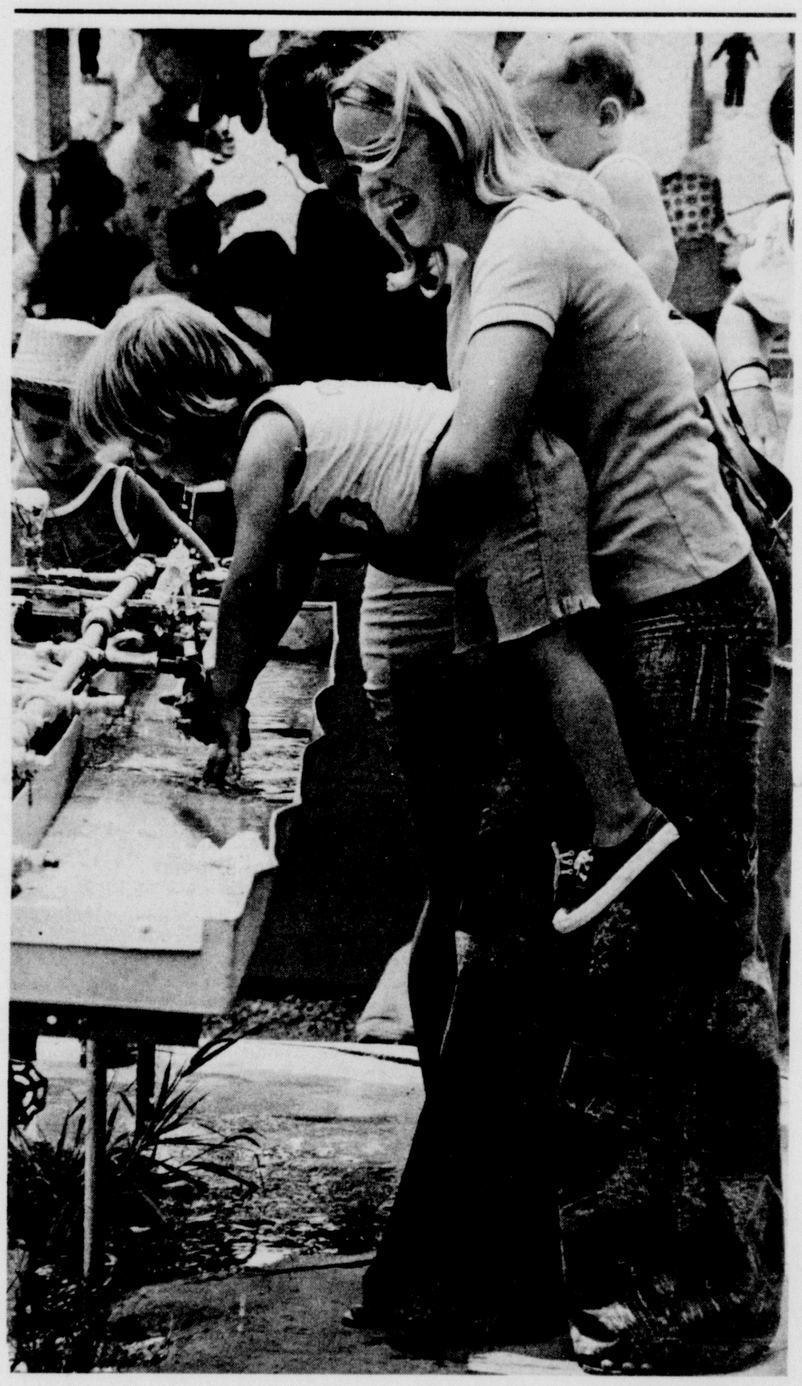

This year's sale is being conducted by Ohio 4-H members and is based on a three-way incentive program by the State Fair. . .

For every advance sale ticket sold at $1.50 by a member, his or her club will receive 25 cents; an additional 10 cents of every ticket sold will go to the Ohio 4-H Foundation endowment fund; the State Fair will also award $4,000 in cash prizes to 262 top-selling 4-H members . .

The top prize is $300. . .

State Fair officials are pleased with the rsults of the Advance Ticket Sale so far, and are projecting a 50 per cent increase in sales over previous years. .

The 1975 State Fair will get underway Aug. 21, and continue through Labor Day, Sept. 1. . .

By MARK REA

The Junior Fair hog sale and final night of harness horse racing attracted a crowd of 3,346 paying customers into the Fayette County Fair Wednesday.

The highlight of the evening was the selling of Beth Jenks' grand champion barrow which paid a handsome $400 cwt. Beth will receive $880 for her champion Hamp-Duroc cross as a result.

Buyers of the hog were Dareld Clark and Dale Stevens of Clark's Cardinal Supermarket in Washington C.H. The bid, however, did not set a record. The record was set last year at $475 cwt.

The Sabina branch Clinton County National Bank purchased Rusty Coe's 215-pound reserve grand champion with a bid of $215 cwt. The record, again, was established last year at $355 cwt.

A total of 281 hogs were sold by auctioneer Merlin Woodruff of Urbana for a price of $50,059.80, a new Junior Fair record. The average price paid for single and whole lot hogs were also new records.

Racing fans saw Little Steady Guy win the three-year-old Ohio Colt Racing Association's pace, and paid $2.40, $2.20, and $2.60. Edwina Mahoney took the featured Adios Butler Filly Pace - for three-year-old fillies. The filly turned the mile in 2:08.2 to take the pace.

Thursday marks the second year for a relatively new and extremely popular event at the Fayette County Fair. A tractor pull will be held in front of the grandstand beginning at 7 p.m. The pull will feature both stock tractors and some heavily-modified models, some with dual engines. A grandstand admission will be charged.

Cindi Grover had a double win at the Junior Fair market lamb show Wednesday. She took the grand champion

Proposal again surfaces for discussion

City Council ponders income tax slash

By MIKE FLYNN
Record-Herald Editor

Discussion concerning the possible reduction of the one per cent city income tax again surfaced at Washington C.H. City Council's meeting Wednesday night.

Council members John E. Rhoads and Donald E. Wood said they were prepared Wednesday night to sponsor a motion to have legislation prepared to eliminate one-half of the city's present one per cent income tax effective October 1.

Wood originally proposed the income tax reduction at the June 25 meeting and has now been joined in the effort by Rhoads.

Council imposed a one per cent income tax by a 5-2 vote effective April 1 in an attempt to overcome a financial pinch. Rhoads opposed the measure. "I think we should consider the proposal while we're reviewing our budget and if it's feasible let's act on it," Wood stated.

The discussion on the income tax reduction began while the city's legislators were pondering initiative petitions which are being circulated in an attempt to repeal the income tax ordinance.

"There's a possibility that the (repeal) petitions would be rescinded if we reduce the income tax," Rhoads said.

Rhoads also pointed out that the city "should forget" about asking Washington C.H. voters to renew two tax levies at the November general election.

"In my opinion we should seriously consider the income tax reduction and forget about the expiring tax levies." he said.

City Council chairman Ralph Cook suggested that the city's legislators hold either a work session or special meeting to consider the matters.

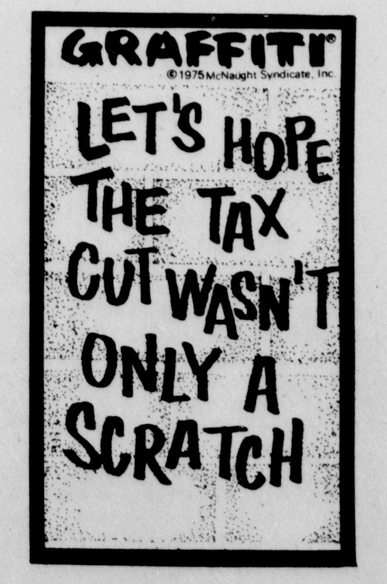

MEANWHILE, it was announced during the meeting that Council is continuing to interview candidates for the vacant city manager's post.

"We've had some candidates with experience and some without," Cook said.

Washington C.H. has been without a city manager since July 11 when Dan Wolford's resignation became effective.

Council member Billie Wilson suggested that Cook appoint a committee of two persons to schedule a meeting with John Colman, director of the Ohio Municipal League in Columbus, on the possibility of locating more candidates.

The city is also searching for an income tax administrator, a position filled by Wolford in the past.

lamb and also the grand champion market pen of three. The reserve champion was owned by Doug Johnson. The reserve champion pen of three were exhibited by Jill Schlichter.

More than 200 market lambs will be auctioned at 6 p.m. Thursday in the second of three livestock sales at the Junior Fair. The sale will be held in the sales arena.

In addition, to the lamb judging, open class rabbits were judged. On Thursday, Junior Fair rabbits, poultry, and dog care and obedience will all be judged at various times.

Thursday's activities also include the Junior Fair steer show and the "Showman of Showmen" contest, featuring top senior showmen from the dairy, beef, horse, swine, and lamb contests.

Also on top will be garden club flower arrangements judging Thursday afternoon in the Fine Arts building.

U.S. closes chapter of space history

Apollo hurtles homeward

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — The last Apollo comes home from space today, ending a history-making flight with the Russians and closing a pioneering chapter in the U.S. space program.

Astronauts Thomas P. Stafford, Vance D. Brand and Donald K. Slayton steered their Apollo toward a fiery reentry and a 5:20 p.m. EDT splashdown in the Pacific Ocean 200 miles west of Hawaii.

They were awakened for their final day in space with a country and Western song called "Redneck Mother," sung by Jerry Jeff Walker.

"The party's over. Time to come home," Mission Control told the spacemen.

The carrier USSS New Orleans waited in the recovery zone to make the last ocean pickup planned in the U.S. space program. Mission Control said the area had good weather today.

Stafford, Brand and Slayton are the last Americans to fly into space for at least four years, perhaps until early in the next decade.

Future astronauts must await the Space Shuttle, the reflyable rocket plane that will operate much like an airliner, landing on concrete runways.

The last Apollo crew returns after nine days in space during which it laid a foundation for a new age of space cooperation with the Soviet Union after linking with a Soyuz spaceship and working in orbit for two days with two cosmonauts.

The cosmonauts, Alexei Leonov and Valeri Kubasov, returned safely to earth Monday. They hold a news conference in Moscow today.

In a news conference from space Wednesday, Apollo commander Stafford said the major accomplishment of the joint flight was the completion with the Soviets of a "very difficult and tedious task.

"It can show that in spite of great political differences, if people meet commitments, then a lot can be achieved."

During the 32-minute telecast conference, the three astronauts forecast man will find new uses for space, that America and Russia will cooperate in new missions and that American women will fly in the Space Shuttle.

Stafford, veteran of four space flights, said he regrets the end of an era of the U.S. space program that sent 71 men away from earth on 31 missions over the last 14 years.

He said that with the reflyable Shuttle "you're going to see space become more and more a somewhat routine type of operation."

Slayton, on his first mission after a 16-year wait on the ground because of a slight heart problem, said the last Apollo was so problem free "I haven't done anything my 91-year-old aunt up in Wisconsin couldn't have done equally well."

From her room in a Sparta, Wis., nursing home, the aunt, Sadie Link, hestitated when asked if she'd like to fly in space.

"That's a difficult question," she said. "I like to travel, though."

Brand, also making his first space flight, called it "the greatest experience I've ever had. It's just been super."

Brand also predicted "in the years to come we will have women in space. I think the first good chance will be in the Shuttle era."

The astronauts wound up most of the earth observation, astronomy and other scientific experiments Wednesday.

In Moscow, meanwhile, space officials said the astronauts and cosmonauts of Apollo-Soyuz may make a world tour together.

But space officials in Washington said they could not confirm plans for a tour.

Stock list posts gain

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was up 5.16 at 841.83 at noon, but gainers trailed losers in the over-all New York Stock Exchange tally by about a 3-2 margin.

In the economic news, Arthur F. Burns, chairman of the Federal Reserve Board, confirmed that the Fed had taken steps recently that had resulted in higher interest rates. But he indicated that the only aim of those moves was to counteract the surge in the money supply caused by income tax rebates distributed in May and June.

The Big Board's composite index of all its listed common stocks was up .04 at 48.44.

United Brands warrants led the active list on the Amex, up 1-16 at 13-16.

Burial was under the direction of the Gerstner-Kinzer Funeral Home.

Jobless rate rises

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The influx of students entering the labor market for permanent or summer jobs boosted Ohio's unemployment rate by nearly one per cent in June, the Ohio Bureau of Employment Services has reported.

But that June increase to 9.1 per cent from May's 8.3 per cent is normal, the bureau said. If the volume of "new entrants" were excluded from the figure, the unemployment rate for June would be unchanged from May.

Ohio's May and June unemployment figures were the same as the national rates, the bureau said.

An estimated 446,000 Ohioans were jobless last month, out of a labor force totaling slightly more than 4.9 million.

Overall employment figures, the bureau said, were up one per cent from May and represented 4.46 million workers. That number, however, was a decline of 2.4 per cent from the number employed in June of last year.

Janitor marriage probably illegal

CEDAR LAKE, Ind. (AP) — The validity of a marriage of an Indiana couple by a janitorminister in Minneapolis is in doubt.

James Craig, 21, and Kathleen Michaels showed up late for an appointment with a judge and were married by the janitor who was an Assembly of God minister working his way through graduate shool.

On Wednesday, police here said that Miss Michaels, who had given her age as 18, was 14-years-old and had been reported missing. Minnesota does not allow persons under 16 to marry.

"I'm shocked," said the Rev. Thomas Byrtus, who performed the ceremony.

Chrysler recalls 1,300 workers

DETROIT (AP) — Indefinite layoffs at Chrysler Corp. will drop to 16,900 next week with the opening of a second shift at the truck plant in Warren, Mich., the company said today.

Chrysler said about 1,300 hourly workers will be recalled to work the added shift, while another 800 workers will be called back in the general manufacturing division to make parts for the added truck output.

The nation's No. 3 automaker said it will again operate seven of its eight U.S. assembly plants next week as the Belvidere, Ill., factory wraps up a two-week shutdown to reduce inventories. Some 4,025 workers are on temporary layoffs at Belvidere.

Compromise reached on malpractice bill

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A joint conference commmittee today approved a compromise between House and Senate versions of legislation designed to deal with the medical malpractice insurance crisis.

Agreement came after a daylong deadlock Wednesday over limitations on attorneys' fees and double recovery by victims in malpractice cases. The panel approved 6-0 a bill that would water down both sections.

The conferees scrapped a legislative contingency fee schedule and asked the Ohio Surpeme Court to establish limits on lawyers' fees. The House-Senate committee recommended that the court set a maximum fee of one-third of a claimants settlement for attorneys at the common pleas court level.

Under a new collateral source rule, personal benefits would be deducted from malpractice legal settlements only when the claimant did not pay directly or indirectly for the benefits, such as for workmen's compensation or welfare payments.

The Senate version of the collateral source rule had called for deductions of most personal benefits from any subsequent court awards.

The committee's action marked a victory for the Ohio Bar Association and the United Auto Workers, both of whom opposed the limitations on attorneys fees and insurance recovery.

Rep. William Hinig, D-96 New Philadelphia, said he expected to bring the plan to a floor vote in the House late today.

It loomed as a major obstacle to summer adjournment of the legislature, tentatively scheduled for Aug. 1, along with issues that include state aid to schools, collective bargaining, rape law revision and workmen's compensation.

The list always grows and intensifies as individual lawmakers bring out sidetracked pet projects to use for horse trading in the waning days. Some of those began to surface Wednesday.

Conferees on the malpractice bill haggled most of the day over provisions that would limit attorneys' fees and restrict double recovery from both personal insurance benefits and malpractice legal settlements.

The House-Senate panel found itself split, with a three lawyer-legislators opposed to both limitations and two non-lawyer members seeking to retain them.

Twice the committee appeared close to a compromise that would drop one or the other of the controversial provisions.

But both deals fell through, and the committee members broke off discussions early in the evening, announcing plans to meet again today.

House Speaker Vernal G. Riffe Jr., D-89 New Boston, who is pressing for final legislative action, warned however: "At the rate they're going, we might have to appoint a new conference committee unless they get something done soon."

Both chambers planned to meet Friday, instead of adjourning as they normally do from Thursday to Monday.

Levi blames public for crime increase

WASHINGTON (AP) — Atty. Gen. Edward H. Levi blames the nation's continuing increase in crime on frightened judges, a complacent public, and prosecutors and police who are reluctant to enforce laws in black communities.

"Judges throughout the United States are afraid to enforce the criminal law," Levi said in response to questions about the crime rate during a Voice of America interview recorded Wednesday for broadcast Saturday.

Asked whether he believed the American public "accepts the high level of crime," Levi replied, "Yes, I do. It's amazing."

He continued, "We have a very erroneous notion on the part of many people in prosecutors' offices and in police departments that there was some unfairness in enforcing the criminal law because it might hit at certain groups, that it might be harsh on minority groups."

But the attorney general added, "The opposite is true. That kind of attitude which has given fewer services to the inner city, therefore less fire protection, fewer playgrounds, and above all, less enforcement of the criminal law, is a terrible way to treat a minority population, and I think that is now coming to be realized.

Levi said he expects "great changes, really, in our success in handling this."

He cited the Ford administration's proposal for mandatory minimum prison sentences for violent and serious federal offenders.

However, the administration proposal would not reach most violent attacks and street crimes because they are violations of state law, not federal law.

Lima woman killed in Columbus crash

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Celia M. Pohlabel, 25, of Lima, was killed early today when her car was struck by another that pulled out of a side street, Columbus police said.

Direct negotiations demanded by Rabin

By The Associated Press

An Israeli government source said today Egypt has "accepted in general terms" Israel's concept for an interim agreement in the Sinai.

It was not known whether Egypt had also agreed to Prime Minister Yithak Rabin's call Wednesday night for the withdrawl accord to be completed "in direct negotiations" between the two countries.

The Israeli negotiating team, comprised of Rabin, Foreign Minister Yigal Allon and Defense Minister Shimon Peres, met today to discuss the Egyptian reply to the latest Israeli proposals received Wednesday night from Washington. Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger had conveyed the Egyptian stand to Israeli Ambassador Simcha Dinitz.

A government source in Jerusalem said that, while the Egyptians accepted Israel's concept of a strong defense line in Sinai, details of the line still had to be worked out. Also to be decided, the source said, was the future of Israeli radar stations in the Sinai mountains and curtailment of anti-Israel political and economic activity by Egypt.

The source said issues in the agreement dealing with IsraeliU.S. relations had been nearly settled. These included the value of American economic assistance and American aid in replacing oil supplies which would be lost if Israel withdrew from the Sinai oilfield of Abu Rudeis. Israel now draws more than 50 per cent of its oil needs from the occupied Egyptian field, which will be returned as part of any agreement.

Rabin's speech Wednesday night appeared to add a new condition to agreement on another Sinai withdrawal.

"At the last phase of the negotiations, before an agreement is signed between Egypt and Israel there must be face-to-face meetings between delegations of our two countries," Rabin said Wednesday.

Sources close to Rabin said the signing might take place in Geneva no sooner than Sept. 1.

They said the final stage may be preceded by another diplomatic shuttle by Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger.

In Washington, however, President Ford said differences "are still very serious" and U.S. efforts to ease tensions in the Middle East "might not work."

Rabin spoke after Egyptian Foreign Minister Ismail Fahmy announced Egypt's agreement to extend the mandate for the United Nations buffer force in the Sinai desert until Oct. 24. That mandate was to expire today.

Fahmy said President Anwar Sadat's original decision against an extension "awoke the world to the dangerous possibilities in the area and forced all the directly concerned parties, such as Israel, and the indirectly concerned parties, such as the United States, to confront their responsibilities."

Egypt had opposed the extension on grounds that Israel was using the 3,919-man force in the seven-mile-wide buffer zone to perpetuate its occupation of Egyptian land in a "no-war no-peace" situation.

Mission control falling silent

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) Always before, there was another mission; always before, there was another American waiting to vault into space.

Now there are no more, at least for years to come.

The console screens in mission control go dark, to sleep until they are awakened some day by the Space Shuttle.

The voice of Apollo stills, for Apollo will be no more. Just as Gemini and Mercury, the generations before it, are no more.

Mercury was the hesitant stab into space. With Gemini, spacecraft lost their running boards: men learned to live in space, to walk in space, to meet in space.

Apollo was the dream that began as a nightmare. It had not yet left the ground with men when three astronauts died in rehearsal for the flight to come.

But always there was another mission. Apollo flew.

Apollo 7, around the earth.

Apollo 8. From around the moon, men read from Genesis. "In the beginning...." A manmade star was in the sky on Christmas Eve.

Apollo 9, a test of the lunar lander near earth.

Coming as they did, in twomonth intervals, the flights generated excitement even as they stretched man's reach from his planet.

Eagle. The ungainly, spindlelegged creature of man's technology, designed to take men to the moon and to rocket them off again.

"The Eagle has landed," said Neil Armstrong on July 20, 1969. Man was speaking from the moon. The unconquerable had been conquered.

Apollo 11 proved it could be done. Why again?

Because we could no more learn what the entire moon is like from one sampling than another planet's spacecraft could learn from the earth with a single visit. So always there was another mission.

Apollo 12, a scientific package, remained on the moon, to take its measurements to this very day.

Apollo 13. An explosion riveted the world's attention on the desperate plight of three fragile men 200,000 miles from home. The triumph was that they survived.

Always there was another mission. Apollo 14, Apollo 15, Apollo 16, all moon landings; all successful.

Apollo 17, the last visit. Twelve men with American flags on their sleeves had walked on the moon.

Now, Apollo turned its attention to earth. Skylab. Scientists looking homeward from a space laboratory — 29 days, 59 days, 84 days.

And still there was another mission, a final one aimed at easing the tensions on earth.

On two continents, mighty boosters sent three Americans and two Russians aloft, to meet above the earth for a handshake.

As if to improve on the plan, the men hugged — an unforgettable moment in an era of unforgettable moments.

There is no other mission.

Let's tour Ohio series

A scenic auto trip along the Ohio River from Portsmouth to Point Pleasant with possible short-side-trips to Kentucky and into Ohio's Highland and Adams Counties feature AAA's suggested tour this week.

Why not a car pool-take the entire family, or relatives or neighbors? It's a chance to share the wheel and the gasoline.

PORTSMOUTH

(1) Portsmouth. Once a bustling river trade center, the city sees only occasional tow boats and barges. Subject to disastrous floods in the past from the Ohio and Scioto Rivers, the city is protected by a huge 77-foot floodwall. River Days are held annually for five days prior to and including Labor Day, featuring boat races.

(2) Shawnee State Park. . .12 miles southwest of Portsmouth on Ohio 125 near Friendship. 664-acre recreational tract lies within 57,000 acre Shawnee State Forest. Swimming, fishing, boating and camping available at 17-acre Roosevelt Lake.

(3) Horsehoe Mound, Mound Park, Hutchins Avenue between Grant and 17th Avenues, Portsmouth. Horseshoe Mound is located in the public park, along with other mounds used by the Indians in this area.

(4) Greenup Locks and Dam, 10 miles upstream from Portsmouth. Best viewed from Kentucky side with Riverview observation platform and recreational area. New facilities now elevate tows in 20 minutes.

RIPLEY

(5) Rankin House. Restored home of Rev. John Rankin, early Ohio Abolitionist. A station on the underground railroad, it is reputedly the home in which Eliza, in Uncle Tom's Cabin, found refuge crossing the ice on the Ohio River here. Admission charge. Closed Mondays.

HIGHLAND COUNTY

(6) Fort Hill, 18 miles southeast of Hillsboro, three miles north of Sinking Springs on Ohio 41. Prehistoric Indian hilltop earthworks and natural history preserve. Daylight hours. Picnicking. Museum of prehistoric Hopewell Indians and natural history. Closed Mondays.

ADAMS COUNTY

(7) Serpent Mound, four miles northwest of Locust Grove on Ohio 73. Largest serpent effigy mound in the U.S. Scenic gorge. Daylight hours. Picnicking. Museum, daylight hours.

PEEBLES

(8) Edwin H. Davis State Memorial, 3½ miles southwest of Ohio 41 on Ohio 129. Nature preserve covering 88 acres. Plants, trees, found here include redbud, tulip trees, arrowwood linden, black walnut, red cedar, witch hazel and wild hydrangeas. Nature trails. Open daylight hours.

POINT PLEASANT

(9) Grant Birthplace, north on U.S. 52 and Ohio 232. State memorial house of Gen. Ulysses S. Grant. 18th President of the United States was born here April 27, 1822. House has been carefully restored. Adjoining the property is a state roadside park. Admission charge. Closed Monday.

AAA urges you to drive carefully and suggests this routing to the tour area: From Washington C.H. take Rt. 62 south through Hillsboro and on into Ripley. Continue east along the river on Rt. 52 to the points of interest around Portsmouth. Return home by Rt. 73, with a side trip to Peebles, and on to Hillsboro picking up Rt. 62 back to Washington C.H.

Letters to the Editor

EDITOR, RECORD-HERALD:

In regard to the July 18 edition, I'm writing about the article by State Representative Bob McEwen.

I do agree with Bob on some of his standings and thinking, but there are some that I don't. One of them is his statement on the security that the army gives you. The article said "It offers an annual minimum income, wakes you up in the morning, puts you to bed at night, feeds, clothes and buries you; it even has life insurance for your survivors. All you pay for this is your freedom."

These are Mr. McEwen's words not mine.

Just where would your freedom be, Mr. McEwen, if it were not for people like that? That statement as far as I'm concerned went over like a lead balloon. As a veteran I want to speak out and defend the army and all the other branches of the service that protect our country and its people and even you.

Also on this free enterprise, you speak about big business helping to abolish it day by day. Just this past week Congressman Harsha's article stated about the oil industry jacking up the prices on the eve of the Fourth of July which they had no reason to do. He stated last year the produced 90 per cent capacity and this year it is 83 per cent. They are producing less and making more profit. I am opposed to socialism, and I oppose it with a passion but when free enterprise does things like this it is leading the country into it. I have had the privilege to talk to a man from Sweden and he explained their situation and he agreed with me that socialism is no good.

But what has brought things like the anti-trust laws and minimum wage law because of the free enterprise would not do any thing more than the law prescribes.

I have talked to some people around here and the southern part of the state about working. They stated "Why should I work when I can do better on welfare?" I believe in an honest day's pay for an honest day's work, not hand outs.

Mr. McEwen, I have the highest respect for you and your ability, but those two points rubbed me the wrong way. Until free enterprise gets less greedy I think we will continue to have this problem.

EDITOR, RECORD-HERALD:

Rumors have circulated that Morris Bean and Company, Cedarville, (whose employes have been on strike for the past 14 weeks) will discharge committeemen and others leading the strike when an agreement is reached.

In a recent meeting with company negotiators, the union sought to ascertain whether this, in fact, was the company's position.

To resolve this matter, the union requested the company to provide a written statement that no striking employe of the firm would be discharged because of his or her participation in the strike to this point. The company refused to issue such a statement.

Because of this refusal, the union can only believe that the company plans disciplinary action and a number of employes are to be fired. After all, if the company was not going to fire committeemen and others, they surely would not mind saying so in writing.

The company statement indicated that this threat of discharge of employes should be tabled and more important matters discussed.

The loss of jobs by discharge is a very important matter to the union and little progress toward a settlement of this dispute can occur until we receive assurance that our members will not be discharged.

Bill Wakely,
Union President

EDITOR'S NOTE — The letter written by Wakely was brought to the Record-Herald by employe George Kimball, 1136 Campbell St., Morris Bean and Company is a foundry which produces molds for the tire manufacturing industry.

Ohio Perspective

State subsidizing new structure

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — State departments are subsidizing the skyscraper State Office Tower in downtown Columbus with rents nearly twice as high, at least in one case, than they might pay elsewhere.

State Auditor Thomas E. Ferguson refused to move his office into the 44-story edifice, and instead moved into a nearby office building owned by the School Employes Retirement System.

Ferguson said his costs in the retirement systems building the first year, including remodeling, is going to be $393,578, or about $9.25 a square foot. The second year and thereafter, he said, his rent would be $292,271 or $6.70 a square foot.

In sharp contrast, he said, his allotted 35,103 square feet in the office tower, after $102,000 worth of remodeling to accommodate his computers, would have been $465,506 a year, or about $13.25 a square foot.

Ferguson said he has 42,506 square feet in the retirement systems building less than half a block from the tower.

Other state departments probably could not be permitted to avail themselves of the same option Ferguson chose. Even if downtown space was available, the state faces the obligation of paying off costs of the new skyscraper with its 689,000 square feet of useable space.

SOT cost the state $64 million to build and interest will hike the overall total to more than $83 million — if the debt is paid off in the next 30 years as planned.

Dana L. Stewart, executive director of the Ohio Building Authority, didn't try to defend the fact that the departments — many of them on less than continuation budgets as a result of inflation and declining state revenues — are having to pay higher rent.

"If they went commercial, they would pay less," he said. "That's agreed. But, this isn't a standard commercial building. You can look at the lobby, the art work.

"It's a special building. We admit this. It's more or less a monument, and it was planned long before I got here," said Stewart, an Ohio National Guard major general who served as adjutant general in the administration of former Democratic Gov. John J. Gilligan.

Plans called for SOT to be fully occupied by July 1, but Stewart said there was a delay in bringing in the Department of Mental Health and Mental Retardation.

It will occupy the 11th through 13th floors, probably beginning about the first of next year. A department spokesman said the delay is attributed primarily to moving costs for about 300 central office employes and equipment from the department's present facilities in suburban Columbus.

Stewart said OBA had to turn to hike rents when it became apparent the $8.12 a square foot, originally decided on, would not be enough to pay off the debt.

"Someone has to pay for the concourse, the heliport, the two floors that have mechanical equipment and the other areas," Stewart said.

The Department of Administrative Services pro rates the building's operating and debt retirement costs to state agencies.

"We have to sell the state the whole building," Stewart said.

Fire buffs hold convention

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — If a major fire breaks out anywhere in Columbus between now and Saturday, officials already have announced that a convention will automatically adjourn to the site of that blaze.

In fact, some 300 members of the International Fire Buff Associates, Inc., plan to burn down a house as an official program activity.

Representing 21 states and Canada at the meeting, the buffs will take a look at an emergency medic program, view the latest in fire apparatus, see a house burning (under local fire department supervision) and take a look at a highrise rescue via helicopter.

International President John Van Dyke of Columbus says the organization is dedicated to turning people's natural fascination for fires into community service.

"It's almost an inbred quality in people," he says. "They have an aversion to fires, but at the same time are fascinated by them. We'll go out of our way to watch one. Most of us have spent lots of money on expensive radio equipment so we can be as informed as possible.

"Maybe it's the little child in us coming out, but when we see the local firemen save a lumber company, it's more thrilling than a baseball game. But we want to do more than just watch. We want to help."

Volunteers in 66 local organizations provide various types of service, from making coffee and food available to firemen on the scene of a blaze to general advice. An engineer might assist in equipment design or a lawyer give informal legal advice, Van Dyke said.

Some of the buffs carry their hobby a bit further, and the convention is featuring lots of talk about some of the collections members have put together over the years antique equipment, mugs, badges, belt buckles or anything related to fire fighting.

Ruppert sent to prison

HAMILTON, Ohio (AP) — Convicted mass murderer James U. Ruppert is on his way to the Southern Ohio Correctional Facility to begin serving 11 consecutive life terms.

The 41-year-old Ruppert, whose motion for a new trial was overruled Tuesday, was taken to the Chillicothe Correctional Institute Wednesday for processing prior to his transfer to the penitentiary at Lucasville..

Woman still keeping child as babysitter for 6 years

RENO, Nev. (AP) — Six years ago, a young black couple asked Mae Ducharm to babysit their two-week-old daughter for a few weeks.

The 68-year-old white woman still has the child, and, to little Monique, she is the only mother the black youngster has ever known.

Mrs. Ducharm said the couple told her they were in show business and would be back for Monique in three weeks. She said they left two baby suits, an extra diaper and $100.

She said that when Monique was three months old, her mother called to say she was in a Las Vegas jail for stabbing her husband. One year later, she came back to see the child. That was almost five years ago and she hasn't returned, Mrs. Ducharm said.

"We sit and watch television and have ice cream cones at night," Mrs. Ducharm says of Monique. "And every night she says, 'Good night, Mother. I love you. I love you, Mother."

Mrs. Ducharm, a widow with three grown daughters, lives in a trailer home. Her only income is $125 a month from Social Security and $75 a month from the sale of a house.

Last summer, Mrs. Ducharm said she sought medical aid for Monique's asthma condition through the Washoe County Welfare Division, and as a result a case worker learned Mrs. Ducharm was not the girl's legal guardian.

"They told me they wanted to put Monique up for adoption or in a foster home," Mrs. Ducharm said. "I just sat down and cried. They said I was too old to have her and that my trailer was too small.

"I told them they're not going to take her away from me. She's just like my own. I've raised little Baby Doll since she was two weeks old. I call her my little Baby Doll."

A friend told her to ask the NAACP and the Reno Race Relations Center for help. She said representatives of those two groups talked with the caseworker and that the welfare division has not mentioned adoption or foster homes to her since.

Mrs. Ducharm said a representative of the Race Relations Center told her to take Monique to a physician for treatment of her asthma and that the bill would be paid somehow.

'Out and About'

Dear Readers,

I have been presenting this arts page for close to four months now, attempting to inform those who would like to become more involved with the arts what there is to do in the vicinity which is art-oriented. There is still a muttered complaint there is nothing to do in Washington C.H., but I feel this page has helped the situation to some extent. Anyway, due to an experience which happened to me earlier in the week I must admit I'm mighty proud to live here, although it's been only two years and my roots stem from more exciting towns, having grown up in Cleveland, lived awhile in Los Angeles and generally traveled all over the country.

It was last Sunday evening. I was sitting outside with my two dogs watching everything acquire a golden glow as the sun started its descent in the west. I lit a cigarette and began questioning my life, my future, my purpose and whether or not I was fulfilling any niche' in the cosmic order of things. I guess I was bored.

I motioned to the dogs it was time to go inside when I faintly heard the telephone ringing. It was Sgt. Luther Anderson of the Washington C.H. Police Department. He told me there were seven people consisting of a man and wife, the man's mother and the couple's four daughters ranging in age from 8-12, who were en route to Maryland, but stranded in town for the night without accommodations and he asked if I knew where they could be housed for the evening. I told him I'd call him back and proceeded to check with more knowledgeable persons in town, but no one seemed to be home, so when I returned the call I told Luther my apartment was small, but we could make do. I would be down in a few minutes to get them.

The whole incident flooded me with memories of being cold and hungry and worst of all lonely while I was traveling through the west in 1972 in an attempt to find work as a journalist in California. Many times I felt I couldn't take it anymore and wanted to head back home and sit with familiar faces who I didn't have to constantly prove my trust, honesty and worthiness to in an attempt to remove their natural delusions of paranoia so prevalent in today's society. It was during these times the good I had done thus far in my life came back to me which was the most important lesson I was to learn during my travels - during my life.

During these times someone would appear, usually saying, "Wow, you've got Ohio license plates and you're a long way from home. Do you need a hot meal, a shower, a warm place to stay?" And now, three years later, I still keep in touch with the many good people who took me in and re-kindled my slipping confidence, making me feel secure once again - giving me the strength to travel on.

So, I went ot the police station and met the John Gosnell family. After they had some dinner at my place and the children were put to bed, sleeping on sofas and the floor, John and I sat up in the night smoking cigarettes and drinking coffee, discussing the many events which brought him to my S. Fayette Street rest-stop.

He had had an operation in his Baltimore, Md., hometown which turned out to be more complicated than expected. When he was well enough to return to work, his job had been filled by someone else. It was at this time he decided to gather up his family and pursue a job opening out west and get a new start.

Money was tight and a crippling blow was dealt when their rented car, overloaded with possessions necessary to re-locate and seven people, reached their destination and anticipated employment opportunity didn't pan out. In despair they turned around to head back.

In Colorado the car with all the possessions was stolen and the family set out in a snowstorm hitch-hiking with just the clothes on their backs. They were given aid in the towns they passed through by such organizations as the Salvation Army, various police departments and private citizens who were moved by the family's story, but as John put it, "Many times we wound up in a town we would have liked to settle in, but the organizations dedicated to helping transients knew it was easier to buy a bus ticket than to find a man housing,a job, so we were always hurried on our way again."

Many of John's stories made me question what some people felt "aid" really was. There were times they were given a room, but had to shoo the rats out first and brush the cockroaches out of the bed before lying down to get much needed rest. In one such place, John told of staying up all night propped against the room door in an effort to keep the drunks, who constantly banged against it, from getting in.

But, there were good times too. One of his favorite stories were coming across a Hilton Hotel in the middle of nowhere and talking the newly appointed manager into giving up one of the 500 rooms - many of them vacant - to them for free. The manager fell on the floor laughing and then John motioned his band of wary troopers inside and it suddenly wasn't so funny. The manager then summoned a chauffeur and told him to take the family in the Hilton Cadillac to the nearest hamburger joint for a meal. "I'll never forget the look on those people's faces in the fast-food carry-out when the big black car pulled up and we in our rags, entered dirty and road-weary, ordered hamburgers and were then wisked away back to the Hilton!" John exclaimed laughing.

John will have a favorite story to tell about Washington C.H. also. A story of how the "Community with a Smile," as the sign states on the CCC-Highway-NW leading into town proved to him and his family the smile was no facade, for it provided real friendship, brotherhood and help.

The following day - we stopped talking as the sun cast everything in blue while making its ascent and decided to get some rest - I ran an article in Coffee Break explaining the family's plight and need of donations and clothing. The response was overwhelming! Clean clothes which fit all seven members were brought to the city fire department, along with donations totaling over $50. The Fayette County Welfare Department came up with food money and Lt. Cecil Seaman of the Washington C.H. Fire Department even found an afternoon job for John, painting porches which allowed him to make his own way financially, re-kindling his own self-worth and value.

It became apparent after two days and two nights my apartment wasn't large enough to house eight people and two dogs and Ralph and Hazel Marchant stepped into the picture, offering their huge farm to the group so they could have sleeping accommodations and some country peace and quiet before resuming their trip.

The family decided to travel on Wednesday afternoon, feeling more refreshed and much more confident than before. The clothing which they could not use or carry with them will be given to the United Churches Clothing Fund, which was the largest clothing contributor. This story is a rather informal "thank you" to all who helped out - many did not leave their names - and as I type this final paragraph I wonder where John and his wife Pat, his mother and the four children are tonight on the road, but I'm confident they'll make it back and I feel kinda warm inside knowing when things get tough again - and they probably will - the family can look back on Washington C.H., remembering the out-stretched helping hand extended to them holding the necessary faith to continue.

It's time to get down to business and I'm pleased to announce the prizes for the Photo of the Week contest are getting better all the time. The 1st-place winner gets two tickets to the Ohio Theater in Columbus to see a good flick and the 2nd place winner receives two passes to view one of the plays presented at the Sabina Barn Theater. Prize one goes to Doug Harrison of Wilmington with his caption "Which one of you bums had beans for dinner?" and prize two goes to Donna Morgan of 913 S. North St. for her caption "So who cares where Saskatchewan is located?" What I want to find is that cool chick I met last night!" Good work readers! Be sure and take a look at this week's Photo of the Week and send in your captions by 3 p.m. Tuesday.

COLOR ME CONTENT — Pictured are three of John Gosnell's daughters busily coloring a poster. During the family's stay with me I tried to keep the children entertained while I was at work. Even though John and his wife, his mother and the four girls, had been traveling with just the clothes on their backs en route to Maryland from Colorado, because their car and clothing had been stolen, I found things had to get pretty rough before the four free-spirited girls gave in to the hassles. They were content to not only color the poster for me (which I was supposed to enter in a coloring contest, but hadn't gotten around to it yet), they also cleaned the apartment!

Donald McDowell is the man behind the selection of motion pictures being shown in the Ohio Theater summer series and he tells me the number of people who went to see the return or re-run three day engagement of "The Sound of Music" was in excess of 12,000 persons! Imagine the entire population of Washington C.H. going to see just one particular picture on one weekend.

That says something about entertainment considered successful. He is trying to locate a "print" (that means film copy) of a wide screen stereophonic version of MGM's "Silver Jubilee Overture." If he is successful one of the all time great musical short subject films will be shown with the movie and I urged everyine to try to see it!

Speaking of entertainment, that is just what this week has had for all of the people here. There have been some of the best racing cars you could find anywhere in the world right here at the Fayette County Fair; a good Country and Western show from Nashville; and yet to come, a Demolition Derby which will give the thrills seekers their pleasure this coming weekend - all at the Fayette County Fair!

In town right now is a representative of the Columbia Artists Management or Community Concert program and he is talking to the local Fayette County Arts Association about the prospects of the Community Concerts Program being brought to Washington C.H. during this coming year. All those interested in supporting such a program should contact Mrs. Earl Hartley, president of the Local Arts Association before Tuesday or be at the meeting Tuesday evening, August 29, at Grace United Methodist Church.

Incidentally, the Fayette County Arts Association is the group responsible for the Shook and Caufield Photographic display which appeared for one month in the lobby of the Huntington Bank and who brought the Smithsonian Institute's bicentennial display of American Coverlets to the same bank lobby this past month. The display in part has been moved to the Arts and Crafts Building at the Fayette County Fair where a few thousand more can see this interesting exhibit of early American Coverlets. It is well worth the special trip to see just how the weaving and coverlets were done. The display will be at the Huntington Bank lobby until Tuesday and then travels on to Ashtabula, Ohio.

The Fayette County Coral Society is getting ready for its first public appearance and the group has grown to more than half a hundred now. It promises to be something we can all be very proud of because it is composed of our own people right here in Fayette County. The society is still open to all who want to sing. They rehearse this coming Monday night at the First Presbyterian Church, corner of Market and Hinde streets. So if you want to sing, join this group now and you can still be free on Tuesday to support or voice your ideas at the Arts Council meeting on Tuesday, concerning the Community Concerts Series.

Although I have not seen "Benji," I do know the film is rated "G" - for general audiences and it opens locally next week. It should be good family entertainment and you can enjoy seeing the story of this little dog in the comfort of your own car with all the popcorn and hotdogs you want.

Any list of ten best great films ever made would certainly have to include "Dr. Zhivago". The picture won eight Academy Awards and for any one who missed it or wants to see it again in full color and wide screen they can do so this weekend. It will be shown Friday, Saturday and Sunday at the Ohio Theater and as an added plus, Dennis James will present the half hour "mini concert" on the theater organ before each performance. I can't tell you how he will be dressed this week; however, last week the 10,000 plus in the audience got one added laugh to the laugh-a-minute "What's Up Doc" when the organ rose out of that huge black pit with a huge Bugs Bunny playing it! The adults got as big a thrill as all the kids who went to see Ryan O'Neal and Barbara Streisand.

As for "Dr. Zhivago" this weekend, I would like to mention the magnificant scenery and photography. As the dramatic story unfolds against the background of the Russian Revolution, you are treated to some of the greatest winter scenery ever photographed. special locations in Spain were used and some of the battle scenes encompass authentic locales.

The sleigh ride is spectacular and for those who enjoy model railroads, you can see authentic early 1900 railroads in operation. The cast is excellent with Omar Scharif, Geraldine Chaplin (Charlie's daughter), Rod Steiger, Rita Tushingham from England and Julie Christie, just to mention a few of the performers. Every one of them is outstanding!

If you enjoy the antics of Peter Sellers, then you will certainly not want to miss his Inspector Caouzot performance in "The Return of the Pink Panther." It is funny, but without much meaning.

August 8 - Hara Arena in Dayton presents Roberta Flack in concert at 8:30 p.m. with guest star Donald Byrd and the Blackbirds.

Variety at Sabina Theater

A variety of entertainment is available to local audiences this weekend with the Sabina Barn Theatre productions of the Pulitzer prize-winning "Our Town" on Friday, July 25 and the Richard Rodgers musical "Two by Two" on Saturday, July 26.

"Our Town" is set in the 1900's with Randy Adams as the Stage Manager, providing the details of the action in Grover's Corners, N. H. The lives of George Gibbs (Cabot Rea) and Emily Webb (Jenny Herron) become entwined, blossom and die in this touching drama by America's famed playwright, Thornton Wilder.

Bill Brewer appears as George's father, Doc Gibbs, while Marcia Phillips plays Emily's mother, Mrs. Webb.

Turning back to the clock 2,000 years, the Barn Theatre presents the Richard Rodgers musical "Two by Two." This heart-warming version of the Biblical story of Noah was acclaimed on Broadway and brought its star, Danny Kaye, a Tony nomination.

Noah (Bill Brewer) has one week to get his wife Esther (Marcia Phillips) and three sons onto the ark for forty days and nights.

Curtain time for both shows is set for 8:15 p.m. with a smorgasbord dinner served at 6:30 p.m. Dinner reservations should be made six days in advance.

The Sabina Barn Theatre is located at Sabina Campgrounds on Route 22 between Washington Court House and Wilmington and operates under the auspices of the regional camping committee of the West Ohio Conference of the United Methodist Church.

The cost for dinner and show runs $6.50 and children under 10 receive the package deal for $4.50. Play tickets, sold only on a first-come-first-serve basis, run $2.50 apiece.

The ticket box office may be contacted at 513-584-2671 from 1 p.m. through 5 p.m. daily for additional information.

PLAYING IN THE BARN — The Sabina Barn Theater will present the play "Our Town" by Thornton Wilder this Friday and the musical "Two by Two" by Richard Rodgers on Saturday.

Music, movies and play and all in Wilmington

WILMINGTON, Ohio — Residents in Clinton and surrounding counties will be treated to an evening of "Music on the Mall" at Wilmington College on Friday, July 25.

A program of spanish folk music, sung in Spanish and English, will be presented by Carlos Arrigh, noted Bolivian folk singer, at 8 p.m. at the carillon on the college's Collett Mall. There will be no charge.

William Matthews, the college's Direct of Student Activities, said guests should "bring their own blankets or lawn chairs to sit on while enjoying this concert under the stars."

Matthews added there will also be two evenings of "Movies on the Mall." The films, including classic "oldies" featuring such stars as Mae West, Lon Chaney, Laurel & Hardy, the Marx Brothers, and W.C. Fields, will be shown at the carillon at 9 p.m. on August 15 and August 22, again no charge.

The program for August 15 will feature a Mae West film and Lon Chaney's "Phantom of the Opera."

The August 22 program will include three shorts featuring Laurel & Hardy, the Marx Brothers, and W.C. Fields, and a full-length feature, "Whatever Happened to Baby Jane?" starring Bette Davis.

Tickets may be purchased at the door or in advance by calling 513-382-6661, (Ext. 267) Monday through Friday from 9 a.m. to noon and from 1 to 4 p.m.

The Wilmington College Summer Festival of the Arts was organized by a group of Wilmington area residents to provide an on-going community arts program for all ages.

The Festival is funded through support of local patrons and Wilmington College. This year, for the third consecutive year, the festival is the recipient of a grant from the Ohio Arts Council.

Tennessee Williams' modern classic, "Cat On A Hot Tin Roof," will be presented at Wilmington College at 8 p.m. July 24, 25, and 26.

The drama, to be held in the Boyd Auditorium on campus, is the second presentation in the 1975 Wilmington College Summer Festival of the Arts series. Tickets are $1.50.

Williams' intense story of family relationships will be directed by Hugh Heiland, Professor of Theatre at Wilmington College. It will star Jim Cassidy as "Big Daddy," Stephanie Hodge as "Maggie," Ed O'Brien as "Brick," and Gayle Reinsmith as "Big Momma."

Hydra bucks Treasury Dept.

MACON, GA. — Capricorn recording artists, Hydra, have drawn the ire of the United States Treasury Department with the release of the group's forthcoming album, "Land of Money." The album cover of "Land of Money," which depicts a Louisiana State Trooper blowing his nose on a $100 bill, was twice rejected by the Treasury Department in Washington, D.C., before final approval was given to an altered design of the bill. The final design has the $100 numerals removed and replaced with simple dollar signs ($). Other changes in the bill's appearance were also made before final clearance was given. The album cover revisions caused a delay of over two weeks in the album's scheduled release date. "Land of Money" will now ship on July 25.

Daniel Boone true lover of wilderness

By DON McLEOD
Associated Press Writer

During the American Revolution, Daniel Boone was captured by Indians and took to camp life so enthusiastically that fellow prisoners began to question his loyalty.

There was nothing wrong with Daniel Boone's patriotism — he was just having a good time. Boone dearly loved the wild life of the American frontier.

The wilderness was cruel to Boone at times. Indians tortured one of his sons to death. They cut off his brother's head while Daniel was running for his own life a few yards away. Another son died of an Indian bullet in the last battle of the Revolution.

But it was good to him, too. It provided a living. A good hunter could bring in several hundred deerskins in a season, with the market price sometimes as high as $5 dollars a skin.

And a man could breathe in the wilderness. Life close to nature was the next thing to heaven for Daniel Boone.

Two hundred years ago, as the American Revolution began, Boone was building Boonesborough, Ky., after cutting the Wilderness Road which opened the great American interior to settlement.

Boone was the complete Founding Father. He explored the land, blazed the trail, led in settlers, was elected to the provisional legislature that initially governed the new territory, and introduced one of the first laws enacted in Kentucky, a bill to protect the wildlife.

Then he did something which made him different from most explorers, the thing which made English America different. He went back and got his family. The frontier would be home.

Despite his reputation, Boone didn't enjoy fighting Indians. He liked them. But when it came to fighting, he could outshoot, outrun or outsmart just about anyone on the frontier.

Boone was a great soldier in one of the little known but dirtiest theaters of the Revolution, the western front where British officers and renegades led Indians against settlers.

While hunting food for a saltmaking party, Boone was captured in 1778 by Shawnees heading for Boonesborough. Knowing the outpost was unprepared and could not survive the attack, Boone talked the Indians into settling for the salt party instead and then talked his companions into surrendering to save the settlement.

The brave pioneers so impressed their captors that the Indians adopted them. Boone became the son of Chief Blackfish.

Introducing: The Chocolate Manufacturers Association

NOTE: This is the third installment - of the Chocolate Story.

In 1928, when the American Tobacco Company launched a massive advertising campaign with the slogan, "Reach for a Lucky instead of a sweet!", the CMA decided a retaliatory campaign was no answer. Instead, it reminded the public that chocolate was a delicious food, something to be enjoyed. That approach, obviously successful, continues today.

The CMA is involved in a wide range of activities, from basic research to government regulations, from cocoa bean quality to international commodity agreements and tariffs.

Since 1947, CMA has financed the American Cocoa Research Institute with more than $3.5 million for scientific research and training relating to cocoa husbandry. ACRI is an affiliate of CMA, a Delaware nonprofit scientific and educational corporation.

ACRI is a clearinghouse and center for solving technical cocoa problems. Over the years, it has financed many projects. Here are a few examples:

- Training and research scholarships to help growers solve specific problems.
- Special assistance in cocoa bean fermentation and drying so producrers can improve the quality of their crops.
- A grant to the University of the West Indies, Trinidad, to help support cocoa research unit trying to find solutions for international problems of cocoa agriculture.

Chocolate really is something special During World War II, chocolate was declared an essential industry because it supplied allied troops with the only pleasurable item in their daily rations in the field. The industry voluntarily set aside half its production for the armed services.

The Chocolate Manufacturers Association is trying to dispel the myths that surround chocolate. It is doing this through a research program geared to isolating the relationship between chocolate and acne, and chocolate and dental caries.

Through grants, the CMA has suppored research at the University of Pennsylvania School of Medicine. The results, published in the Journal of the American Medical Association, showed no cause-and-effect relationship between chocolate and acne. Dental research at the University of Texas and Harvard indicate that the consumption of chocolate milk "makes no significant difference" in the development of dental cavities.

Founded in 1923, CMA is currently comprised of 15 firms engaged principally in the manufacture and distribution of cocoa and chocolate products. Its members represent more than 80 per cent of the U.S. chocolate industry.

The member companies are: Ambrosia Chocolate Company, Milwaukee, Wis.; The Blommer Chocolate Company, Chicago, Ill.; Cadbury Corporation, Stamford, Conn.; Cococline Chocolate company, Inc., Brooklyn, N.Y.; Ghirardelli Chocolate Company, San Leandro, Calif.; Guittard Chocolate Company Burlingame, Calif.; L.S. Heath and Sons, Inc., Robinson, Ill.; Hershey Foods Corporation, Hershey, Pa.; Hooton Chocolate Company, Newark, N.J.; M&M-Mars, Inc., Elizabethtown, Pa.; The Nestle Company, Inc., White Plains, N.Y.; Peter Paul, Inc., Mount Joy, Pa.; Van Leer Chocolate Corporation, Jersey City, N. J.; Washington Chocolate Company, Seattle, Wash.; and World's Finest Chocolate, Inc., Chicago, Ill.

If you plan to include chicken in menus for a camping trip, try freezing it in individual servings before leaving home. Place enough chicken for one person in an air-tight plastic bag and put in the freezer. When you're ready to leave, gather the bags of frozen chicken together, wrap in aluminum foil and put in cooler or camper refrigerator. The chicken will thaw gradually under refrigerated conditions and be ready for the grill when you reach the camp site.

Chicken is a great favorite as a main course for specil occasion dinners. In a nationwide consumer survey conducted by the National Broiler Council to determine attitudes regarding preparation, purchasing and serving of chicken, more than 75 per cent of those responding said they frequently served chicken for important meals

Their names were omitted in a former report. Miss McCoy and Mrs. Creamer will be married Aug. 2 in South Side Church of Christ.

Youth Activities

4-H ALL STARS

Mr. Jerry Cremeans was guest speaker at the meeting of the 4-H All Stars. He showed a very interesting film on "Fishing in Ohio" and answered questions for all the boys.

Members were reminded of important fair judging dates and reminded to hand in books. The next meeting will be at the pond behind the Washington Swimming Pool, and each is to bring fishing equipment and a sack lunch.

Dear Abby:

ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

Flashing alarm awakens the deaf

DEAR ABBY: Do you have any suggestions on how a deaf person can wake himself up each morning?

This is very important to me because I would like to have my own apartment and live by myself if I can solve this problem.

Thanks for any help you can give me.

R.

DEAR R.: I contacted the Society for the Hard of Hearing, and they suggested an alarm clock with a flashing light. They are sold for around $15 at SHH offices.

I was told that these are very popular because deaf people are highly sensitive to light.

DEAR ABBY: After 30 years of marriage, my husband and I are no longer in love. We have not shared the same bed for the last 10.

I know that for five years he has been in love with another woman who would marry him if he were free, but he is staying with me out of a sense of duty.

We are both miserable this way, but I still need him for security since I have never worked and couldn't support myself. Also, I am used to his company and am afraid to start a new life for myself at my age (51). I don't know which way to turn. Can you advise me?

LOST IN L.A.

DEAR LOST: First, just because you've never worked doesn't mean you can't. Hanging on to a man who keeps an in-name-only marriage intact out of a sense of duty is unfair to him.

Why not talk it over with him? Perhaps, with his help you could find a job in interesting surroundings that would offer many prospects for new friends. If your husband feels as strongly about the futility of your marriage as you do, he might supplement your income or otherwise contribute to your security. If nothing works out, what have you lost?

DEAR ABBY: Thanks for the exchange on fancy church weddings for young couples who have been living together. You're right; it is in poor taste and an unnecessary expense to parents.

It is also a rip-off of the guests invited to the shindig, since they are suppose to show up with gifts in hand to avoid rupturing family and friend relationships.

I don't care if young people want to kick over my traditions, but I think they ought to try to live with the consequences.

The traditional wedding, and the party after it, has always symbolized a new beginning for a new family. So, if the family began two years ago, why throw a party now? And why ask friends to furnish the house?

TIRED OF THE RIP-OFF

DEAR TIRED: Those who feel as you do (and there are many) should decline invitations to such weddings and feel no obligation to send a gift.

DAR members return from Delta Queen

Mrs. R. Deane Powell, Mrs. Norman H. DeMent of Defiance and Mrs. Merritt S. Huber of Bettsville State Regent of Ohio Society Daughters of the American Revolution, returned Sunday from a seven-day cruise on the Steamboat Delta Queen from Cincinnati to the Kentucky Lake. The Ohio Society, DAR, was completing plans for a chartered cruise on the Delta Queen for the Bicentennial year from Pittsburgh, Pa., to Cincinnati, Aug. 30, 1976, to Sept. 4, 1976, to Cincinnati, stopping at seven places along the Ohio River where George Washington had camped.

Wednesday Club meets

The July meeting of the Bloomingburg Wednesday Club took place in the home of Mrs. Harry Elliott, when a carry-in luncheon was enjoyed by members.

Mrs. Lawrence Garinger, president, conducted the brief business meeting, and opened with the poem "Something to Tell you." Minutes of the last meeting were read by Mrs. Roy Pfeifer, and roll call answered something each would like to do. Clever contests were also enjoyed, and Mrs. Garinger closed with "The Truth Will Out."

Members present in addition to Mrs. Elliott, Mrs. Garinger and Mrs. Pfeifer, were Mrs. Forest Haines, Mrs. Don Thornton, Mrs. Fred Oswald, Mrs. Homer Smith and Mrs. Ewing Fichthorn.

The hostess was assisted in the hospitalities by her niece, Mrs. Rachel Smith. The next meeting will be with Mrs. Martin Morris.

Cooking chicken outdoors on the grill is always a pleasant way to serve a summertime meal. This year, it's also an important way to conserve energy. Not only do you save the energy required to cook the chicken, you also avoid heating the stove which in turn raises the temperature of the kitchen and necessitates more energy to cool the house.

Note to brides: when you are buying kitchenware, remember that pots and pans with rounded corners and few seams or crevices simplify dishwashing.

Marriage announced

Mr. and Mrs. James R. Callender of 419 Western Ave., have announced the marriage of their daughter, Mary Ann to Vincent L. Chrisman, son of Mr. and Mrs.Charles Buck of 2391 Rowe-Ging Rd.

The wedding took place July 3 in the Church of Christ in Christian Union with the Rev. Robert Kline officiating.

Kenneth Johnson served as best man for Mr. Chrisman.

Mrs. Callendar chose a pink and white frock for her daughter's marriage, and the bridegroom's mother wore a yellow floral gown of leno-weave accented with forest green ribbon.

A reception took place following the wedding at the home of the groom's parents. A buffet dinner was served, and an arrangement of green carnations, blue daisies and white glads centered the table.

Guests present were Mrs. Ray Mallow, John and Nancy Mallow of Mount Sterling; Miss Pat Roush of New Vienna; Mr. and Mrs. Fred Zink of Hillsboro; Mrs. S.J. Hile Kennedy, Mrs. Shirley Humphries of Cynthiana; and Mr. and Mrs. Steve Summers and son, Michael.

The new Mrs. Chrisman is employed by Candle-Lite, and her husband by the Fayette County Soil Conservation Service. They are now residing at 427 E. Market St.

Health department receives two new home staff nurses

The Fayette County Health Department has added two new staff nurses to the department's home health program and generalized public health services, according to Mrs. Phyllis Richards, supervisor of nurses for the department.

Mrs. Mildred Kimball, formerly of Bethel Park, Pa., has been employed as a full-time staff nurse in charge of the home health program while Mrs. Connie Fenton of 1274 Dayton Ave., is now employed by the department as a generalized public health nurse.

Mrs. Kimball was previously a staff nurse at the John Kane Hospital for the chronically ill in Allegheny County, Pa. for over two years before accepting her new position in Fayette County.

She will now be coordinator of the home health program which provides skilled nursing care to area residents at home through referrals from physicians or hospitals, particularly under the medicare program.

Mrs. Kimball has worked with home visitations through the Franklin Village in Columbus and was formerly employed at Grant Hospital, Columbus, following graduation from the Grant Hospital School of Nursing in 1952.

Originally from the Columbus area, Mrs. Kimball said she decided to return to Ohio to be nearer to her friends and relatives and to relocate in a smaller town. She and her two daughters, Ruth, 18, and Jean, 17, are residing at 432 Van Deman St.

Mrs. Fenton has been employed by the health department through the federally-funded Comprehensive Employment and Training Act (CETA) program until February as a generalized public health nurse.

Her duties at the county health department will include all facets of public health services, such as school nursing, communicable disease care, venereal disease, chronic diseases and rheumatic fever treatment, crippled children's services, family planning and immunizations.

The 23-year-old public health nurse graduated with a bachelor of science degree in nursing from the Ohio State University school of nursing in June, where she trained at University Hospital and Children's Hospital in Columbus.

Time pressure faces solons

WASHINGTON (AP) — With Congress planning a month-long vacation in August and oil price controls due to expire Aug. 31, the Ford administration and the legislators are facing time pressure in their efforts to agree on U.S. energy policy.

Republican congressional sources say Ford later this week may offer a compromise plan that would achieve the administration's goal of boosting petroleum prices. At the same time, such a compromise would meet the demands of many congressional Democrats that the price escalation be carried out over a longer period of time than previously proposed by the President.

Meanwhile, the House leadership was to decide today whether an attempt should be made to override Ford's veto earlier this week of a bill that would have extended existing price controls and imposed new controls.

The vetoed bill would continue the $5.25 price ceiling on old oil and also would roll back new oil prices to $11.28 a barrel from the current unregulated world market price of around $13.

Old oil is from wells producing no more than their 1972 levels and makes up about 60 per cent of U.S. production. The $5.25 price ceiling expires Aug. 31, and it is widely anticipated that any sudden end to price controls would quickly drive up consumer costs for petroleum products. The House earlier this week killed Ford's plan to allow old oil prices to rise gradually over a 30-month period.

Meanwhile, the House Rules Committee cleared the way for a floor vote on a Senate-passed bill to extend the price-control law until March 1, 1976.

A few showers broke out over northern Ohio during the night and clouds held temperatures generally in the 70s.

Early this morning, temperatures several parts of the state had dropped to only 75 degrees. Showers and thunderstorms occurred in a band from Michigan to Texas ahead of a cold front stretching from Wisconsin to Kansas.

This front was expected to reach northwest Ohio this evening and pass through the state tonight. Cooler, drier air will follow the front, ending the showers tonight and giving relief from the warm, humid weather of the past week.

Highs today will generally be in the mid to upper 80s. Cooler temperatures tonight will be in the upper 50s and 60s. Highs Friday will be in the upper 70s or low 80s with considerable sunshine.

Fair Saturday and Sunday and a chance of showers Monday. Highs in the upper 70s and low 80s Saturday, warming to the mid to upper 80s by Monday. Lows from the upper 50s to mid 60s.

The common dormouse spends more time in hibernation than any other mammal. The hibernation usually lasts between five and six months (October to April), but the record goes to an English specimen sleeping six months 23 days, with interruption.

U.S. fastener industry hurting

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — If the U.S. fastener industry is to be saved, the nation must curb imports by holding the line on tariff cuts, acting unilaterally if necessary, an industry spokesman says.

"Import competition is forcing the U.S. fastener manufacturing community to turn off a great number of its machines," said Clyde F. Roberts Jr., president of the locally based Industrial Fasteners Institute, placing much of the blame on Japan.

Failure to check the inflow which last year equaled 18 per cent of the nation's $2.67 billion in shipments will result in "total abandonment of standard fastener production in the United States," Roberts said in testimony prepared for a recent hearing of the U.S Trade Policy Staff Committee in Washington, D.C.

"It is imperative for our trade negotiators...to negotiate nontariff trade barriers and tariff levels together," he added.

And so long as the result is moderation of the pressure from imports and preservation of the U.S. industry, it "makes little difference" whether the necessary action "is done unilaterally or on a negotiated basis," he added.

The United States imported $482 million worth of mechanical fasteners in 1974, of which about 67 per cent or $325 million came from Japan, he said. He also said 52 per cent of the U.S. market for standard nuts last year was mey by imports.

"Unless the government takes action to check these trends, imports will displace virtually all domestic production of standard fasteners within a few years," he said.

"For that reason," he said, "our industry is firmly opposed to further reductions in the tariff rates for industrial fastener products, either in the context of the multilateral trade negotiations or the generalized system of preferences authorized by the Trade Act of 1974."

Roberts said the U.S. industry "is generally efficient and well-managed" and should be able to hold its own against imports except that "normal competitive conditions do not exist where imports from Japan are concerned."

Patrol checks U.S. 35 wreck

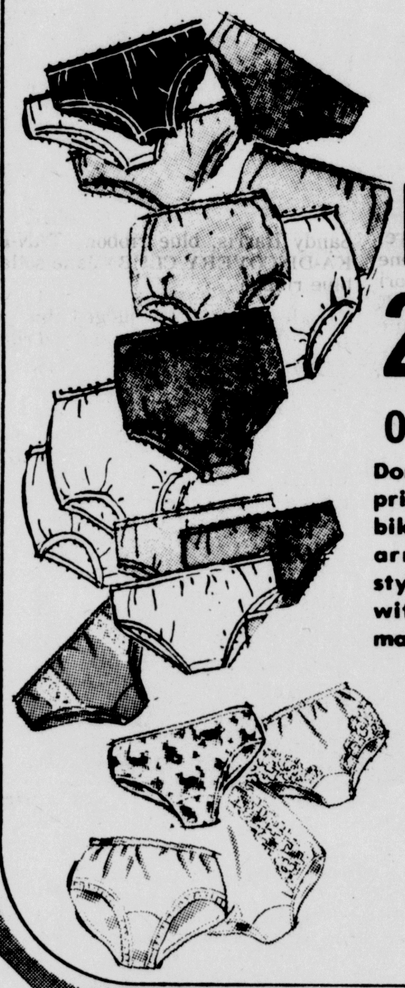

The Ohio Highway Patrol investigated a two-vehicle collision at 8:50 a.m. Wednesday near the U.S. 35-I-71 intersection.

Ptl. Loren Butcher reported a car driven by Ellen L. Siegenthaler, 22, Columbus, was heavily damaged when it struck a rear dual wheel on a tractor-trailer rig driven by Maynard A. Ingram, 51, Littleton, N.H. Ptl. Butcher said the dual trailer wheel broke while Ingram was attempting to make a left turn from U.S. 35 at the West Lancaster Road intersection. Both vehicles were westbound.

There were no injuries.

CAC-employed youths working with pay

By GEORGE MALEK

Some $4,000 of these youngsters should have received in paychecks July 14 is tied up in governmental red tape, and they do not expect to be paid before the end of this month. By the time their money arrives, some of the employes will have earned more than $300.

Working under the Fayette County Community Action Commission's summer youth program, the students have been employed without pay since the end of June.

Fred Rost, director of the summer youth program for Fayette County, said although the money has been guaranteed by the federal government, the funds are distributed by the state which has delayed its distribution.

According to Mrs. Jean Lier, District 5 representative to the Ohio Community Action Commission Manpower Committee, the situation is causing a great deal of difficulty in rural areas which operate on minimal budgets. Her office is situated in Sidney where she is a director of manpower programs for Champaign, Logan and Shelby counties.

Mrs. Lier said Congress approved the funding of these programs June 17 and President Ford signed the bill the same day. However, on June 18, the state auditor's office closed for a bi-annual review of its books. Thus, the money to pay students in summer youth programs throughout the state laid dormant in Columbus.

When the auditor's office reopened, a mass of paperwork awaited the staff, and the checks have not yet been received. Since the funds will definitely come eventually, there was little problem in large cities where the CAC's have huge budgets. The money to meet the July payroll was simply borrowed from another fund. More rural areas, like Fayette County, do not have sufficient funds elsewhere.

Rost eased tension here somewhat by requesting all the youths in the program to sign a disclaimer before they began their job assignment. It stated that although the funds had been approved, delayed receipt of the money would require a late payment.

Each student was then employed with the understanding that he would be paid for the month of July in a lump sum at the end of the month or early in August. With some students making as much as $168 in a two-week period they will have earned $336 by that time.

Simply knowing that their paychecks would be late does not solve everything, however, Rost noted. Largely from very low-income families, the students sincerely need their money.

He cited one case where one of the youths need eye glasses, but could not obtain them until paying. Fortunately, after being contacted by Rost, who explained the situation, the optometrist sent the glasses and will await payment later.

Each student is employed by a non-profit agency in the county, and to be eligible for employment, the youth must be returning to school in the fall. They may work up to 40 hours per week, depending on the employer's needs and schedule.

Some counties did not require their students to sign the disclaimer. When they were unable to meet the payroll, the students and their parents become quite upset. As yet, no Community Action organization has been taken to court over the delay.

Some of those counties which do not have sufficient monies to borrow from their other funds sought help elsewhere. In at least one case, a private charity loaned the local CAC office enough money to meet the payroll. The money was loaned interest free.

Although approval can be obtained by any Community Action Commission office to borrow the money from a private lending institution, a federal restriction on its funds makes this difficult. No federal funds can be used to pay interest. Thus, while the CAC could pay back its loan when the money was received, it could not pay the interest from the fund. Unless private donors were willing to pay the interest, no loan which carried an interest charge could be arranged.

"It is unfortunate that a program which provokes such interest in work among our youth leaves them with the sour taste of not receiving their paychecks on time," Rost said.

Workmen's comp measure backed

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The House Commerce and Labor Committee recommended passage Wednesday night of an apparently agreed bill increasing Ohio's workmen's compensation benefits.

The vote was 12-0 on the measure which is expected to be called up for a vote on the House floor Friday. The bill is a priority item, and still would need Senate approval to be enacted by Aug. 1, target date legislative leaders have set for summer adjournment.

Effective Jan. 1, 1976, the bill would raise ceilings on most weekly benefits under the workmen's compensation law from 66 2-3 per cent of the statewide average weekly wage to the full statewide average weekly wage.

The statewide average weekly wage is defined by law as the average for all workers covered under unemployment compensation. It is determined each April 1 for the following calendar year. For 1975, twothirds of the average is $119.

The bill makes numerous other changes, but Rep. James T. Luken, D-24 Cincinnati, chairman of a subcommittee that worked on the measure several weeks, said the only disagreements that still could come up "are mostly technical."

Rep. J. Leonard Camera, D-53 Lorain, commerce and labor chairman, postponed consideration Wednesday night on another priority bill that establishes collective bargaining procedures for public employes. It gives them the right to strike for the first time—except for police, firemen, and institutional guards.

That measure has been languishing in the commerce and labor committee for several weeks, with many of its controversial provisions under fire. Majority, leaders said they still have hopes a compromise can be reached in the waning days of the session.

Rumsfeld raps federal regulation

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP)— Presidential Assistant Donald Rumsfeld cited failures of past governmental interference with the economy Wednesday, after the Midwest Governors Conference had called for continued regulation of fuel and gasoline allotments.

The governors also called for an end to regulation of prices at the wellhead for new natural gas wells for five years accompanied by an excess profits tax to encourage return of profits to new exploration.

Rumsfeld told the governors that the Cost of Living Council, which he formerly headed, did little to stop inflation by controlling wages and prices.

Rumsfeld, who is now President Ford's assistant for domestic affairs, also said the Office of Economic Opportunity, where he also worked was ultimately unable to satisfy the needs of those it was designed to help.

"It distresses me during this dialogue on energy that many people have not reviewed that experience." He called them lessons that should have been learned about government invading the market place.

He said he personally believes that further government control of energy "would be a serious mistake in this country."

At the same time, Rumsfeld told the final session of the three-day conference he believes efforts by President Ford have renewed confidence of the public in government.

"It is a difficult time to be in public life," he sympathized with the governors, because of economic and unemployment problems coupled with fuel shortages and public apathy.

Rumsfeld said the public "will no longer stand for nonsense" but will make decisions when given sufficient information.

He said this is gradually being reflected in Congress. President Ford's seven vetoes sustained in Congress shows the legislators are showing a willingness to take a second look at the economic impact of legislation.

However, he said, Congress "has not moved itself to a position where it is ready to sit down and discuss compromise" with the President on a national energy policy.

Rumsfeld said unemployment and inflation are inseparable in the economy. He said he sees little chance of a decline in unemployment until the economy shows definite signs of an upsurge.

"The problem is with the hirers. They are not willing to start calling workers back until they are certain full production is going to be sustained," Rumsfeld said.

"Clearly, it is time to halt the cycles of inflation followed by inflation," he said.

The closing session of the conference elected South Dakota Gov. Richard F. Kneip chairman and selected Indianapolis, Ind. the site of the 1976 convention and Oklahoma for 1977.

Kansas Gov. Robert Bennett was critical of the 14th annual conference at Cincinnati because of the extensive social schedule. He said it was his first conference and it should have been condensed into a weekend.

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

FRIDAY, JULY 25

ARIES
(March 21 to April 20)

Go after the big gains but do not expect to have things your way all along the line. Be prepared for some opposition and you can meet it more easily.

TAURUS
(April 21 to May 21)

Introduce a new note—perhaps a new approach—to give more spark to day's doings. Output will substantially improve.

GEMINI
(May 22 to June 21)

As with many others, you have real cause for optimism now. There's much to attain through the advantages offered—both in business and personal interests.

CANCER
(June 22 to July 23)

You should have new ambition and incentive under day's excellent influences. An interesting business transaction could prove highly profitable.

LEO
(July 24 to Aug. 23)

Direct action can be effective—IF you have accurate information, blueprints. Otherwise, take the detour that means safety, a reduced speed to prevent mishap.

VIRGO
(Aug. 24 to Sept. 23)

You can now find a new way to display your abilities and capabilities but don't try the road of mixing business and pleasure.

LIBRA
(Sept. 24 to Oct. 23)

Make your schedule a flexible one. There are possibilities of changes and variations in certain situations—all promising to be beneficial.

SCORPIO
(Oct. 24 to Nov. 22)

Don't sidestep obligations in favor of more desirable activities. You have a lot going for you, so it would be foolish to offset efforts of the past.

SAGITTARIUS
(Nov. 23 to Dec. 21)

Don't undertake anything without knowing proper procedure. Find out how associates think and feel. Excellent progress indicated through alert thinking and action.

CAPRICORN
(Dec. 22 to Jan. 20)

Your intuition should be strong now; but double-check to make sure you are not overlooking small details. Thus, all should go well.

AQUARIUS
(Jan. 21 to Feb. 19)

Pay no attention to dissenters or pessimists. Go about your work and other activities with good will and a bit of finesse. You can have an unusually satisfactory day.

PISCES
(Feb. 20 to March 20)

Business and financial matters slated for immediate advancement; also for future gains. But take no risks; conservative management must be stressed.

YOU BORN TODAY endowed with many qualities with which to win first-rate success: a strong individuality, a genius for leadership and unusually fine gifts of organization and salesmanship. Do try to curb a tendency toward overaggressiveness, however, or you could make many enemies as you follow your road to the top. Your versatility and gregariousness are outstanding and, though extremely progressive in your thinking, you have a fondness for the old; would make an excellent dealer in arts and antiques. Other fields in which you could excel: the stage, the law, politics or, in business, as a manager of large enterprises.

Election campaign has military tinge

WASHINGTON (AP) — In contrast with the lawyers and advertising men who ran the 1972 Nixon campaign, the high command of President Ford's developing political organization has a distinct Pentagon tinge.

All three top men in the campaign fundraising operation served in the Pentagon under Ford's old friend, former Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird. And the campaign manager, former Rep. Howard H. (Bo) Callaway, is a West Point graduate who was Army secretary for the past two years.

"People say we've got a little Pentagon going over here," executive director Lee Choate of Ford's finance committee said in an interview. "At least, we all speak the same language."

The finance division, which has already raised $267,000 in the less than two weeks since Ford declared his 1976 candidacy, is headed by David Packard, the 62-year-old multimillionaire electronics executive from California who was deputy defense secretary for nearly four years.

The campaign treasurer is Robert Moot, who served as comptroller of the Pentagon in charge of its day-to-day finances under Laird.

And Choate is a retired Air Force officer who has been involved more recently with several "citizens action" groups including Americans for the Presidency, which he said tried "to keep Mr. Nixon from being unfairly dealt with" during the Watergate scandals.

Students facing tuition hikes?

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — House Speaker Vernal G. Riffe Jr., D-89 New Boston, said Wednesday Ohio college students will face fee increases as the result of Republican support for Gov. James A. Rhodes' veto of a tuition freeze.

Republican state representatives upheld Rhodes on nine line-item budget vetoes challenged by majority Democrats, who fell one vote short of the three-fifths required to override.

"The General Assembly has been incorrectly and unjustly accused of hypocrisy on the matter of freezing tuition and fees charged to students at state-assisted universities," Riffe said.

Ranco reports drop in sales

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ranco Inc. reported Wednesday that its sales for the nine months ending June 30 were $72,871,000, down from $95,467,000 for the same period last year.

Net loss for the nine months was $2,114,000 or 89 cents a share, the company said. Net income for the same period in 1974 was $3,182,000 or $1.34 a share.

James H. Manecke, chairman and president firm, said the recession had a severe impact upon the automotive air conditionining and home appliance market.

Expect Soviets to remain regular grain customers

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Soviet Union has turned into a regular customer of American grain farmers and may resume shopping later this year if its crops deteriorate further and U.S. harvests are as large as now indicated, according to Agriculture Department experts.

Richard E. Bell, newly sworn in as USDA assistant secretary for international affairs and commodity programs, says a commitment by Russia to boost livestock production will mean steady sales of U.S. corn and other feed grains.

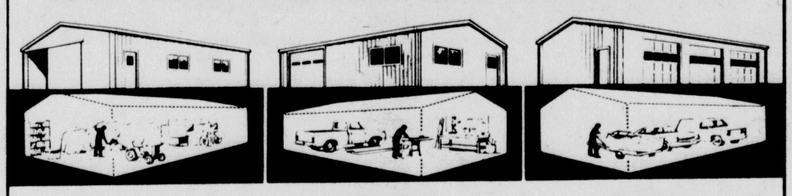

Further, Bell said Wednesday, purchases above those needs are likely to arise when drought bites into Soviet crop prospects as it has this year. A week-long round of grain sales announced by major U.S. firms apparently has ended, at least temporarily, Bell told newsmen.

"I think that the Soviet buying at the present time has probably stopped," Bell said. "I do think there will be further purchases after there is further assessment of the crop."

Grain firms the past week announced sales totaling 9.8 million metric tons of grain, including 4.2 million wheat; 4.5 million corn; and 1.1 million barley. Although no contract prices were disclosed, current prices for future delivery would put the value at about $1.3 billion.

In 1972, when grain prices were much lower, Russia bought more than 19 million tons valued at about $1 billion.

"When business was bad, he said he couldn't afford advertising.
When business was good, he said he didn't need advertising.

Neither can the public.

A nice fellow, John Doe. But over the long haul, his business peaks were not as high as his valleys were deep. Slowly, but surely he was edged out by his competitor.

He never did understand why his business failed. He had everything working for him, looks, location, lines — everything except people, that vital ingredient that spelled success for his competitor, a man who put it simply but well when he said, "To attract people, you've got to advertise. Tell them who you are; where you are; and what you've got to sell. And you have to keep reminding people, too, or they'll forget."

R-H weekly carrier series

FLORENCE SMITH

Florence, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. W. (Tiny) Smith, 624 W. Circle Ave., has been a Record-Herald newspaper carrier for more than one year, beginning on Feb. 11, 1974.

She has purchased a bicycle and clothes plus paying for band camp with money earned on her route. Florence says she enjoys "meeting people" on her route.

"Florence Smith has been our paper girl for almost a year," said Mrs. Rodger Mickle, 511 W. Circle Ave., one of the customers on the featured carrier's route. "We have never received our paper late, even on rainy days. She is always polite and mannerly when she collects and I feel she deserves to be honored as an excellent paper carrier," Mrs. Mickle added.

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A bill hailed as one that would protect Ohioans from invasions of privacy by state and local governments cleared the Senate without dissent Wednesday.

Sen. Stanley J. Aronoff, R-8 Cincinnati, said his measure would prohibit government data banks from having "exclusive and secret control over personal and sensitive information about Ohio citizens."

The bill, which now goes to the House, is designed after the Federal Privacy Act of 1975, and will balance the government's need to have certain information about citizens with the citizens' right to privacy, the senator said.

It sets up a central registry at the state level and requires the Department of Administrative Services to draft rules and regulations saying what types of information can be retained in state data banks. At the same time, an Ohio Personal Information Control Board is created to do the same for local governments.

Aronoff said the legislation requires that any information kept about citizens be accurate, relevant, and up-to-date, and provides that citizens have the right to inspect their own records and to make amendments and corrections in them. The bill contains both civil and criminal remedies against persons abusing the system.

Both sides play dangerous

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. intelligence officials say both the Israelis and the Egyptians have been playing a dangerous game of military moves to strengthen their negotiating positions.

These officials are concerned that one side or the other might go too far in military gestures and trigger an outbreak of fighting, even though neither apparently wants it to happen.

The Egyptian decision Wednesday to renew the mandate of the United Nations peacekeeping force in the Sinai is expected to defuse tension along that front, at least for now.

But U.S. analysts are worried that the potential for a military spasm may increase if Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger's efforts to arrange another Israeli troop pullback in the Sinai should drag on or fail.

The Israelis reportedly called up about 7,000 military reservists after the Egyptians indicated last week that they might not agree to an extension of the U.N. force in the buffer zone separating Egyptian and Israeli forces.

U.S. diplomats in Israel were told about the call-up by Israeli officials who said the action was in response to Egyptian moves.

Tornado-destroyed church rebuilt; bigger and better

XENIA, Ohio (AP) — A silver lining has emerged from the dark cloud that once loomed over the First Church of the Nazarene here.

The church was destroyed in the April, 1974, tornado, as were half the city's churches, but a rebuilding program has yielded a larger facility and a larger congregation for Pastor Howard Rickey.

"When I looked at the tragedy of our city, God seemed to say to me, 'There are many tragedies, and there may be many more, but there will be more miracles than tragedies'," the pastor said.

"The day the tornado hit there were 145 children in the basement," recalled the pastor. "They were miraculously saved as the entire structure above them was destroyed."

Thanks to $10,000 in contributions from around the country, $160,000 raised by members and friends, a Small Business Administration loan and a bank mortgage, another "miracle" is taking shape in the form of a $1.1 million church and school now nearing completion.

"During the building time, the church attendance increased by 100 while we worshipped in three separate gymnasiums," Pastor Rickey noted.

A short time later, a man in Colorado sent a check for $1,000.

"He said he was awakened in the night and God gave him a dream of the destruction in the church," the pastor said.

The congregation has gained 40 adult members since the tornado, Pastor Rickey said.

National Guard camp may stay in Ohio

GRAYLING, Mich. (AP) — Five thousand Ohio National Guard troops now training at nearby Camp Grayling may no longer have to leave the Buckeye State for summer manuevers, an Ohio Guard officer says.

The commander of the Ohio Guard said Wednesday that the guard is considering sites in the Zanesville and Cambridge, Ohio, areas and another unspecified site.

Debbie Highfield was named winner of the senior showmanship while Kim Bryant took first place in the junior division and Amy Stockwell won the beginners trophy for showmanship. Kim Bryant, via her win in the junior division, won the showmanship sweepstakes.

Episcopal Bishop rips women

NEW YORK (AP) — Maine's Episcopal bishop has sent an explicitly angry letter to those involved in the controversial ordination of 11 women as priests, saying their conduct had led indirectly to the death of Louisiana's bishop in a plane crash here.

Several recipients have sharply protested the letter's implications.

Bishop Frederick B. Wolf, of Portland, Maine, in the letter to the women ordained in Philadelphia last year and to the three bishops who officiated, said of the death June 24 of Bishop Iveson B. Noland, of New Orleans, in an airliner crash at Kennedy International Airport:

"I do not hold you personally responsible for Iveson Noland's death. However, Iveson Noland would not have died in that plane crash if you had not done what you did in Philadelphia. That is a part, by no means directly so, of the consequences of your ecclesiastical disobedience, and you have a right to be aware of this."

Bishop Wolf's letter said Bishop Noland had been on the way to attend a meeting of the bishops' advisory council.

AIRPORT NEWS

BY SANDY WOODMANSEE

I think our smiling airplane is trying to tell us its hot outside - and that it is, lately. Thanks must go to Bob Forrest of Sabina for using his artistic talent on the above heading. Also, thanks should go to the County Engineer and his department for mowing the runway areas. It really looks nice out here.

Things sure have been hectic since returning from vacation so I will try to catch up on some of the news here at the airport. Many small aircraft have been taking advantage of the warm weather and incoming traffic has been quite heavy on the clearer days. Some of the larger aircraft in have been K-D Tool's twin Aerostar, Thomas Ind.'s twin Beech, along with a couple of Beech Travelairs. Magnavox's Merlin turbo props with passengers aboard.

Cross countries have been completed by Joe Kingery, Bill Sever, Larry Russell, Bill DaRif, Kevin Mallow, Bob Lundquist and Al Allridge. Many congratulations are in order, first to Kevin Mallow who has received his private pilot's certificate; to Bill Sever, who has completed his Commercial pilot's rating and to Dave Loudner who soloed on July 18. Well done, fellows!

Walt Gooldin, Louie Poole and Tom Preston have successfully completed their "Spirit of Safety" proficiency evaluation flight. Louie and Tom also completed their bienniel flight reviews. Charters have been flown to Flint, Detroit and Detroit City, Michigan, as well as to Lexington, Ky., Wise, W. Va. and Howard County, Indiana.

Several head start groups have taken tours of the airport. Ann Spahr from Jeffersonville Elementary School headed a group of 20 youngsters. Miss Morton and Miss Ruff had a joint group of 55 children from the Eastside Elementary School and Ann Posey had a group of 18 children.

Consumers still holding back

NEW YORK (AP) — A rationale for forecasting an upturn in the economy is contained in the soaring personal income and personal savings figures for June, although you'll still find many people with a "show me" attitude.

Spurred by lower income tax withholding and by tax rebates, both figures indicate that consumers now are in a position to go out and buy houses and cars and other big ticket items.

Disposable personal income — after tax income — jumped $63.3 billion in the second quarter, or nearly 10 times the increase that had occurred during the first three months of the year.

Savings soared to an annual rate of $114.6 billion, which meant consumers were able to put away an astounding 10.6 per cent of their disposable income. It was the highest savings rate in 29 years.

A perspective on that level of savings is obtained by comparing it with the rate for other years. During the past 25 years, for instance, the U.S. rate has ranged between 4.9 per cent and 8.1 per cent.

In the view of many economists, including some in Washington, the high level of savings means that the consumer is poised for a buying assault that soon will bring the range back to "normal" levels.

Others point out, however, that the figures also mean the consumer hasn't been buying, although he is in a position to do so. Houses, autos and many retail items remain unsold.

The truth is that nobody can say with certainty just what a high level of savings means. Only a study of consumer psychology, of the mental disposition of consumers, gives even a hint.

As the dean of consumer psychologists, George Katona, observes, a buying situation is created only when consumers have both the ability and the willingness to spend.

Exact change plans curb armed holdups

By LOUISE COOK
Associated Press Writer

Bus drivers, tax drivers and gas station attendants across the country are demanding "exact change, please," these days and officials say the move has caused a sharp drop in the number of robberies.

"It's made all the difference in the world," said John Askers, director of operations for the Louisville, Ky., area transit system.

Askers said the exact-change system went into effect in 1968. "We had holdups and robberies prior to that. We haven't had any since except for some operators who were held up and their own money taken. Now, we have issued orders that they not carry any money at all, even in their wallet."

An Associated Press survey showed the exact-change system started on public transit facilities and spread to taxicabs, gas stations and all-night grocery stores. Taxi drivers generally carry no more than $5 in change; gas stations and groceries limit the amount of money on hand in cash late at night so that sales people do not have to open a safe.

What happens if you don't have the right change? Practices vary from city to city. Some public transit systems give scrip in change, allowing passengers to get their extra money back at a central office. Some sell books of tickets. In many places, however, you're simply out of luck unless you can find another passenger who will give you change.

City Council cuffnotes

City accepts bid for new cruisers

Washington C.H. City Council Wednesday night accepted bids for three new cruisers for the Washington C.H. Police Department.

A bid of $14,391 ($4,797-apiece) submitted by Carroll Halliday, Inc., 907 Columbus Ave., for three new cruisers was accepted by Council, ending over nine months of deliberation of the purchase.

During the period of more than nine months, Council had postponed the matter on several occasions because of reported conflicts in specifications and bids.

The 1976 model Fords will contain 400-cubic inch engines and air conditioning units. The price for the air conditioning units ($248 each) was included in the $4,797 bid price.

A December delivery is expected and the new cruisers could be subject to a price increase.

Council will be studying which of the old cruisers to turn over to other departments, and which of the autos to sell at auction when the new ones arrive.

JAYCEE REQUEST

Dale Butler, of the Washington C.H. Jaycees, attended the meeting to ask Council if it had reached any ageement on a request by the Jaycees for a $1,000 donation to be used by the organization for an improved Fourth of July celebration next year in conjunction with the bicentennial observance.

It was the general consensus of Council that the budget will have to be reviewed thoroughly before the request is considered further. Council members also questioned favoring the Jaycees over other service organizations.

Jaycees president Clem Edwards, Larry Cruea and Butler also displayed hospital directional signs which the organization has purchased for the city. The eight new signs, which cost a total of $288.80 will be installed next week.

STREET MATTERS

Council unanimously agreed to renew for one year a $42,000 street resurfacing note. The note becomes due Sept. 9 and the interest rate is five and one-eighths per cent.

In other street-related matters. Council agreed to charge utility companies a fee of $3 per square foot ($15 minimum) for resurfacing streets after underground repairs have been made. The previous agreement with the utility companies was $1.75 per square foot.

ACCESS LANE

The city will install an access-turning lane on Columbus Avenue in the area of the new G.C. Murphy Co. complex and assess Columbus developer William Hadler for the expenses. The assessment became necessary after Hadler informed Council chairman Ralph Cook that he had not allocated money in the project for a third turning lane which would reduce traffic congestion along Columbus Avenue.

Council agreed that preliminary engineering on the lane addition should be launched immediately and turning lanes on S. Elm Street plus an extension of the Columbus Avenue lane to Glenn Avenue should also be considered.

LOT IMPROVEMENT

The municipal parking lot, corner of East and S. Main streets, will be improved, Council reported.

Guardrail will be removed in order that autos may enter the lot from East Street. The project will require removal of two parking meters and a catch basin, but will make the lot more accessible to traffic.

The guardrail removed from the lot will be installed at the east end of Gregg Street. Property owners in the Gregg Street area had requested the installation of a guardrail at the street's dead end.

BILLS PAID

Payment of bills totaling $1,600 to Bird and Bull, Ltd., the city's consulting engineers, were approved. The bills were for 54 hours of work done by the firm in inspecting the new blower at the city sewage treatment plant and preparation for permit structure hearings before the Ohio Environmental Protection Agency and the Ohio Attorney General.

TRAFFIC PROBLEM

Council agreed to have the city solicitor prepare an ordinance reducing the speed limit on W. Oakland Avenue in the area of Eyman Park and the Washington Park Association swimming pool to 15 miles per hour.

Signs for the new speed limit and crosswalk signs will be obtained immediately.

The city's legislators also agreed request bids for the purchase of a number of new signs for city streets.

NEW FLAG POLE

Chester Hamulak, of Burnett-Ducey VFW Post No. 4964, disclosed plans by the organization to install a 33-foot flag pole at the Fayette County Historical Society's museum, corner of Columbus and Washington avenues. The flag pole will be similar to one at Washington Senior High School, Hamulak said.

Hamulak, 1028 Center St., also complained of a serious traffic problem in a private alley near his home in which vehicles use the alley to bypass traffic signs on S. Elm Street.

Hamulak said the situation is dangerous since there are a number of youngsters playing in the area.

The alley, located between Center and Olive streets, was vacated by the city in 1966 and Council suggested that since it is a private alley that Hamulak erect a gate.

PARKING METERS

It was brought to Council's attention that there are no parking meters on the east side of N. Fayette Street from the city office building to Temple Street. The installation was overlooked in the city parking meter program and new meters will be installed immediately.

ANNEXATION EYED

According to a recent survey, there are six properties located on Carolyn Road which are not in the city corporation limits.

Council agreed to request property owners to have the lots annexed into the city or else face double sewer rates.

CITY ZONING BOARD

Cook asked Council members for recommendations to be considered at the next meeting for an appointment to the City Zoning Board of Appeals. The new appointment would replace Horace L. Jacobs, who has resigned.

Junior Achievement board prepares for new program

Although the opening of the 1975-1976 school year is still about six weeks away, the Junior Achievement board of directors are beginning to plan for a new year.

However, before the new year begins, the Junior Achievement board of directors will be forced to locate a new center manager.

Board members engaged in considerable discussion at the regular monthly meeting held at noon Wednesday in the Washington Inn Restaurant on replacing Ernest Wilson, the center manager for the past three years who has resigned from the duties.

A couple of potential candidates were discussed by board members and a replacement is expected to be named at the next regular meeting on Aug. 13.

In organizing for the year, the board heard a report on the fund-raising campaign now in effect from campaign chairman Jim Waddle.

Reports on the highly-successful year recently completed by the Junior Achievement organization and on maintenance projects which will be needed at the organization's center on N. Fayette Street before the new year begins.

At the close of the meeting, Junior Achievement vice president Curtis E. Fleisher presented Ron Brown, of the Huntington Bank of Washington C. H., with a handsome engraved plaque on behalf of the board for the services Brown rendered to the organization this year as president.

New officers will begin their duties at the Aug. 13 meeting. Fleisher, principal at Miami Trace High School, will serve as president; Rick Stinson, vice president; Wiley Witherspoon, treasurer, and Perse Harlow, secretary.

The Junior Achievement program was launched in Washington C. H. in 1966 for the purpose of providing youths from Washington Senior and Miami Trace high schools with a working knowledge of business procedures.

High school sophomores, juniors and seniors participate in the program. The organization had three mock companies this past year.

Authorities said Michael Schrader, 21, of Covington, Ky., apparently was trying to move the ladder with his brother when they lost control and the accident occurred.

The brothers were painting air conditioner boxes on the side of a new four-story apartment complex in northern Cincinnati. Officials said the power line was about 10-12 feet away from the building.

Peter Stuyvesant was a Colonial governor who had only one leg.

Kent testimony hurt by memories

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Time took its toll on key testimony Wednesday in the $46 million damages claim brought by victims of the 1970 Kent State University shootings.

Former Kent State Vice President Robert E. Matson said he attended a meeting with Gov. James A. Rhodes a day before the shooting, but did not recall Rhodes allegedly likening some student dissidents to vigilantes and Nazi brown shirts.

Lawyers for the victims claim Rhodes' remarks during a weekend of rioting sparked by U.S. military activity in Cambodia aggravated a tense situation that ended in 13 seconds of Guard gunfire May 4, 1970.

The governor is one of 41 defendants, including former Kent State President Robert White, ex-Adj. Gen. Sylvester Del Corso, ex-Guard Brig. Gen. Robert Canterbury and 37 present or former guardsmen.

One of the wounded, Robert Stamps, has testified he heard Rhodes make the comments on a radio news broadcast. But under cross-examination, Stamps admitted he could not be sure whether he heard the governor's voice or that of a commentator paraphrasing Rhodes' remarks.

Matson became the second Kent State official to testify that the governor relieved college officials of primary responsibility for campus security.

The governor said "university types or people should step aside on this one," Matson told the jury.

The extent of guardsmen's responsibility for events of May 4, 1970, may hinge on whether the troops took total control of the campus.

Earlier, the senior guard officer on campus that sunny spring afternoon, Canterbury, testified the decision to prohibit rallies after the weekend was an agreement between university, local law enforcement and Guard officials.

TV Viewing

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Television Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Following a path blazed by three states, New York tonight gives its state lottery a tryout on TV in a live half-hour show with the highest total payoffs ever — more than $3 million.

The commercially sponsored show is being hosted by Monty Hall, star of ABC's high-rated "Let's Make a Deal." State lottery officials hope this venture also gets high ratings and boosts lottery ticket sales.

WABC-TV here is producing and broadcasting the show, which is being aired on six other stations elsewhere in the state.

Overlooked in the advance hoopla surrounding this program is an apparent question of whether state lottery officials gave other TV stations a fair crack at producing tonight's proceedings.

A spokeswoman for the state lottery in Albany says WABC, owned by the ABC Television network, went to her agency and said it was interested in producing the show, which she says is considered a pilot for a possible weekly lottery drawing series on TV in New York State.

She said lottery director Jerry Bruno, after discussing the proposal, had his office call the program directors at WABC's two major Fun City competitors — WCBS-TV and WNBC-TV.

"And they (the program directors) said at the time they weren't interested," she said. Asked if they explained why, she said, "No. Obviously we weren't going to press them as to why.

"We just wanted to cover ourselves and be sure that we let them know this (TV lottery) was something we were going to do and that if they were interested in it, now was the time to start working on it.

"We got no response from them. So then WABC came up with a format and we got nothing else from the stations. Then, when the announcement hit the newspapers, the other stations said, 'How did it happen'?"

By Second District Court of Appeals

Auto crash decision upheld

The Second District Court of Appeals in Dayton has issued a ruling on a case stemming from an automobile accident in Oct., 1969 in which four persons were killed, including all three members of a Fayette County family.

The suite was filed by Harry Wolfe, New Holland, the driver and sole occupant of one of the vehicles involved. He had sought $175,000 as compensation for injuries suffered in the two-vehicle collision.

The defendant in the case was Jack B. McKirgan, Ohio 207, father of Randy B. McKirgan, who drove the other vehicle and was fatally injured. The defendant was the owner of the car.

Although Fayette county Common Pleas Court Judge Evelyn W. Coffman ruled in 1973 that there was no sufficient evidence to sustain the plaintiff's case, the decision was appealed to the Second District Court of Appeals which upheld the lower court ruling.

Wolfe stated in his petition (filed Dec. 10, 1971) that the defendant's car had been operated in a negligent manner, and since the defendant knew his son to be an unsafe driver, he too was liable for damages.

The plaintiff cited a long list of injuries sustained in the mishap, some of which were said to be permanently disabling. He was hospitalized for some time following the accident.

In addition to 20-year-old Randy, his wife Lucille, 18, their four-month old son Ricky, and Mrs. McKirgan's brother, Clint Mullins, 27, of Columbus, were killed.

The McKirgan auto was northbound on Ohio 207 at the time of the accident. Wolfe was returning from his construction job in Columbus when the crash occurred Oct. 24. Fayette County Sheriff's deputies at the scene said McKirgan "apparently" traveled left of center, causing the head-on collision.

The defendant filed a counter suit against Wolfe. He stated that Wolfe, not his son, was responsible for the accident by crossing left of center. He sought damages in the amount of $47,500.

Judge Coffman granted a motion for dismissal on Aug. 3, 1973, stating that the evidence presented at the trial was insufficient to sustain the necessary burden of proof. At the same time she dismissed the counter-claim.

James A. Kiger, a Washington C.H. attorney who represented Wolfe, sought a new trial on grounds that "new evidence" in the case was discovered after the trial. He said Fayette County Juvenile Court records indicated that McKirgan was aware of his son's poor driving ability because the youth had been cited into juvenile court for alleged violations several times between 1965 and 1967.

McKirgan's attorney argued on two points. First he stated that the juvenile court records could not be considered new evidence since they had been a matter of public record for many years.

Secondly, he said McKirgan's knowledge of his son's minor traffic violations two to four years prior to the accident were not evidence that he should feel his son was an imcompetent driver at the time of the accident.

Judge Coffman refused to grant the new trial, and Kiger appealed to the district court.

After waiting nearly a year for the completion of the trial transcript, attorneys for both parties submitted written briefs to the three-judge appeals court.

After consideration of the matter, the Second District Court upheld the Fayette County Common Pleas Court decision and denied the request for a new trial.

School plan news curbed

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—A spokesman for Jefferson County Judge Todd Hollenbach says the judge has decided only he or a designated aide will answer questions from the media on the county's role in school desegregation.

The recently consolidated Louisville-Jefferson County school system is awaiting details of a court-ordered desegregation plan, due to involve the busing of 23,000 children and go into effect Sept. 4, the first day of the 1975-75 school year.

County Police Chief Russell McDaniel told reporters Wednesday, "that's the way it's going to be." He said the judge ordered him to refer all questions — in writing — to Hollenbach for his response.

Holienbach could not be reached for comment yesterday and at one point, his secretary indicated questions about the new policy should be submitted in writing.

McDaniel said the county judge had discussed the matter with Louisville Mayor Harvey Sloane and, the police chief reiterated, "this is the way it's going to be.

Akin Ohio draft chief

He replaces Paul A. Corey, 48, who resigned. Corey was appointed to the post April 2, 1973 by former Gov. John J. Gilligan after he had served as Gilligan's personnel director.

Corey said he will establish a Columbus office for Euthenics Inc., a Cleveland firm of consulting engineers and architects.

Akin was with the national draft headquarters before joining the Ohio draft system as senior operations officer. He said he plans to remain with the system after a permanent director is named.

Mets top fumbling Reds, 5-2

NEW YORK (AP) — The Cincinnati Reds started out the way you'd expect—a couple of quick runs in the first inning on Johnny Bench's base hit.

But the way they finished was something else again.

A team that rarely beats itself, the Reds did just that Wednesday night with three errors and an inoffensive offense as the New York Mets took a 5-2 decision over the struggling National League West leaders.

"I have no idea what's been going on in the last week or so," said Cincinnati Manager Sparky Anderson, whose team has lost five of its last seven games. "If I did, I'd be a genius. All I know is that these are the same guys playing out there who were there before the All-Star Game."

Before the recent All-Star break, the Reds were the hottest team in baseball, winning 41 of 50 games. Since then, they've been one of the coldest, even though it doesn't bother the unflappable Anderson.

"I'm not worried about it," said Anderson. "There are too many games in a season to get worried about any one of them. We'll snap out of it soon enough. I only think ahead one game at a time. In this case it's tomorrow and (Tom) Seaver."

The Reds, who at one time this season set a record for errorless games at 15 straight, were nowhere near that perfect Wednesday night.

In the third inning, right fielder Ken Griffey bobbled Ed Kranepool's two-run single, allowing the runner to wind up in scoring position. Kranepool soon came in with the third run of the inning on Dave Kingman's single.

In the fifth, Felix Millan hit in his 16th straight game with a double to center. George Foster fumbled the ball and Millan wound up on third, eventually scoring on Kranepool's double.

In the seventh, the Mets had two runners on with one out when Rusty Staub hit a perfect double play ball to Joe Morgan. But the usually reliable second baseman threw wildly past second, allowing another New York run to score.

"Once I found out that I could throw the ball where I wanted it, I knew I would stay in there for the rest of the night," said Matlack, who won his 11th game of the season. "I knew that if we got a couple of runs, I wasn't going to lose."

Matlack's start, though, wasn't the most auspicious. He walked the first three batters in the game, then gave up Bench's two-run single before settling down. He retired 12 batters in a row at one point before giving up a single to Merv Rettenmund leading off the fifth.

"I just can't explain what happened to me in the first inning," Matlack noted. "My pitching motion was awkward. But from the second inning on, I pitched more deliberately, slowed things down. Then everything all of a sudden came together for me."

Matlack's victory was a sweet one, since it was the first time that he had beaten the Reds since last year. In between there have been three losses.

"I haven't pitched badly against them," Matlack insisted. "But the Reds are a difficult team to beat because they rarely beat themselves."

Until Wednesday night, that is.

Portsmouth wins Legion District crown again

CHILLICOTHE — After dropping Washington C. H. Post 25 from District Tournament action Tuesday, Hillsboro went on to win the second contest of the night against Chillicothe Post 757.

The two wins moved Hillsboro into the finals against Portsmouth Wednesday night, but the defending tournament champs remained undefeated to drop Hillsboro from the tourney with a 9-2 win.

Portsmouth will move on to Athens August 4 to represent the district in the state tournament.

The league and district champs are no strangers to the state meet after having grabbed the Ohio Legion Championship last summer.

Pirates 8, Padres 1

Dock Ellis pitched a no-hitter for 4 2-3 innings and finished with a four-hitter to raise his record to 7-6. Manny Sanguillen belted a two-run homer and Richie Hebner and Willie Stargell had run-scoring singles for the Bucs. The victory kept Pittsburgh four games ahead of second-place Philadelphia in the NL East.

Phils 3, Braves 2

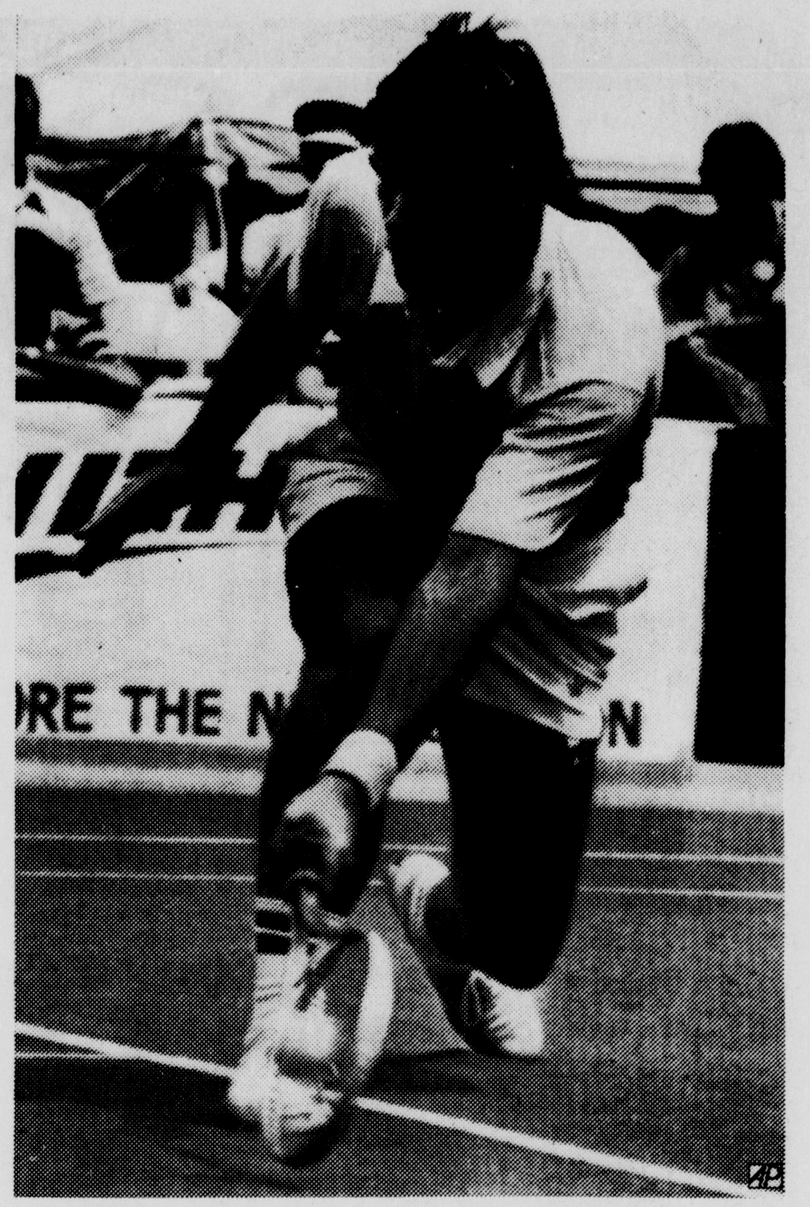

The Phillies used a bunt and run attack to beat Atlanta. Mike Schmidt's eighth-inning bunt drove in Terry Harmon with the game-winning run. The Phils' other runs came on a squeeze bunt by Bob Boone and an infield grounder by Jay Johnstone. Darrell Evans and Rowland hit run-scoring doubles for the Braves. Jim Lonborg, 8-6, won it with a six-hitter.

Astros 2, Expos 1

James Rodney Richard, 7-5, fired a five-hitter to best Dennis Blair, 6-11. Bob Watson doubled home the first Houston run in the first and Wilbur Howard singled home the other one in the fifth. Gary Carter homered for Montreal.

Cardinals 5, Dodgers 4

Ted Sizemore had a two-run single and Ted Simmons drove in two runs with a double and infield grounder as St. Louis made it five straight victories. Bob Forsch, 9-7, kept Los Angeles relatively quiet until the ninth when Willie Crawford and Lee Lacy hit pinch home runs and reliever Mike Garman came in to get the final out.

BUCKEYE ENTRY — Roscoe Tanner took the top prize money in this week's Chicago International Tournament. The hard-serving lefthander's next outing is slated for August 12-18 in Columbus for the Buckeye Tennis Championships.

City tennis tourney registration opens

The Washington C.H. City Tennis Tournament is slated for August 2-10 at the Senior High School courts, and applications should be filled out and returned to Community Education Director Hank Shaffer by Wednesday.

The tournament is open to anyone living in Fayette County or playing in the summer leagues.

The entry fee for this year's tourney is $2 for singles competition and $3 per team in doubles play.

Categories for men, women, boys 18-under and girls 18-under will be played in both singles and doubles. There will also be mixed-doubles competition.

All matches will be the best two of three sets with a nine-point tiebreaker used in case of a tie set.

For more information contact Hank Shaffer (335-6621).

Tanana, Angels blank Birds

By FRANK BROWN
AP Sports Writer

That California Angels pitcher-the one who is leading the major leagues in strikeouts, the one who has won eight of his last nine decisions-his name is Frank Tanana.

That OTHER California pitcher-the fellow who watched Wednesday night's Angels game from the bullpen — his name is Nolan Ryan.

Strange as the role reversal may seem, young Tanana is the pitcher burning up the American League while Ryan's Express languishes at the depot with eight consecutive losses.

"He has poise. He's getting more mature all the time," observed Angels Manager Dick Williams after the 22-year-old left-hander blanked the Baltimore Orioles 1-0 on six singles Wednesday night. "At this stage of his career, he has a lot of control compared to other left-handers of the past: Score, Koufax, Spahn, Haddix..."

Tanana, 9-5, exhibited that control with eight strikeouts against the Orioles. He raised his major league-leading total to 159 in 143 1-3 innings and avenged a 1-0 loss to the Orioles and Jim Palmer on May 16.

"Now I'm even with Jimmy (Palmer for the 1-0 loss)," said Tanana, who now leads Ryan by seven strikeouts in 172-3 fewer innings. Joe Lahoud gave Tanana all the support he needed with an RBI single in the first inning.

Elsewhere in the American League, Oakland stopped Detroit 3-0, Boston trimmed Minnesota 4-2, Kansas City slogged past Milwaukee 4-1 in the rain and Texas beat Cleveland 9-8 in 13 innings while the Yankees' game at Chicago was rained out.

A's 3, Tigers 0

Vida Blue struck out nine and scattered seven seven hits to snap his three-game losing streak while Gene Tenace drove in two runs as the A's won their 11th game in the last 15.

It was fourth consecutive loss for Detroit, which scored just four times and was shut out twice in the three-game series while Oakland amassed 30 runs.

Red Sox 4, Twins 2

Rangers 9, Indians 8

Mike Cubbage's sacrificed fly in the 13th inning capped a tworun rally and lifted the Texas past Cleveland. The Rangers entered the inning trailing 8-7 but pulled even on an outfield error before Cubbage struck.

The Indians scored five times after two were out in the ninth to tie it at 7-7. The victory was the third straight for Texas since Frank Lucchesi replaced the deposed Billy Martin as manager Monday night.

Royals 4, Brewers 1

Buck Martinez and John Mayberry hit home runs, lifting Kansas City over Milwaukee in a game delayed by rain for nearly three hours.

Bertram wins Ohio junior golf clash

SPRINGFIELD, Ohio (AP) — Herbert Bertram III double bogied the last hole but still carded a par-72 for a 36-hole total of 146 to win the Ohio Juniors golf tournament Wednesday on the Springfield Country Club course.

Bertram, 18, of lives in Vanceburg, Ky., but plays out of Portsmouth, captured the "A" Division for golfers aged 16 through 18 by one stroke over three other youngsters.

Mitch Allenspach of Oxford won the "B" Division for players between 13 and 15 years of age with a 36 hole score of 154. He finished one stroke in front of his brother, Mark, and Steve Dalton of Franklin.

Finishing at 147 among the older boys were defending champion Ralph Guarasci of Columbus, Harry Zaruba of Cleveland and Dave Purk of Akron.

Gary Lust of Mount Gilead carved out a 71 to lead a contingent of three who tied at 148. Joining Lust were Springfield's Jeff Goettman, last year's "B" division titlist, and Lyle Beaver of Columbus.

Rounding out the trophy winners in the "A" division were Steve Schaff of Sylvania, Lowell Dencer of Columbus, Rick Martin of Marysville and Jeff Mawhorr of Shelby, all at 149.

Medics move to BR finals

The Medics took two games from Willis Tuesday to advance to the finals of the Lions' Babe Ruth Minor League Tournament.

The Medics took the first game 5-1 behind the one-hit pitching of Pritchett and then grabbed the second contest with a narrow 7-6 victory. Byrd and Dunn led the Medics in the hitting department with doubles.

Witchy Woman wins River Downs feature

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — Witchy Woman pulled away from the pack with a strong stretch drive Wednesday to win the featured ninth race at River Downs by 3 1-2 lengths.

The winner in the six-furlong allowance race paid $8.20, $5.20 and $4.20, while second-place My Boy Johnny returned $14.60 and $7.80. Show horse was Donald's Girl at $3.60.

WINNER BY A HEAD — Quick Tip driven by Omar Stickley nudges out Lems Tar Mite in the first heat of the Three-year-old Ohio Colt Racing Association pace at the Fayette County Fair. The Dayton horse went on to pick up the $2,501 purse by taking the second heat in the best time of the night Wednesday rounding the track twice in 2:07. (Photo courtesy of Bob Nash)

Quick Tip turns best time of night in Fair's OCRA pace

Quick Tip and Little Steady Guy were division winners in the two Ohio Colt Racing Association Three-year-old Pace stakes Wednesday night.

Quick Tip owned by J. & P. Studzinski of Dayton turned in the best time of the night in the eighth race to take the $2,501 purse in the second division.

Omar Stickley guided the three-year-old to first place finishes in both the fourth and the eighth race in times of 2:08.2 and 2:07.

Little Steady Guy won both heats of the first division to capture the OCRA purse in times of 2:09.2 and 2:09.4. The pacer is owned by D. and G. Roberts of Plain City.

In the other top racing feature of the night, McKinley Kirk's Edwina Mahone won the Adios Butler Filly Pace. The local filly won both the first and the fifth races to capture the $1500 purse.

Fair Chance Farm, the home of the famed Adios Butler, donated the trophy.

Seven more races besides the six feature heats completed the final night of Fayette County Fair racing.

In the sixth race, Hidden Delight driven by Hugh Beatty finished second behind Quick Tip to pay $31.00 to place in a no-show betting race with a six horse field.

The night's Double paid a meager $4.20 and the sixth quinella paid $6.60, but the 13th quinella returned $64.90 to become the biggest payoff of the night.

A trophy for the fastest mile of the three-day racing stand was given after Wednesday's races. It is a blanket in memorial of Fay T. Junk.

Two colts tied for the award Tuesday night by posting a time of 2:06.1. The two-year-olds, J. P. Junior and Lakewood Jerry Way, won the $2,971.50 purses in the OCRA pace divisions.

Mudges Direct wins

FLORENCE, Ky. (AP) — Mudges Direct took the lead in the middle of the stretch Wednesday night and won the featured eighth race at Latonia by a neck.

Brad tries to crack Bengals

WILMINGTON, Ohio (AP) — Brad Cousino, Miami of Ohio's brilliant middleguard who was ignored in the National Football League draft, wants to crumble the myth that bigger is better.

"Ever since I've been kneehigh, people have said I'm too small to play sports," said Cousino, a 5-foot-11 free agent trying to crack the Cincinnati Bengals talent-laden linebacking ranks.

"So I went out and became an all-star hockey player, a damn good wrestler and an All-America football player. Now I'm 220 pounds and they're still saying I'm too small," said Cousino.

Cousino's pride has been bruised ever since the NFL draft in January, a month after he had helped Miami wrap up its second consecutive unbeaten season.

"I was really down. Out of 442 players drafted, I knew I was better than a lot of them. What really hurt was when I saw basketball players drafted who had never played football before," said the Toledo native.

The Bengals called him that night and offered a free agent contract that he signed within three weeks.

"I've always had a lot going against me. I was a walk-on as a freshman at Miami and made it. Last year I was getting double-teamed by guys 260-270 pounds and beating them. There's got to be a place for me in football.

"I went too far to give it up now, but if I find out I can't make it, I'll accept it-but not without a fight," he said.

As usual, he's bitten off a big challenge.

The Bengals are loaded with linebackers and the axe is likely to hit hardest there when Coach Paul Brown starts culling.

"I know I have two things going against me here: size and a new position," said Cousino. The middle guard position is seldom utilized in pro football.

"There's so much to learn, but I can do it. Size doesn't mean that much to me. It's how you play and your instructions.

"Maybe I was overlooked because Miami has that 'small school' image. But look at our record. In the past two years, we've beaten Purdue, Kentucky, Florida and Georgia and won two bowl games. There's nothing small about that."

Dressler practices in full grid gear

WILMINGTON, Ohio (AP) — Doug Dressler, veteran Cincinnati Bengals fullback, practiced in full gear Wednesday for the first time as the Bengals continued their twice-a-day drills in 90-degree weather at Wilmington College.

Dressler had been out with an ankle injury sustained prior to the opening of camp 10 days ago.

Linebacker Jim LeClair, fullback Ed Williams and defensive back Lamar Parrish did not participate due to assorted injuries.

Cleveland Browns hold 1st scrimmage

KENT, Ohio (AP) — The Cleveland Browns had their first scrimmage Wednesday, with the offensive unit making the better showing under the guidance of free agent quarterback Ken Polke.

Polke, who spent a short period last year with the Miami Dolphins during the players strike, led the offensive unit to two touchdowns.

Polke completed five of six passes for 79 yards.

SCHOOLS SAID TRYING TO DO TOO MUCH

URBANA, Ill. (AP) — Schools cost too much because they are trying to do too much, Michael Bakalis, former Illinois superintendent of public instruction, says.

Bakalis, now a visiting professor of education at Northwestern University and the University of Illinois here, urges schools to concentrate on two goals. They are teaching children skills, such as reading and analytical thinking, needed for a lifetime of learning, and helping youngsters develop a positive self-concept.

He said that we have been throwing on to the schools the responsibility for being leaders in desegregating, sex education and drug education, "which I am not sure they are able to do."

"Perhaps other government agencies should have the job of trying to solve these problems."

Only the state of Alaska has fewer people and is more thinly settled than Nevada.

A Suntan Requires Patience

The time has come again to warn readers about the joy and the hazards of sunbathing. I am always amazed by the number of letters from readers who describe their ghastly experience with a severe sunburn that "ruined my holiday."

Despite repeated warnings by doctors and health officials there are people who continue to overexpose themselves to sunlight on the first day of a holiday.

When the sunlight is intense it takes only a few minutes to launch the tanning process.

From then on, gradual increases in the time of exposure each day give one a satisfactory tan without the needless pain of a severe burn.

It is often forgotten that sun reflected off the sea and sand, even on mildly cloudy day, may penetrate the skin and burn it.

Protective creams and lotions serve an important function. Many people, however, develop a false sense of security that these products will protect them from all degrees of intense sunlight. Consequently, they chance getting a severe burn while getting a rapid tan.

For cosmetic reasons, many women today are avoiding the sun completely. It is thought that constant exposure dries the skin and produces premature wrinkles.

An additional thought about safety must be mentioned. People who tend to develop crusting or ulceration of the skin should plan their sunning with their doctors' direction.

The relationship between constant penetrating sunburns and superficial cancer of the skin, especially in fair-skinned people, is given a great deal of credence these days. Again, this is a matter for individual consultation with the doctor.

Are there any special ways of preventing infections of the bladder? My daughter, aged 10, is a constant sufferer.

Mrs. T.T.M., Fla.

Dear Mrs. M.:

Bladder infection, or cystitis, is a common problem in children and adults, especially in girls and women.

Repeated infections may be attributed to poor genital hygiene. If the area is not properly cleansed, bacteria from the rectal and vaginal area can be introduced into the bladder.

Infections of the kidney may also be responsible for repeated cystitis. A thorough examination of the genito-urinary tract, with cultures and X-rays, is essential.

Canton freezes gas rates

CANTON, Ohio (AP) — Canton has frozen East Ohio Gas Co. rates at their 1974 level and the utility said Tuesday it would appeal the action to the Public Utilities Commission of Ohio.

Mayor Stanley Cmich signed the emergency legislation bringing about the freeze. Council also passed a resolution appropriating $30,000 to pay legal and technical costs involved.

The PUCO, according to chairman C. Luther Heckman, can modify, uphold or change the rates.

The City of Akron had earlier taken similar action on East Ohio rate requests.

Heckman, in Columbus, said the freezing of rates by ordinance would have been unusual a couple of years ago but was now becoming commonplace.

"In the past, the utilities and a municipality usually worked the rates out among themselves and we were not involved," Heckman said. "That's not true today."

Canton City Solicitor Harry E. Klide led the drive to freeze the rates at their April 1974 figure. Another portion of the ordinance sets the purchased gas adjustment clause at its June 1974 rate.

East Ohio has 41,146 residential customers in Canton. It sold about $27 million worth of gas in the city in 1974.

Ralph K. Child, Executor of the Estate of Murriel J. Hays, Washington C.H., Ohio, Plaintiff, -vs- Masonic Home for the Aged, Springfield, Ohio, et al., Defendants.

TO: Ohio Shrine for Crippled Children of Columbus, Ohio, whose existence and address are unknown and cannot, with reasonable diligence, be ascertained.

You will take notice that Ralph K. Child commenced his civil action in the Court of Common Pleas, Probate Division of Fayette County, Ohio, in the above styled case.

The sum and substance of his complaint is that he is unable to ascertain an organization with the exact name Ohio Shrine for Crippled Children of Columbus, Ohio, and therefore asks the Court which Shriner's Crippled Children Organization he should make payment to as the true beneficiary named in paragraph (a) of Item Five of the Will of Murriel J. Hays, deceased. The defendants, Shriner's Hospitals for Crippled Children and Aladdin Crippled Children's Hospital Association, Inc. are the only two known Shriner's Crippled Children Organizations in the vicinity of Columbus, Ohio.

The defendant, Masonic Home for the Aged, Springfield, Ohio, is the only other residuary legatee and devisee named in the Will of Murriel J. Hays, deceased.

You are hereby required to answer said complaint and set up your claim or forever be barred to what interest you may have in said estate, on or before the 2nd day of September, 1975.

Defendants.
No. 756PC5028
LEGAL NOTICE

The unknown heirs and devisees of Mary Ellen Briggs, deceased; the unknown heirs and devisees of the unknown heirs and devisees of Mary Ellen Briggs, deceased; and the unknown spouses of all of the above named or designated defendants, all their names and last known addresses and residences being unknown, will take notice that on the 4th day of June 1975, Esto G. Haithcock, Sr., Administrator of the Estate of Bessie May Briggs, deceased, filed a Complaint in the Court of Common Pleas, Probate Division, of Fayette County, Ohio, at Washington C. H., Ohio, Case No. 756PC5028, against Henry B. Pearce, Administrator of the Estate of Mary Ellen Briggs, deceased, and others, which Complaint sets forth that there was no personal property belonging to decedent with which to pay the debts of said Estate and costs of administration and asking the Court for authority to sell the following described real estate:

Situated in the County of Fayette, in the State of Ohio and in the City of Washington and bounded and described as follows:

Being the N.W. Half of In Lot Number One Hundred and Seven (107) and the N.W. Half of In Lot Number One Hundred and Eight (108) in said City as will more fully appear by reference to the recorded plat of said City in Plat Book A, Page 486, Fayette County Recorder's Office.

FIRST TRACT: Beginning at a stake in the West line of Hinde Street 82½ feet northwest of an alley and corner to C. W. Sodders; thence with the West line of said Street, North 41 degrees W. 39½ feet to a stake corner to the grantor; thence at right angles with said Street South 49 degrees West 104 feet to a stake, corner to the grantor; thence at right angles S. 41 degrees E. 39½ feet to a stake corner to the grantor and in the line of said Sodders; thence North 49 degrees E. 104 feet to the beginning, containing Forty-One Hundred and Sixty (4160) square feet of land and being part of Lots 107 and 108 in the City of Washington C.H., Ohio, and being the same premises conveyed to Bessie M. Briggs by Mary E. Pearce and Henry Pearce, her husband, by deed dated April 10, 1914, and recorded in Vol. 38, Page 559, Deed Records, Fayette County, Ohio.

SECOND TRACT: Beginning at a stake in the East line of an alley and corner to a lot formerly owned by C. W. Sodders; thence with the line of said Sodders N. 49 degrees E. 61 feet to a stake corner to the grantee; thence N. 41 degrees W, 39½ feet to the corner of grantee and in the line of grantor; thence S. 49 degrees W, 61 feet to a point in the line of said alley; thence with the line of said alley S. 41 degrees E, 39½ feet to the beginning, containing 2409 square feet, more or less, and being a part of In Lot No. 108 in said City of Washington, and being the same premises conveyed to Bessie M. Briggs by Mary E. Pearce, widow by deed dated May 16th, 1938, and recorded in Vol. 69, Page 27, Deed Records, Fayette County, Ohio.

EXCEPTING from the above described real estate a strip of ground 10 feet in width and 82½ feet in depth off the Southwest corner of the tract herein conveyed.

The prayer of said Complaint was that the plaintiff be authorized to have said property reappraised and to sell said real estate and that he be authorized to employ an auctioneer to assist him in said sale and that said auctioneer use display ads along with his other advertising.

Said defendant is required to answer within twenty-eight days after the last publication of this notice.

Elyria woman injured in two-auto collision

An Elyria woman was treated at Fayette Memorial Hospital for injuries received in a two-car collision at the intersection of Oakland and Clinton avenues at 12:45 p.m. Wednesday.

Washington C.H. police reported cars driven by Dana H. Kellenberger, 72, of 4046 Camp Grove Rd., and Lawrence R. Strouse, 25, Elyria, collided when Kellenberger allegedly failed to yield right of way at the intersection. He was cited. Stourse's wife, Kathleen, 24, showed visible signs of injury at the scene and was transported to the hospital by ambulance. Police stated she received 11 stitches in her forehead and was also treated for bruises of the leg and head and for neck pain. She was later released.

Her husband claimed injury and Kellenberger was reported as showing visible signs of injury also, but the two men were not treated. Police estimated damage incurred by both autos as severe.

House backs strong rape protection bill

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The House has given resounding support to a bill aimed at strengthening rape laws by encouraging the prosecution of rapists and protecting the reputations of their victims.

The bill was approved 98-0 and returned to the Senate for concurrence. If the upper chamber agrees with the House version, the plan will be forwarded to Gov. James A. Rhodes for immediate enactment.

Rep. Virginia Aveni, D-17 Cleveland, the House sponsor said forcible rape had increased among violent crimes nationwide by 200 per cent since 1974.

"A woman's life is shaped by the perpetual threat of rape," Mrs. Aveni said. She argued the affect of the current law "is often to put the victim on trial rather than the accused."

Supporters of a tougher rape law, like Atty. Gen. William J. Brown who drafted the bill and Senate sponsor Marigene Valiquette, D-11 Toledo, say that most victims never report assaults because they fear embarrassing courtroom situations.

The Senate-approved bill would in most cases prohibit details of a victim's sexual past from being introduced as evidence by the defense during a trial. Women would also no longer have to prove that they physically resisted their attacker.

It would establish a mandatory five-year sentence for a second offense with no opportunity for probation or parole. Assaults on youngsters under 13 would bring a minimum 10 years in prison on second conviction.

Victims could hire their own lawyers to represent them in court, in addition to government prosecutors who handle rape cases under current law.

Mrs. Aveni won support for an amendment removing a section that would have permitted the defense to challenge a victim's credibility based on her sexual conduct.

"We are breaking very new ground in the legal process," contended Rep. Richard H. Finan, R-19 Cincinnati, who voted against the amendment. "To limit a defendant's scope of examination presents very serious constitutional problems."

Benson Woman, executive director of the American Civil Liberties Union of Ohio, agreed. "There's a constitutional right to confront (one's accuser)," he said.

A judge could rule in a private hearing to allow evidence about a woman's sexual background if it pertained to the defendant; to the origin of semen, pregnancy or disease, or if it tended to prove a scheme.

Amendments were offered to increase prison penalties beyond the provisions of the bill, but all were voted down.
